"MIRACLE MAN" COMING

Firemen To Have Great Picture On April 26th With Vaudeville

"The Miracle Man," the greatest picture ever produced by motion picture, which has been causing such a great sensation in New York and elsewhere, will be shown on April 26th at the Auditorium, Princess Anne. The picture was to have been shown on April 9th, but owing to the great demand for it all over the country the date had to be postponed until the 26th.

This wonderful picture story is now being shown in the large cities for prices ranging from 75 cents to $2.50, and the price here will be 50 cents. The firemen wanted to give the people of our town the best money could buy, and they feel secure that they have obtained the par excellence of what the country affords.

In addition to the picture there will be five vaudeville acts by the youngsters, which should keep those happy who do not like pictures. The proceeds of the entertainment will be used to start a fund to buy an automobile fire engine of the latest improved type.

Help the good cause. Tickets will be for sale by the firemen on April 18th, and if you want to see the "doings" buy yours early, as the picture will only be run one time.

What The Civic Club Has Done

The Civic Club met at the Washington Hotel last Wednesday and elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. George W. Maslin; vice-presidents, Mrs. J. D. Wallop, Mrs. J. T. Taylor, Mrs. Albert Krause; treasurer, Mrs. George W. Brown; secretary, Mrs. J. Arthur Powell.

This club was organized in 1911 and has received from dues, donations and entertainments $585.00. It has bought waste paper cans for $28.00; paid $111.65 for the cleaning up of the town; has spent $73.90 for shrubs and evergreens to beautify the court house plaza, and planted a mile of red oaks north and south of town at a cost of $37.43. These trees were ruthlessly destroyed. The club has also given nozzles to the company which cost $49.00; made small donations to the hospital at Crisfield; provided a "rest room" for the Washington High School; given prizes for well-kept yards; provided lime for whitewashing, and has waged war against spitting on the streets and scattering papers and trash. It has also paid $33.00 to the Federation of Women's Clubs and paid various bills for printing, rent of town hall, etc. In all these enterprises it has had the cooperation of the town commissioners.

If every woman in the town would join the club and pay the small fee of 50 cents yearly we could easily have the prettiest town on the Eastern Shore.

"Let us then be up and doing—Still achieving, still pursuing."

Death Of George Greenwood

Mr. George Greenwood, one of Somerset's most highly respected farmers, died at the home of his sons, Messrs. Frank S. and William E. Greenwood, near Princess Anne, last Wednesday evening, aged 85 years.

Mr. Greenwood had been in failing health for about eighteen months. He was born December 31st, 1833, in Bradford, Yorkshire, England, and came to America in 1864 and settled in Oxford, Boston county, Indiana. In 1913 he and his family moved to Somerset county, where he had purchased the "Fluer farm," about three miles southwest of Princess Anne.

He is survived by four sons, Messrs. Frank T. and William E. Greenwood, who reside on the home place; Hiram Greenwood, of Sioux City, Iowa, and Jonas O. Greenwood, of Hoopston, Ills.

Funeral services were held in Manokin Presbyterian Church last Friday afternoon, conducted by the Rev. W. L. Freund. Interment was in the church cemetery beside his wife, who died about four years ago.

Wade Calls Committee

Dr. J. Hubert Wade, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, while in Annapolis last Tuesday night, called a meeting of the committee in Baltimore on April 8th. The chief business of the committee will be to fix a date for the State convention which will elect delegates to the National convention and nominate eight candidates for presidential electors.

"Oh, Boy!" At Auditorium Tonight

The attraction at the Auditorium tonight (Tuesday) will be an all-star cast headed by June Caprice in "Oh, Boy!" This is a farce-comedy which is a riot of laughter from start to finish—a scream of delight—played by an aggregation of stars of the first magnitude and fame on screen and stage—with comedies of every style furnishing picturesque scenes and lovely tableaux.

Dusting Strawberries

A large number of growers in the vicinity of Marion obtained very good results last year in controlling the strawberry weevil. The weevil is a small beetle which lays eggs in the stem of the blossoms and then cuts off the blossoms. This greatly reduced yield and was a severe loss to the growers.

It has been demonstrated to the satisfaction of the growers that this insect can be controlled at a small cost. The results were so satisfactory last year that many of the growers obtained from one-third to one-half increased yields on dusted plants. This season practically all the growers in the vicinity of Marion and a number near Princess Anne and Eden will dust their berries for the control of this insect.

The dust used is a mixture of 85 per cent. sulphur and 15 per cent. Arsenate of lead, applied at the rate of 50 to 75 pounds to the acre with a small hand duster. First application is made as the first buds appear and another application is given a week to ten days later. All the injury is done before the blossoms open and it is necessary for control of the insect that two dustings are given before the blossoms open.

At the present high prices of berries it will pay the growers to apply this dust and control this insect and avoid a loss which can be prevented. A number of demonstrations have been arranged by County Agent C. Z. Keller and farmers desiring further information should get in touch with him.

The prevailing winds were southwest.

WHITE-ROMBERGER WEDDING

Princess Anne Man Wedded To A Harrisburg Lady

A wedding, charming in its simplicity, was solemnized at noon last Tuesday, when Miss Elba I. Romberger and Mr. Vernon Evans White, of Princess Anne, were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ira P. Romberger, 2223 North Second street, Harrisburg, Pa. The Rev. Dr. Edwin A. Pyles, pastor of Fifth Street Methodist Episcopal Church, officiated.

Prior to the ceremony, Mrs. A. Bowman Snavely, of Hershey, sang "Because" and "At Dawning," accompanied by Miss Martha A. Lawton, who played the "Bridal Chorus," from Lohengrin, as the processional, and the Mendelssohn "Wedding March" as the recessional. During the ceremony "Traumerei" was softly played.

The service was read in the living-room before a mantle banked with palms, primroses and jonquils. The walls and lights were draped with Alabama smilax, while tall floor baskets of pussy-willows were placed about the room. The same effect was carried out in the reception room.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivory satin, with simple round neck and small sleeves of lace. Cascades of exquisite Spanish lace fell from waist to the hem at the sides of the skirt. She carried a shower bouquet of roses, lilacs and sweetpeas, and her only ornament was a rope of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. F. Milton Walls, of Pocomoke City, was the matron of honor. She wore a frock of pink Georgette crepe and lace with tucked overskirt. The front of the blouse was veiled with lace and beaded in crystal. She carried marguerites and ferns. Miss S. Margaret Romberger, a sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and her frock, of French blue Georgette crepe and satin, was heavily beaded. Her bouquet was of pink sweetpeas and fern. Mr. Omar J. Crowell, cashier of the Peoples Bank, of Somerset County, Princess Anne, a cousin of the bridegroom, was best man.

Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served to the members of the bridal party, in the dining room, where the table was festooned with alabaster vine, after which Mr. and Mrs. White left on a wedding trip to Atlantic City. The bride wore a tailored traveling suit of dark blue tulle, with hat to harmonize.

Mrs. White is a former student of Irving College, where she specialized in art. She is well known throughout Harrisburg, and is popular among a wide circle of friends. Mr. White is employed as assistant cashier in the Peoples Bank, of Somerset County. They will reside in Princess Anne, where they will be "At Home" after Easter.

Treatment Of Seed Potatoes For Scab

Scab has caused considerable loss to farmers in this county on their early potatoes. This disease can be controlled to a certain degree by using seed potatoes free from scab. Potatoes that show scab can be used for seed if they are treated with a solution of 40 per cent. formalin at rate of one pint to thirty gallons of water.

The potatoes should be soaked for an hour and a half to two hours before cutting and spread thinly to dry. If left in bag they will heat and the buds will be ruined. After soaking two or three lots of potatoes the solution should be changed as it loses its strength.

If the same bags are used they should be treated as well as the planter to avoid the potatoes being reinfested with the scab. The following points are of importance in considering this disease: Acid conditions in the soil are injurious to the growth of scab. Lime and manure aid the growth of scab, while commercial fertilizer renders the soil less favorable to the disease.

Scabby potatoes will inoculate clean land. Exposing the potatoes to sunlight for four weeks before planting reduces percentage of scab and hastens growth.

The scab organism will live in the soil at least six years without potatoes being present. This makes it important to rotate crops and avoid planting potatoes in soil containing scab as long as possible.

For further information write County Agent C. Z. Keller.

Mary Pickford Married Again

Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks have been married. The ceremony was performed Sunday, March 28th, by Rev. J. Whitcomb Brougher, pastor of the Temple Baptist Church, Los Angeles, Cal. The wedding occurred just 28 days after Miss Pickford secured her divorce from Owen Moore at Minden, Nev.

PARENT-TEACHERS' MEETING

Organization Formed And Officers Elected Last Wednesday Night

Last Wednesday evening a meeting was held at the Court House to organize a Parent-Teachers' Association for the Princess Anne High School. A similar organization had been effected some years ago but that organization had been abandoned. To enthrust the people of Princess Anne with a proper regard for their own High School, was the object of the present call. Quite a number of persons were in attendance. A special effort will be made to secure the attendance of patrons who reside out of the town to gain their interest. The call will also be extended to every citizen of the town, whether patrons or not. In other words, the purpose will be to get the whole community behind the High School.

The following officers were elected: President, Ray Gibbons; vice-president, Mrs. T. J. Smith; secretary, Mrs. E. B. Polk; treasurer, Mrs. J. G. Scott.

Mr. W. A. N. Bowland, principal of the school, was called upon to state the purpose of the meeting and organization. Mr. Bowland said that too little interest had been shown in the High School and its work and that the purpose of this organization was to invite on the part of the public a better and more generous interest than had been apparent. His idea was that visits to the school by suitable committees would have the effect of studying conditions and thus prepare the way for suitable calls for relief from the county officials.

Mrs. R. F. Duer was accordingly elected chairman of a permanent committee whose duty it shall be to visit the school once each month and report to the organization the result of its investigation. It was ordered that monthly meetings of the Parent-Teachers' Association should be held the third Friday of each month, at the Court House, at 8 p. m. The committee, including the chairman, to make the first visit are the following: Mrs. H. P. Dashiell, Mrs. Thomas Pinto, Mr. John E. Holland and Mr. T. D. Nichols.

Mr. Bowland stated that a new piano was badly needed and that one would shortly be ordered. He stated that a committee had been appointed to sell luncheons, consisting of sandwiches, coffee, milk, pie, ice cream, lemonade, etc., on Field Day, April 22nd, the proceeds to go for the purchase of the piano and that every effort must be made to make the sale successful.

There are over 300 children attending the Princess Anne High School, and of this over 100 are in the High School Department. The space afforded by the building for these pupils, including Manual Training and Domestic Science Departments, is very contracted indeed, and some relief is fully expected. Plans have already been drawn for buildings, but the expense has always prevented the work of building. It will be part of the duty of the visiting committee to inspect the building and its arrangements and to report conditions to the Parent-Teachers' Association, and thus pave the way for suitable approaches to the county authorities for relief, if such is needed. The teachers at the High School are: W. A. N. Bowland, principal; W. Stewart Fitzgerald, vice-principal; Mrs. Mary D. Fitzgerald, Miss Sarah T. Joyner, Miss Florida Ashby (Manual Training), Miss J. Frances Moore (Domestic Science), Miss Elizabeth Cahill, Miss A. Ruth Caton, Miss Nannie C. Fontaine and Miss Jane D. Wilson.

Suffrage Defeated In Delaware

Ratification of the Equal Suffrage Amendment was defeated in the lower house of the Delaware Legislature last Thursday. The vote was 23 to 9. The defeat of the ratification resolution dashes to earth the hope of the suffrage leaders that Delaware would become the thirty-sixth State to ratify suffrage and thus achieve the prestige of casting the vote that would give women the right of the ballot.

Woman suffrage leaders predicted Thursday that Louisiana would be the thirty-sixth State to ratify the Federal Suffrage Amendment. The Legislature meets May 10th.

Smith Files Papers Of Candidacy

United States Senator John Walter Smith filed with Secretary of State Perlman, at Annapolis last Wednesday afternoon a certificate of his candidacy for renomination for the office he now holds. Mr. O. E. Weller will be Senator Smith's Republican opponent. In case there is no opposition to either within their respective parties the names will not have to appear on the primary ballot.

Collector of Internal Revenue Joshua W. Miles, who had been attending court at Snow Hill last week, spent the week-end in Princess Anne.

FACTS ABOUT OUR GOVERNMENT

Local Financial Institution To Distribute Information

Not for years has there been such evident unrest as exists in the world today. Even the casual reader of the daily newspaper sees that the world is sick and needs a doctor. The way to social health is through an awakened interest in the affairs of our Government and an increased feeling of our responsibility in its welfare and administration. Not until we understand the magnitude and efficiency of the United States Government do we feel the respect for it and the pride in participating in it that it deserves.

At the present moment, in spite of all our unrest, the United States is the most favored of the world's nations. We have enjoyed a century and a half of the "government of the people, for the people, by the people." It is not perfect, but it is the strongest, most substantial and most efficient government in the world today.

The Peoples' Bank of Somerset county is contemplating the free distribution among its friends and patrons of a series of highly illustrated articles on the Government of the United States. The articles, although written in popular form, will be of real educational value. They are to be mailed directly to the homes of this community without charge. This plan is in keeping with the new idea that every progressive financial institution owes a broader service to its community. The modern bank is no longer only a place where money is deposited at one window and drawn at another. It is rather a center of constructive and helpful information to which any one may bring his financial problems with some confidence of finding a solution for them.

These stories are designed to show the benefits that each of us derives from the service of the Government. They have been brought up to the minute, and however well informed the reader may be he is sure to find something new in them. They have a particular appeal to new citizens, foreigners and school children, as well as furnishing interesting and instructive reading to practically everyone. The community is sure to benefit from this distribution and every home should have a complete set.

Never before have Americans taken such an intense interest in the Government. The extension of income taxes and the widespread purchase of Liberty Bonds have made us all financial partners in its welfare. We all want to know more about it and we have a right to know. That is why the publication of this material comes at precisely the right moment and why it may be expected to be so welcome. This public interest in Governmental affairs is a healthy and natural interest. It will lead to increased knowledge, a more intelligent understanding and a long strong stride ahead. This community is to be congratulated on the foresight and enterprise that brings this material within the reach of everyone.

We understand that it is the desire to make this distribution as wide as possible. Some, however, are sure to be overlooked and as the supply of articles is necessarily limited, it is suggested that everyone who wishes to receive them call at the bank and leave their names for inclusion in the mailing list. It has been anticipated that many will wish to keep each number of the series of Governmental articles as received, as each deal with a different Department of the Government. For this purpose it is understood that there is available a limited number of beautiful containers, one of which can be obtained by any person desiring it by calling during banking hours for it.

Wilson To Move About June First

Members of the White House staff went to Woods Hole, Mass., last Wednesday to arrange for the arrival of President Wilson and his official family about June 1st.

At the request of Joseph Murphy and Edward W. Smithers, Secret Service men who are representing Secretary Tumulty, real estate agents and other citizens made a survey of the town with a view of obtaining accommodations for several hundred clerks and Administration attaches.

Homes were sought for Rear Admiral Grayson, the President's physician, and Secretary Tumulty, and plans were made tentatively to establish the executive offices in the Government buildings occupied by the Marine Biological Laboratories. These buildings are only a short distance from Juniper Point, where President Wilson will occupy the beautiful summer residence of Charles R. Crane, Minister to China.

EX-GOV. WARFIELD'S LIFE ENDED

Was One Of The State's Most Prominent And Honored Citizens

Ex-Governor Warfield was born in Howard county, May 7th, 1848, son of Albert Gallatin Warfield.

After early education worked on his father's farm and was a country school teacher at 18.

Made Register of Wills of Howard county in 1874 at the age of 26 years.

Studied law and was elected to the State Senate in 1881. Re-elected and made-president of the Senate in 1886.

Served as Surveyor of the Port of Baltimore from 1886 to 1890.

Governor of Maryland 1904-1908.

Candidate for Democratic nomination for United States Senate in 1907; defeated by John Walter Smith.

Organized Fidelity and Deposit Company and Fidelity Trust Company and was the president of both until January last.

Served as president-general of Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, as president of the Maryland Historical Society, active in the Society of the War of 1812.

Retired from financial life Jan. 1920. Edwin Warfield, former Governor of Maryland, one of Baltimore's leading financiers and one of the State's best-known and most honored citizens, died Wednesday morning at his home in Baltimore. He had been in ill health for over a year. Next month he would have celebrated his seventy-second birthday.

Last December ex-Governor Warfield, after resigning his connection with the many public and financial bodies with which he was connected because of failing health, submitted to an operation at the Union Protestant Infirmary. Although, for some time after his life was despaired of, he at length rallied with the hope of ultimate recovery. Mr. Warfield, who was ever a fighter, made a long and valiant struggle for life, but death came about 8.30 o'clock Wednesday morning. Members of his immediate family were at his bedside when the end came.

Surviving Mr. Warfield are his widow, who before her marriage was Miss Emma Nicodemus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Nicodemus, of Baltimore, and the following children: Mme. Louise Ledochowska, Mrs. William Hugh Harris, Miss Emma Warfield and Edwin Warfield, Jr. There are also two sisters and two brothers, Mrs. M. Gillet Hill, of Baltimore; Mrs. Herman Hoopes, of West Chester, Pa., and John and Marshall T. Warfield, of Howard county.

In a survey of Mr. Warfield's long and successful public life nothing stands out more brilliantly than his deep love for his native State and his championship of patriotism. His great popularity with the people was due altogether to his sterling qualities of character and citizenship, which placed first at all times the rights of the people as a whole before any political party, and his absolute refusal to use his high office for his own political advancement, even when his name was being urged throughout the Nation as a presidential possibility.

No Governor of Maryland did more for the spirit of patriotism within the State than Mr. Warfield. He never tired of telling of the great things that Marylanders had done. He lost no opportunity to impress upon men, women and children the priceless heritage they have gained through their birth in the Old Line State. His object was to create a pride in the achievements of the past, in the belief that the pride must necessarily inspire rising generations to write as noble history of the future.

The body of former Governor Warfield was taken to the Warfield family burial ground in Howard county, after funeral services were held at 10 o'clock Friday morning at Brown Memorial Presbyterian Church, Park and Lafayette avenues, conducted by the Rev. Dr. John McDowell, former pastor of the church. The pallbearers were the Governor's nephews, M. Gillet Gill, Jr., Royal Gill, Edward and Albert Hoopes, of Philadelphia, and Joshua and Norman Warfield, of Howard county.

Samuel D. Parks Dead

Mr. Samuel D. Parks died at his home in Fairmount last Tuesday night, aged 65 years, after an illness of about a week. He had been engaged in the mercantile business in Fairmount a number of years. He was for many years a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and was making preparations to attend the session of the Wilmington Conference at the time he was taken ill. Mr. Parks is survived by a widow, Mrs. Lydia Parks, sister of former Shell Fish Commissioner B. K. Green, and one son, Mr. Seth Parks, of New York.

LOVE'S INSURANCE

By JESSIE E. SHERWIN

(Copyright, 1919, Western Newspaper Union)

Two boyhood friends met in the insurance office of Bandal Porter, and the proprietor gave Willis Borden a warm, hearty welcome.

"Come in the city to settle down, I hear," voiced the latter in a tone of pleased satisfaction. "Retired from business a rich man at twenty-eight, Borden, you are certainly one of fortune's favorites. Not married yet—but I need not ask the question. You always prided yourself as an inveterate woman hater, you know."

"You put it harshly, Porter," chided Borden mildly. "Say, rather, a being immensely contented with the single state, and inclined to be shy of the responsibilities that marriage incurs. Yes, fortunately, I have no incumbences. I intend to settle down in comfortable bachelor quarters and devote myself to reviving companionship with my old friends like yourself. You have an air of prosperity yourself," continued Borden, glancing about the well equipped office and into an inner-room where the stenographer sat, entirely occupied in work at her typewriter.

"I have done pretty well," replied Porter, with a certain pride. "Of course I may hope for any business you may have in my lines."

"As it comes along, surely. I have no property to protect from fire hazard, however. I already carry some fair life insurance. By the way, though, some of my friends have advised me that coming out of my business shell and essaying the society role I may become a victim of designing mother-in-law prospective. I say, you don't insure against marriage, do you?"

"On the contrary," replied Porter with perfect serenity, "we take Lloyd's risks on anything from a man's candidate choice of election to an airship trip around the world. Love insurance? Oh, dear, yes! and as you are non-hazardous in that respect a thousand for a year will cost you a mere pittance."

"Book me instantly!" ordered Borden, joining in the whimsical rally of the moment. "And, by the way, I expect it will be some time before I definitely settle as to my permanent place of habitat. In the meantime I have some business to transact. Would you indulge me enough to let me sort of make your office here my headquarters, dropping in once in a while when I have an appointment?"

"You will oblige and honor me by considering the office your own," replied Porter accommodatingly. "I am going East for two weeks and you can use my desk freely. Miss Trumbull—a moment please."

The stenographer was at the side of her employer in an instant.

"My friend, Mr. Borden," went on Porter, and Miss Trumbull directed a mere casual frowning glance at Porter, in recognition of the introduction, and then concentrated her attention solely upon her employer. "You will see that my friend has the full use of the office until my return."

Miss Cleora Trumbull bowed silently and was back at her typewriter with the diligence of a well-trained employee, all business, and so oblivious to Borden that he looked slightly nettled.

"There is a jewel," spoke Porter enthusiastically. "No shirking work, no wasting time, no chatting or flirting with the young men in the next office, like her predecessors. And, by the way, Borden, I half believe she is your prototype. You are a woman hater; she acts like a man hater."

"You put me in a rather ungraceful category," resented Borden, some what piqued. "The young lady is certainly an agreeable contrast to the general run of stammering, made-up coquettes it has been my fate to meet."

Porter left the city the next morning. About noon Borden came into the office. Miss Trumbull received him with a pleasant nod, but went on strictly with her work. After attending to some correspondence Borden requested her to take some dictation.

"Lightning quick in her work, and no waste," ruminated Borden, a trifle disappointed, however, for Miss Trumbull offered no excuse for a chat. His respect for the young lady increased and he realized that idleness after years of close attention to work was making life drearily monotonous. One day her mother visited the office, and he invited both to assuage his gloom by forming a theater party.

At the end of two weeks Porter returned. Borden met him at the depot. His face was so jubilant, his manner so spirited that Porter wondered what caused his excessive exhilaration.

"I say, Porter," he observed, as they proceeded toward the office, "you will have to dispense with the services of Miss Trumbull."

"Why, what do you mean?" inquired the astonished Porter.

"And you had better cancel that love insurance, or you may have to pay it."

"Cancel it?" repeated Porter vaguely.

"That's it," nodded Borden, all joyous smiles. "I don't want a good friend like you to lose a thousand dollars. I'd like to make you a present of ten, for you have been the means of showing me a new road to happiness. When we get to the office tomorrow will be in order. For I am anxious to become my isly beyond a doubt that PE-RU-NA is what you need.

PE-RU-NA may be purchased anywhere in tablet or liquid form.

When a doctor uses a medicine himself besides prescribing it to his patients, he must know that it has merit.

This is what Dr. J. H. Wagner, a prominent physician of Skates, Kentucky, has to say about Dr. Hartman's well-known remedy, PE-RU-NA: "I have used PE-RU-NA myself for catarrh and have given it to others for catarrh, bloating after eating and other ailments. It has proved a success in all cases with old and young men and women. All speak well of PE-RU-NA. It is the best of all tonics."

Dr. Wagner, out of the fullness of his own personal experience, for the good of all sick and suffering, recommends a medicine which he knows to be good. You may be sure a doctor would not endanger his professional reputation by endorsing PE-RU-NA unless satisfied beyond a doubt of its value.

Whether your trouble be a cough or a cold, or a more subtle catarrhal affection of the stomach, bowels, or other organs, give PE-RU-NA a trial. The immediate improvement which you will see will satisfy beyond a doubt that PE-RU-NA is what you need.

Genius.
The book reviewer of Everybody's Magazine drops, somewhat unaccountably, into these rhapsodical reflections on genius: "It is the queerest thing in the world, the most unexplainable. It burns now in the mind of a tax-collector's son in ancient Rome, now in a tent-maker of Persia, now in a livery keeper's son in London, now in a mixer of pills in a dreary Norwegian town. Like the wind, it 'bloweth whither it listeth.' It is a fire that may not be quenched, either by failure or success. And whether we know it or not, its rays light the paths of all of us."

Hunting Alaskan Bear.
The Alaskan bears have been hunted with perfect safety from boats among the coastal islands, and they are also comparatively easy to kill along the streams where they come in the fall to catch salmon. In this hunting the hunter lies in wait, and pots brain from a safe distance. But at that time of the year the fur is not prime. The true sportsman goes up into the mountain in the early spring, still-hunts his bear and kills him often at close quarters—unless he gets killed himself.

Product of Imported Material.
Despite the fact that although the buggy whip is manufactured exclusively in this country, all of the raw material from which it is made, excepting the thread, is imported. The whiplash used in its manufacture comes from the Arctic ocean, the rattles from the South Sea Islands and the rawhide, which is made from the skin of the carabao, comes from the Philippine Islands, or some other place where the climate is extremely warm.

The Mother's Sentence.
Let no day pass without some acknowledgment of your indebtedness to her. Study her outspoken wishes; receive her opinion with respect. Yield your will to hers with perfect sweetness. In all that she allows you to do, show by your zeal and cheerfulness that, for her sake, the employment is delightful.—Exchange.

A BRIEF REVIEW OF TELEPHONE FACTS

IN A NUMBER OF ADVERTISEMENTS appearing in this and other newspapers we have endeavored to make clear our reasons for asking the Public Service Commission for an increase in telephone rates throughout the State of Maryland. Briefly summarized, these statements have covered the following points:

- 1.—INCREASED COSTS have seriously affected us. During 1919 we did not even earn enough to pay our operating expenses and interest charges.
- 2.—INSUFFICIENT REVENUES mean that a public utility cannot fulfill its obligations, first, to serve the public and serve it well; and second, to earn a fair return. We have undertaken these obligations and must not neglect them.
- 3.—SALARIES AND WAGES, our largest single item of expense, have greatly increased. Since 1915 the average wage paid our employees has increased 77 per cent.
- 4.—TELEPHONE MATERIALS, our second largest expense, have sharply increased in cost. Since 1914 the average cost of materials has gone up 90 per cent.
- 5.—TELEPHONE RATES, conforming to an unchangeable law of trade, are governed always by the cost of producing telephone service. While a private industry might raise prices or suspend operations until conditions become more nearly normal, a public-serving company must continue doing business at rates approved by the proper authorities.
- 6.—ALTHOUGH RATE INCREASES were made effective some months ago, these rates have not proved adequate because they were based on an anticipated drop in costs. Instead of decreasing, costs have risen.

ASSUMING THAT OUR VALUATION of the company's property is fair and that our management is economical and efficient, both of which we are prepared to prove, we believe that the public will endorse our effort to earn a fair return on our investment. This is all we are asking in our petition for higher rates now pending before the Public Service Commission.

The annual meeting of the members of The Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Somerset and Worcester Counties was held at their office in Princess Anne on Wednesday last at 11 o'clock. Mr. Albert Sudler presided, and Mr. C. M. Dashiell acted as secretary. The annual report of the company was presented and accepted and the old Board of Directors was re-elected for the ensuing year. Immediately after the members meeting the Board of Directors met and organized for the ensuing year by the re-election of Thomas H. Bock as president, and Harry J. Waters, secretary and treasurer.

Spray Fruit Trees
Home orchards, at this time, should be given considerable attention. The care given now will determine to a great extent the yield of fruit which will be obtained this season. The trees should have been pruned, removing all dead branches and keeping trees thinned out, to admit sunlight and also to keep in shape and not allow to grow out of reach for spraying and picking fruit.

The dormant spray of concentrated lime-sulphur 1-9 should be given at this time as the buds are swelling for scale, aphid eggs and peach leaf curl. The next spraying for peaches should be given when buds show pink, using self-boiled lime-sulphur—8-8-50, plus 14 pounds of arsenate of lead. This spray will assist in the control of brown rot, curculio and scab. Another spraying should be given with same material as the blossoms fall and shucks start to slip. The third application should be given about four weeks later. Additional spraying should be given every three or four weeks until ripening, omitting arsenate of lead. Damp weather has a tendency to increase the spread of brown rot and it may be necessary to apply additional applications of the spray during the season.

Apples should be sprayed with commercial lime-sulphur diluted to 1 to 40 to which is added 1 to 1 1/2 pounds of arsenate of lead. First application should be given within one week after petals fall and another application ten days later, third application July 1st to 15th and fourth spraying August 1st to 15th. These sprayings will control codling moth, curculio, leaf spot disease, scab and black rot.

Relieves Rheumatic Pains
"I am subject to rheumatism and when I have a spell of it use or two applications of Chamberlain's Liniment relieves the pain and makes rest and sleep possible. I would not think of doing without it," writes Mrs. C. Owsley, Moberly, Mo.

OVER THE DIFFICULTY

Scandinavian Evidently Found Some Way to Get Around the Regulations of the Navy.

In June, 1911, writes Dr. Maurice F. Ryan in his book, "Ten Years Near the German Frontier," the Atlantic squadron stopped at Denmark on its way to Germany. One day the equerry who had been appointed to look after the admiral and his immediate suite came to me in great perplexity. It was shortly after one of the receptions given by the American officers. He held in his hand a little box.

"I am in difficulty," he said, "and I have come to ask you to help me. His majesty has received several letters from the American sailors, and there is one that especially amused him. It seems that he pleased the men by asking for the Scandinavians in your navy. A sailor who addresses him as 'Dear King' thanks him for this and declares that the men like Copenhagen so much that they beg his majesty to induce the admiral to stay a few days longer. Of course his majesty cannot do that, but he has asked me to give the little medal to this box to the sailor. I am told that it is against the rules, which seem to be very strict, yet I really cannot tell the king that I have not given the medal to the worthy sailor. You know the king's kindness of heart. I am at my wit's end, so I appeal to you."

"It is easy enough," I said. "When in a quandary of this kind call in the church."

We found the chaplain, and Frederick VIII received a grateful note, addressed, "Dear King."

BIG SPIDER WRONGLY NAMED

Insect Found in the Southwestern States and in Mexico Not Really a Tarantula.

The famous tarantula, sometimes represented as one of the terrors of the arid portions of the Southwestern states and northern Mexico, is not really, it seems, the tarantula of history and of fable.

An eminent authority in such matters, in remarking that the tarantula is a spider, says of that terrifying creature that it is the Lycosa Tarantula, a species of spider found in some of the warmer parts of Italy and Spain. When full grown it is about the size of a chestnut and of a brown color. Its bite was at one time supposed to be dangerous and to induce a kind of "dancing disease," but now it is known not to be worse than the sting of a common wasp.

It is an old fable, extending to remotest times, that the bite of this spider would produce epilepsy or a strange dancing mania in its victims, and that this epilepsy or madness could be relieved only by a particular kind of music. The tarantula of Italy and Spain—and it is found in those countries today—has hairy legs with black markings on them.

It is very likely that when the early Spanish explorers came upon the great spider of the Southwest, and seeing a good deal of resemblance to the tarantula of the Old World, those explorers, not being entomologists, called the new spider a tarantula. And the name has persisted.

Earthquake Peculiarities.

A peculiar feature of earthquakes is that they seem to undulate the ground with a twisting motion. This effect is quite noticeable in almost every Central American or southern Mexico quake, when straight rows of trees are shifted into irregular zig-zags or light buildings twisted about on their foundations, and many odd effects are created in this manner. Statistics tend to show that the maximum of earthquake disturbances occurs in the northern hemisphere during the months of January, August and October, with a minimum during May, June and July. The southern hemisphere's period of greatest activity is November, May and June, while the minimum is in March and August. It will be noted from the above that the period of greatest activity is during the cool months, and although this may not appear to be true in regard to the Southern hemisphere, it must be remembered that its seasons are just the reverse of ours in the northern hemisphere.

First Transcontinental Railroad.

The completion of the first railway which made it possible to go by rail from the Atlantic to the Pacific was celebrated on May 10, 1869, when a gold spike was driven to commemorate the joining of the Central Pacific and the Union Pacific at Promontory, Utah. The scene was depicted by Bret Harte in a poem which is preserved for the future by a massive painting which had wide popularity. The stellar last spike of the Northern Pacific was driven September 8, 1893, near the mouth of Gold creek in Montana. On the earlier road the first through car from the Pacific reached New York on July 24, 1870.

Motor as Rival of Camel.

The camel replaces the motor truck in the general hauling in Asia Minor. By this means twelve miles a day is traversed, but where the camel "has it on" the motor truck is in the upshot. The camel needs nothing but the few weeds and blades of grass he can pick from under the roadside. The great difficulty with the animal as a mode of transportation is that all articles must be of a nature that will stand a long journey.

Tilghman's Fish Fertilizers Produce More Dollars Per Acre

No progressive farmer today disputes the value and necessity of fertilizers. Your County Agent will tell you that the quickest and easiest way to increase production per acre, consequently your profits per acre, is through the correct use of the right kind of fertilizer.

For the past thirty-two years, TILGHMAN'S FISH FERTILIZERS have been the choice of the farmers in this community. Combining high proportions of Potash and Fish scrap, TILGHMAN'S FERTILIZERS give to your soil that vitality and new life so necessary to produce big yields.

Do not think you save money by using a cheap grade of fertilizer. Your soil and labor are too precious to gamble with. There is no necessity for running any chance or risk, when you can buy a standard plant food, such as TILGHMAN'S, that has stood the test in this community against all comers for the past thirty-two years.

If you want to make every acre of Sweet Potatoes produce more dollars for you, ask your dealer for TILGHMAN'S FISH FERTILIZERS.

GOOD YEAR

A LIFE'S ROMANCE

By WALTER J. DELANEY

(Copyright, 1920, Western Newspaper Union)

It was no joyous elopement or ardent love adventure. Very rationally Arnold Brant and Eugenie Valle had met fifty miles from her home, had gone to an obscure clergyman, and been united in marriage. The new husband had just time to catch a train across the continent within the hour, and those two, so hurriedly bound in wedlock, as hurriedly parted.

"In two years, dear," he said, as he kissed her good-by.

"You wouldn't wait? You would have it so," she sighed. "I hope it is for the best."

"The knowledge that you are mine, all mine," returned Arnold Brant, "will inspire me to make a business success."

The train flashed away, the bride waved an adieu through a mist of tears. Before noon she was back at home, passing into the house of her brother Hartley, with whom she lived and no one was the wiser.

Hers had been a strange experience. Almost from her baby days she had been dominated by her brother's will. He had one thought in life—to make money. A cold, unsympathetic being, he chilled all the sweetness out of the life of Eugenie, and when she was seventeen forced her into marrying Peter Wynne.

The latter was a man with prospects, which Hartley magnified. The cheerless honeymoon lasted less than a month and then Wynne went to the far North to develop some mining property. It turned out a complete fiasco, and a year later word was received that Wynne was dead. Before that event Eugenie pined in solitude until, at a neighbor's home, she met Arnold Brant. There was no impulse of disloyalty to Wynne, but a deep, unspoken love existed between those two.

When the news came of the death of Wynne, both Brant and herself knew that the self-seeking Hartley, Valle would never sanction their union. Brant had the offer of a position in Australia. He induced Eugenie to consent to the secret marriage. And when they parted at the steps of the altar and possible years of parting faced them, Eugenie was supremely happy, for she had found love at last.

Only one letter Eugenie received from Brant, telling that he was about to start into the most remote part of the country and that, if his purpose succeeded, he would return with sufficient means to win him the approbation and recognition of her mercenary brother.

Then to Eugenie came an appalling discovery. The full details of the illness and death of Wynne arrived. The first news had been premature. He was mortally ill, but survived for several months. Acting upon the initial intelligence, Eugenie had wedded Brant fifteen days before the demise of her first husband.

The later ceremony was illegal, and she was simply a widow and the man she cherished as her life's mate was no more than an utter stranger. She at once wrote to Brant, trusting to the letter finally reaching him however remote he might be from civilization.

A year went by and there was no indication that Brant had received the letter.

There was an old man named Mark Denvir who had been a power in the business world, but now a helpless invalid. Hartley had cultivated him in the hopes of utilizing his past prestige for his own benefit. One day he came to Eugenie astounding her with an offer of marriage from Denvir.

"It means independence for you," represented the subtle schemer, "for he will not live long."

Eugenie shrank from the proposal, but the artful and persistent Hartley finally overcame her opposition. A seeming plaything of destiny, forgotten, at least neglected by the only man she had ever loved, Eugenie consented to the sacrifice for her brother's sake.

Denvir died within a month. Hartley made a fortune, died before a year was over, and Eugenie was at last truly independent, but she considered her wealth as mere dress, for it failed to bring her happiness.

Another year passed by. Amid her self-enforced solitude Eugenie found no surcease to the vague longing for the peace of mind and contentment fate had so cruelly denied her. A stray item in a newspaper, citing the discovery of a man named Arnold Brant in another city, detailed his being removed to a hospital from a wretched tenement room where he had lain down to die amid poverty, illness and despair.

It was Eugenie who had hastened to the side of the fever-stricken man, who, after days of weary watching, met the first intelligent words of the convalescent. She was the confidante of his terrible struggles in an unfriendly wilderness, culminating in the utter failure of all his plans. It was Eugenie who joined in his tears, whilst sobbing out the pathetic story of her own unhappy life. And then—

Not at the altar this time, but beside that humble cot, those two were reunited in a new simple second ceremony that promised to result in the happiness and peace both had so longed for, and so truly deserved.

England's Ancient Inns.

What is the oldest English inn? The Crown of Chiddingfold, for sale, dates from the fourteenth century, but The Fighting Cocks at St. Albans, claiming to date from 795, is the oldest inhabited house in England. At the Angel at Blyth, Nottingham, Richard, bishop of Durham, stayed in 1274, and his bill is still preserved.

Spanish Sardine.

The principal industry of Vigo, Spain, is sardine packing. The Vigo district furnishes almost one-fourth of the world's production of sardines. The exports of those in oil in 1918 amounted to 1,017,000 cases of 100 tins each, with an estimated total value of $13,000,000.

Shakespeare's Greenwood.

Less than three hours' travel from dirty, busy London is the forest of Arden, which is hallowed in the minds of all who speak English by the fact that Shakespeare found in it the inspiration for his woodland scenes, and especially for the fantastically beautiful ones of "A Midsummer Night's Dream." The great oaks under which his fairies danced still stretch out their branches over the shadow-dappled sward.

Unknown Influences.

The rhythmic law of nature merits wide study. But we have collected enough evidence to show that body growth in children, body weight in adults, appetite for food, fitness for work, the recurrence of illness, periodic mental depression, tendency to crime, impulsion to suicide, rise and fall of blood temperature, and falling in love are all influenced by a mysterious revolution.

Qualities of Good Citizen.

Definition of a good citizen: A good citizen is one who observes all national, state, and municipal laws and is willing to assist in their enforcement; he is honest and fearless; he is loyal to home, friends, and country, and he does what he can to assist in promoting the moral, intellectual, and physical welfare of the people.

In 2000 Counties This Month

*The Forces of the Church of Christ
Will Gather To Face the Facts*

IN 2000 counties in the United States the pastors and laymen of 30 great denominations will meet in conference this month.

It is the kind of conference that generals hold before a critical engagement; that business men hold before entering a new market. A conference of judgment, not emotion; a clear-eyed facing of the facts.

A Survey that Business Men Must Admire

For more than a year hundreds of workers have been quietly engaged in making a scientific survey of the mission fields, and of America county by county.

The facts developed are startling. No such picture of America's religious situation has ever before been drawn.

On the basis of these surveys thirty Protestant denominations are uniting in a Nation Wide Cooperative Campaign

Each of the thirty denominations has its own "Forward Movement" organized and offered. The Interchurch World Movement is the clearing house for all of these.

It is the agency which the churches have created to avoid duplication, to foster cooperation and make sure that every man and dollar render the utmost service possible.

The month of April will be devoted to making the facts of the survey known to America; in the week of April 25th-May 2nd, will come a united simultaneous financial campaign.

Whether You Are Inside the Church or Out

To every man and every woman who loves his country, these 2000 county conferences are vitally important.

For the facts developed by this great survey show vividly what forces are at work in America—and what kind of a country this country is to be.

See that the pastor of your church appoints delegates. Any pastor can tell you the conference place and date. Or write direct to the

BACHACHE IS A WARNING

Princess Anne People Should Not Neglect Their Kidneys

Backache is often nature's most frequent signal of weakened kidneys. To cure the pains and aches, to remove the lameness when it arises from weakened kidneys, you must reach the cause—the kidneys. If you have pain through the small of your back, urinary disorders, headaches, dizzy spells, or are nervous and depressed, start treating the kidneys with a tested kidney remedy.

Doan's Kidney Pills have been proved good and are especially for weak kidneys. Doan's have been used in kidney trouble for over 50 years. Read Princess Anne testimony.

Mrs. E. L. Smith, 106 Beckford Ave., says: "Some years ago I was in a bad way from severe backache. My back was very painful, especially when I stooped over and sharp pains caught me when I straightened up. I was very miserable and one day I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills. After using two boxes I was rid of the trouble. I can say nothing too good for Doan's Kidney Pills."

THE HARDWARE QUESTION SOLVED

Going to Build

No matter what you intend to build—whether it's a house, barn or merely a shelf in the pantry—you have to have tools. And the better the tools, the better the job. Poor tools are expensive at any price. They last only a short time and never do first-class work.

To be sure of getting tools worth buying, get them from us and you will be proud of your purchase. In addition to the tools, you most likely will need other things in the hardware line.

We have locks, doorknobs, hinges, brackets, nails and everything you will want.

"The Man Who Is Contented Is No Longer of Much Use To Me"

Said one of the greatest Business Executives in America a few days ago

For Twenty Years This Store Has Never Been Contented

IT has always taken a reasonable pride in its advancement and a satisfaction in its ability always to furnish better Clothing (for Men and Boys), Hats and Shoes at lower prices than other stores.

It is always dreaming of better things, better merchandise, better methods and a greater business.

Twenty years of this sort of discontent have, therefore been twenty years of continued advancement.

Therefore, in spite of all unfavorable conditions and scarcities, we can this season offer the biggest Spring Assortment of Clothing, Hats, Shoes and Furnishings in the history of this business, an event for which long and careful preparations have been made, and of which you may expect much, with the assurance that you shall be in no sense disappointed.

One of the most important cases to come up at this session is the contested will case of Bruce Thomas and others vs. Frank G. Thomas and others, which involves the legality of the will of the late Joseph Thomas of Mount Vernon district. The suit of the plaintiffs attempts to set aside the will, charging mental incapacity and undue influence. Nine lawyers have been retained in the case.

Conference Should Be Well Attended

The Eastern Shore Older Boys' Conference delegates will be entertained at dinner at the Peninsula Hotel by the Rotary Club of Salisbury Friday night, April 16th. The Rotary Club, as in other cities, takes an interest in worthwhile projects of an altruistic nature, and is a working organization of high repute. Mr. Marion Evans is president, and Mr. Paynter, head of the Salisbury Business College, is the secretary of the club.

Special invitations are being sent out to certain men likely to be interested to attend the conference dinner and meet United States Senator Selden P. Spencer, of Missouri, and Wm. Knowles Cooper, of Washington, who are the speakers of the evening.

The District Y. M. C. A. office sent full information and credential blanks to 275 Sunday School superintendents and to 34 High Schools of the nine counties before the close of March, that they might have ample chance to send delegates to the conference. Preparations for entertainment and for the program are being completed. Now the success of the conference depends solely on the response. With social, athletic and other features, the Older Boys' Conference should be largely attended.

Vestrymen And Officers Elected

At the annual meeting of the congregation of Somerset Parish, held on Easter Monday in St. Andrew's Church, the following vestry and officers were elected: Vestrymen, Messrs. Omar A. Jones, Cassius M. Dashiell, Henry J. Waters, Samuel H. Sudler, William T. G. Polk, Richard L. Fitzgerald, William P. Todd and William H. Dashiell; register, Mr. Cassius M. Dashiell; treasurer, Col. Henry J. Waters; senior warden, Mr. Hampden P. Dashiell; junior warden, E. O. Smith; assistant wardens, Messrs. Frank Fitzgerald and Upshur Anderson.

Delegates to the special Diocesan Convention, which meets at Easton on April 20th, to elect a Bishop, Col. Henry J. Waters, alternate, Mr. C. M. Dashiell. The latter were also elected delegates to the annual convention of the diocese, which meets at Sudlersville on June 8th.

Farmers Meeting

A meeting of farmers of Somerset county will be held in the Court House, Princess Anne, Saturday, April 17th, at 2 o'clock. The purpose of the meeting is to discuss the marketing of tomatoes and the organization of a Producers Association to buy supplies and sell farm products.

Labor conditions will be discussed and an effort made to establish prices for this season's farm work. Plans will also be made to organize a County Agricultural Association to co-operate with the State Agricultural Association in the interests of agriculture in Maryland.

A GREAT FILM MASTERPIECE

"The Miracle Man" Will Grip The Audience At Auditorium

"The Miracle Man," with vaudeville, promises to be one of the best entertainments seen in our town in a long time.

Published originally as a novel in Munsey's Magazine, written by Frank L. Packard and later dramatized by George M. Cohan and presented with phenomenal success on Broadway, G. Loane Tucker's production, "The Miracle Man," comes to the Auditorium, Princess Anne, on April 26th, for the benefit of the Princess Anne Fire Company.

Headed by Thomas Meighan, a well-known leading man, and including Elinor Fair, Betty Compson, Joseph J. Dowling, Lon Chaney, W. Lawson Butt, J. M. Dumont, Lucile Hutton and F. A. Turpin, this absorbing story has been hailed by the critics as one of the finest productions ever seen on the screen. With scenes laid in the haunts of criminals in New York's Chinatown, in a little village on the side of a giant mountain and on the shore of a roaring ocean, the opportunity for wonderful photographic effects has been reapplied to the limit.

But the chief interest is in the striking story, which centers about the venerable figure of an old patriarch, who is credited with the power to heal the sick and make crippled limbs whole again. To him come Tom Burke and his band of crooks from New York's Chinatown with the idea of cashing in on his powers. But it doesn't work out as they calculated, for hidden away in each of them is a leaven of good, which slowly comes to the surface under the influence of their wholesome environment. In a most marvelous way the criminals are reclaimed from the paths of crime.

The proceeds of this entertainment will go to a fund to buy a fire engine for the local firemen, and it is hoped that all will help the cause and, at the same time, enjoy an evening of pleasure. The admission will be 50 cents—no reserved seats.

Interchurch World Movement Meeting

At the Somerset county conference of the Interchurch World Movement United Financial Campaign, which was held at Princess Anne last Thursday night a group of prominent men and women interested in the Interchurch World Movement were present from Baltimore and other parts of the State.

Several "teams" of workers trained in presenting the striking features of the movement were touring the State last week, preliminary to the opening of the United Financial Campaign on April 25th. The group which came to Princess Anne, where the conference was held in Antioch Methodist Episcopal Church, was led by the Rev. A. Mitchell, of Baltimore. He presented a general outline of the Interchurch World Movement and the United Financial Campaign, giving also a lantern-slide lecture showing results of the recent church survey.

Rev. T. C. Davis, of Snow Hill, had charge of the young people's session of the conference and also directed the evangelistic program. Herbert D. Cone, of Salisbury, spoke on laymen's activities and George W. Mead, of Belair, presented the work of the surveys—foreign, home and county.

At a special women's meeting in connection with the conference, Mrs. E. L. Peerman, of Cambridge, made the chief address. Special emphasis was placed at the conference on plans for the United Financial Campaign to raise $336,777,572 during the week of April 25th, by Mr. Frank T. Mayre, of Washington, D. C.

John T. Pusey Dead

Mr. John T. Pusey, a highly respected citizen of East Princess Anne district, died at the home of his son, Mr. Baldy Pusey, last Tuesday afternoon, aged 77 years. Mr. Pusey was stricken with paralysis about three weeks ago while returning to his home from Princess Anne, from which he never recovered and was the cause of his death. He is survived by one son, Mr. Baldy Pusey.

Funeral services were held in Friendship Methodist Protestant Church last Thursday afternoon conducted by the Rev. I. S. Hankins. Interment was in the church cemetery. The pallbearers were, Messrs. G. W. Brown, E. Frank Jones, B. Mac Pusey, W. H. Powell, W. J. Brown and E. G. Brittingham.

Meeting Of Farmers At Eden

A meeting of farmers will be held at the Eden schoolhouse, Wednesday evening, April 14th, at 8 o'clock. The object of the meeting will be to discuss the marketing of strawberries and marketing of tomatoes. All farmers in this vicinity are urged to be present.

THE PRINCESS ANNE HIGH SCHOOL

Accommodations And Equipment Are Badly Needed

A recent visit of Mr. S. M. North, State High School Supervisor, to the Princess Anne High School, indicated the necessity for increased accommodations and equipment for the large attendance at the school, whose aspirations are to first group instead of second, in which latter group the school has been working for years past. There are over 100 pupils in the high school department. Several years ago, at the suggestion of the County Superintendent, the rooms on the upper floor were diminished in size in order to arrange for other rooms for this department. This was done because of the great expense necessary to build and the National order that no construction should be done during the war period.

The time has now come when it is imperative that some arrangement shall be made to put this school upon the proper plane. The bond issue requested by the Board of Education, to include the cost of constructing additions to this building, was absolutely killed by a meeting of taxpayers and the committee appointed to take up the question of imperative needs has not yet reported. The architect, who measured up the building in February, stated that it would take not less than $34,000 to make the necessary improvements and, no doubt, the cost of furniture and other equipment would add considerably to this amount. The truth is that as the way prices are advancing, it is doubtful that any such sum as the above would accomplish the work to be done.

People who look at the present high school building have no idea of the lack of room in it for both primary and high school pupils. The upper floor contains now six rooms, including the library, where there were formerly but four, and the lower floor contains three rooms and two small rooms for Domestic Science, which are absolutely too small for that purpose. The central room on the lower floor contains the Manual Training outfit and the room is often too dark for such work. Every bit of available room has been utilized and still the pupils, numbering about 340, are crowded into small rooms where heating and ventilation are both ineffective.

The people of Princess Anne and community have been silent too long about their institution and it is now high time to wake up to conditions and to insist upon the necessary relief. The Parent-Teachers' Club, recently organized, should pave the way for such insistence. It is impossible for either teachers or pupils to do their required work under present conditions. Besides, the State, under whose control the high school is managed, is also demanding the necessary changes both in buildings and equipment. Such changes should be attended to as promptly as possible.

Democrats Plan For State Convention

The Democratic State Convention is to be held about the middle of May to ratify the selection by the voters of a candidate for United States Senator, elect delegates to the Democratic National Convention, which is to meet in San Francisco on June 28th, and to select eight candidates for Presidential electors.

Authority for Chairman J. Hubert Wade, of the State Central Committee, to call the convention for a date to be selected by him was granted in a resolution adopted by the committee at a meeting last Thursday at the Hotel Rennett, Baltimore. This was the sole business of the meeting, and after the resolution had been adopted members of the committee ate luncheon as the guests of the chairman, talked State and National politics and went home.

Among the more prominent party leaders who attended the meeting were United States Senator John Walter Smith, Governor Albert C. Ritchie, Comptroller E. Brooke Lee, President Nydys, of the House; former Judge J. Harry Covington, of Talbot; John J. Mahon, Senator Orlando Harrison, Calvin Taylor, W. E. Lankford, J. Edward White and Samuel J. Twilley, of Worcester; Senator Disharoon, of Wicomico; Col. A. W. Sisk, of Caroline; W. W. Beck, of Kent; Insurance Commissioner Keating, of Queen Anne's; former Senator Thomas H. Robinson, of Harford; Congressman Carville D. Benson, of Baltimore county; Senator Wolfe and Delegate Gambrell, of Howard; W. J. Grove, of Frederick; E. O. Weant, of Carroll; Senator A. Theodore Brady and Frank Revell, of Anne Arundel; Dr. Corrico, of Charles; Captain Broome, of Calvert; Captain Plowden, of St. Mary's; Preston B. Ray, of Montgomery, and J. Enos Ray, Jr., of Prince George's.

THE CONGRESSIONAL CANDIDATES

Goldsborough To Oppose Col. Sisk In First District Primaries

Congressional candidates on the Eastern Shore as seen by the Baltimore News:

Spring sunshine and spring rains are bringing out the violets, buttercups and daisies of the field down on the old Eastern Shore; likewise the Congressional candidates.

The first flower to raise its head in the Democratic woods was Col. A. W. Sisk, of Caroline. And Colonel Sisk has all the modesty and diffidence of the wood violet half hidden by a mossy stone. He has announced his candidacy, but that is about all. Perhaps it is modesty; perhaps it is commendable thrift. Colonel Sisk has said that he is willing to spend a "reasonable amount of money."

Then, in the Democratic field, has appeared Hilton W. Robertson. Mr. Robertson is no shrinking violet; he is a full blown daisy. He has no intention of being born to blush unseen and waste his sweetness on the desert air. Apparently he has no illusions about spending only a reasonable amount of money for he is waging a primary advertising campaign in the papers of the Shore that surpasses anything in the memory of man in those parts.

When he announced his candidacy folks inquired: "What manner of man is this? We do not know him." Whereupon, through a series of ads, he has been making it perfectly clear to them who he is and what he stands for. Not the least among the latter things is a modification of the Volstead Act, an issue which is more than likely to play ducks and drakes among the candidates.

Third and last in the field is T. Alan Goldsborough, of Caroline county, who filed his certificate of candidacy in all the nine counties on the Shore.

Little more than a fortnight has elapsed since he entered the field, and just what sort of a campaign he will wage is problematical. No doubt he is "lying low," perfectly satisfied to let Sisk and Robertson "go to it" at this stage of the game, and later launch a smashing drive after he has better ascertained the weaknesses of his opponents. Rumor also has it that former Governor Harrington may announce his candidacy by April 13, adding still more "pep" to the fight.

In the Republican field Frank E. Williams, of Cecil, is an announced candidate, and everybody expects Congressman "Bill" Andrews to enter the primaries. Three terms has always been the limit on the Eastern Shore, and if a Republican can make it again he would naturally be supposed to have a "clinch" on the nomination. He hasn't made a formal announcement, but that he will do so is regarded as so certain that he is generally placed in the "avowed" candidate class.

It seems equally certain, however, that he is not going to have the field to himself. State Senators Robins, of Somerset, and Gibson, of Dorchester, are striving to poke their heads through the earth and blossom forth in the field. Perhaps it needs only another week of spring sunshine and rain to bring their hopes and aspirations to full fruition.

State Racing Bill Is Law

Last Wednesday afternoon Governor Ritchie signed the Bowie Race-track bill, under which the Bowie track is enabled to hold its April meeting, as the measure has an emergency clause which puts it into effect as soon as signed.

At the same time the Governor signed the Burke State-Wide Regulation bill, which passed the Senate that morning. The quick signature of that measure was somewhat surprising, but the Governor evidently wanted it to be a law at the same time as the Bowie bill. After signing the bills the Governor gave out the following statement:

"The Burke bill and the Bowie bill have both passed the Legislature and are before me for action. I have decided to approve both bills, and in view of the public interest in them I will briefly give my reasons.

"The only question before me now is, shall racing continue unregulated at present, or licensed and regulated by the State?

"On this question I have no doubt whatever. If racing is to continue this should not be under the present conditions. It should be under strict State supervision, through a properly constituted commission and upon payment of a heavy license fee.

"The Burke bill provides for this, and if I do not approve it, then racing will continue in Maryland unregulated and uncontrolled.

"For these reasons I will approve the Burke bill."

The Associate Banks of Somerset, Wicomico and Worcester counties will hold their spring meeting at Pocomoke City next Thursday, April 15th.

MARYLAND LEGISLATURE ENDS

Governor Ritchie Reviews The Legislature's Work

The 1920 session of the General Assembly of Maryland came to a close Monday night of last week, having passed many measures of statewide importance, but with not a few, which their backers considered vital, either killed or allowed to die. Among them were increased representation for Baltimore City and legislation looking to the liberalization of the Prohibition and Sunday laws.

The final day and night of the 1920 session, while not marked by the same scramble to get through with the uncompleted work, were yet sufficiently crowded with action.

At the night session Governor Ritchie appeared before the members of both houses, assembled in the House chamber and delivered his farewell address. He was escorted by the floor leaders, Senator McIntosh and Delegate Coblenz, Democrats, and Senator Speicher and Delegate Simmons, Republicans. The chamber was crowded and he was given a ringing cheer as he made his way to the speaker's rostrum, where he was greeted by Speaker Tydings and President Norris. Another cheer, led by the assembled Senators and Delegates, greeted him as he was introduced. His mother, Mrs. Albert Ritchie, who, with friends, occupied several seats in the front row, was an interesting spectator. After the delivery of the speech, which was marked by frequent applause, the Governor left the chamber.

The $9,000,000 Soldiers and Sailors' Bonus bill was killed in the Senate Monday shortly before the Legislature adjourned sine die. The vote by which the bill was killed was 15 to 9. Three Senators did not vote. One was Senator Metzgerott, who was in the service and entitled to a bonus under the bill. The others were Senators Legg and Speicher, who were absent. Senator Robins, of Somerset, voted for the bill.

Two years ago there were introduced in the House 695 bills and in the Senate 604, total 1,299, of which 489 were passed. This year there were introduced in the House 804 bills and in the Senate 538, total 1,342. This does not tell the whole story, for there were besides 100 to 125 request bills which were not numbered as formerly and which were finally passed in two big omnibus measures. Of the bills this year about 700 were passed.

One of the features of the closing session of the Senate was the presentation of a silver service to President Norris, consisting of a handsome tray and eight pieces.

In his address to the joint session of the Legislature Governor Ritchie said: "I could not let the work of this session close without giving myself the pleasure of congratulating you and thanking you for the support and courtesy you have so uniformly shown me and wishing for you good luck and happiness in the days to come.

"You are entitled to look back upon the session's work with real pride. Beginning with 1921, Maryland will have the benefit of the merit system. The bill confers full power for the inauguration of the most efficient merit system possible. A central purchasing bureau has been created. The pay of the public school teachers has been liberally increased. A much-needed bill has been passed providing for the drainage of the swamp lands, and the Workmen's Compensation Law has been amended in many particulars.

"You have passed a bill under which $8,400,000 is provided for road construction during the next two years, and $750 for Baltimore City streets. This legislation marks a new road policy, in that the State is for the first time dividing with the counties the cost of lateral roads and the system devised is a mandatory one.

"A $1,500,000 construction loan bill and a $250,000 bridge loan bill have also been passed. Bills have been passed for the benefit of the tobacco growers of Southern Maryland. Considering the bills affecting Baltimore City, we find that a single police commissioner has been provided. The city loan bills and other measures have passed, and the pay of the police force has been liberally increased.

"The racing situation occupied a good deal of your time and the tracks were placed under strict State regulation and supervision.

"The State tax rate for 1921 will be 35 1-3 cents and for 1922 35 cents. This represents a saving from the present State tax of something over one cent for 1921 and nearly one and one-half cents for 1922. This is a very slight increase over the rate I contemplated when the budget was submitted.

"I am very grateful for the help and counsel you have so freely given. I thank you for it from the bottom of my heart and I thank you, too, for your uniform courtesy and generosity to me in all our relations. I bid you goodbye tonight with a regret that is very real."

Mr. Dixie D. Dryden, of Chester, Pa., and Mr. Marion C. Dryden, of Harrington, Del., after a short visit to relatives in Princess Anne, returned to their respective homes Monday night of last week.

BETTER CHURCH BUILDINGS PLANNED FOR RURAL DISTRICTS BY BAPTISTS

PART OF PROCEEDS OF 75 MILLION CAMPAIGN WILL BE EMPLOYED IN ERECTING BETTER HOUSES OF WORSHIP AND OTHERWISE HELPING DEVELOP WEAK CONGREGATIONS, IT IS ANNOUNCED.

Several outstanding results of the Baptist 75 Million Campaign will be noted in the larger development of the rural churches. This development will take the form of a more efficient church and Sunday School, life and in better houses of worship around which the church and Sunday School activities will center.

Through the enlistment department of the Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention, Atlanta, Ga., weak, struggling churches will be aided in development to the point where they can become self-supporting and employ a competent pastor for much more of his time than has been given these churches before, while plans for the betterment of the rural Sunday Schools through a series of institutes for the training of teachers in all the Southern states this summer will be carried out by the Baptist Sunday School Board.

Best Plans Are Recommended. Plans have been perfected by the architectural department of the Baptist Sunday School Board at Nashville, Tenn., in co-operation with the Church Building and Loan Department of the Home Mission Board, whereby local building committees can procure detailed plans of the best modern church buildings for either large or small congregations. These plans have been so drawn as to take care of every phase of church activity, the Sunday School and other departments being so provided for as to enable them to do their most efficient work. And a modern building, containing all these essential provisions, can be provided by any community that is able to build an old-fashioned one-room church building, as the cost for the modern structure is no more than that of the old-style one.

Big Loan Fund Provided. To aid deserving congregations in building adequate houses of worship, the church building loan department was established six years ago and already more than 700 churches have been helped in building needed houses. The initial fund, established for this purpose, was fixed at $1,000,000 and an additional $1,000,000 will be received from the 75 Million Campaign. Applications pending now aggregate $1,000,000 and loans are being made at the rate of $50,000 per month. No loans are being made in excess of one-third of the value of the property, and the loan made must clear the property of all other indebtedness and thus make it possible to dedicate the building.

From the 75 Million Campaign the Home Mission Board will receive, also, $2,500,000 to be used as gifts in the building of additional churches during the next five years, but this sum will be expended largely in aiding churches in strategic points, among them being educational centers where it is desired to erect churches for promoting the religious life of students, especially of those students affiliated with Baptist churches.

Of the 25,000 Baptist churches in the South, 11,000 are in the rural districts and in small villages, and 19,000 of them have preaching services only once a month. While the work of the southern Baptist will be to help these weak congregations solve their problems and help them develop in number and efficiency, the other denominational agencies will help these struggling congregations in the erection of well-appointed church houses and the development of their Sunday Schools.

Why Good Houses Are Needed. The accompanying illustration shows a typical one-room church building and also an exterior view and floor plans of a modern, well-appointed church building, calculated to take care of all the needs of a church organization and costing no more than the one-room building.

This proposed building has many things in its favor as compared with the one-room structure, aside from its attractive appearance. First, it is more durable, being so constructed as to resist wind and storm. Second, it is easily heated in the winter, its vestibule cutting out the cold wind from the entrance, while by reason of the building having several departments it is useful to heat only the department being used on those occasions when only a small gathering is had. Then the auditorium in the center is shielded from the extreme weather by the departments surrounding it, though in the summer these surrounding departments can be opened up, giving abundant ventilation. Again, the new building offers admirable quarters for the several departments and classes of the Sunday School, thus making the teaching of the Bible a much easier task. Then the social life of the congregation can be greatly promoted by the better building, in that it affords ample quarters for church receptions, banquets and other affairs of this nature, enabling the church to give the young people adequate social activities under wholesome environments.

This and many other approved types of country churches are being employed now in every Southern state, and a more efficient church work is being done wherever such building has been erected, it is declared. Sufficient varieties of plans have been prepared to serve the needs of any particular community.

BAPTISTS TO CELEBRATE 75th ANNIVERSARY OF CONVENTION.

When the Southern Baptist Convention assembles in Washington, D. C., May 12, it will be the seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of that body and will be known as the Victory Convention, by reason of the fact that it will celebrate the successful conclusion of the 75 Million Campaign. The local committee in Washington is making plans to entertain 10,000 delegates and visitors.

By reason of the fact that the future program of the denomination along all general lines will be formulated at this time, it is expected the meeting will be one of the most important in the history of the denomination in the South.

TWO AND A HALF MILLION NEW CHRISTIANS ARE SOUGHT.

Baptists of the eighteen states in the territory of the Southern Baptist Convention are now in the first stages of the campaign that is aimed to win at least two and a half million new converts to Christ in the homeland during the next five years. This is an average of 500,000 new converts for each year of the 75 Million Campaign and early returns from the evangelistic efforts indicate the goal will be reached.

The poet doth not only show you the way, but giveth so sweet a prospect into the way, as will entice any man to enter into it; nay, he doth, as if your journey should be through a fair vineyard, at the very first give you a cluster of grapes, that full of that taste you may long to pass further. He cometh to you with words set in delightful proportion, and with a tale, forsooth, he cometh upon you; with a tale which holdeth little children from play, and old men from the chimney corner.—Sir Philip Sidney.

Reflection. All the world used her ill, said this young person, and we may be pretty certain that persons whom all the world treats ill deserve the treatment they get. The world is a looking glass and gives back to every man the reflection of his own face. Frown at it, and it will in turn look sourly upon you; laugh at it and with it, and it is a jolly, kind companion; and so let all young persons take their choice.—Thackeray.

Candlemas Day. On Candlemas day the Christmas decorations are taken down in the churches, as it is the Feast of the Purification, or the Presentation of Christ in the Temple. The term Candlemas is used owing to the practice of the early church, when lighted candles were carried in the procession in memory of Simeon's words at the presentation of the infant Savior: "To be a light to lighten the Gentiles."

Bird Courts. Rooks and crows are known to hold court for the trial and punishment of their delinquent mates.

Two Good Books for Women

We have them both—we can supply you with both on your request—and each one of them will help the other. The first is a bank book—every woman should have her own, for the butter-and-egg dollars grow quickly into big sums when they're put away carefully. And the second is THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN—the weekly book of farming. It's a farm paper for the women and the men, the girls and the boys—full of how-to-make-money ideas for the whole family. This bank wants the women as well as the men to read

The COUNTRY GENTLEMAN

From all parts of the United States comes the testimony of more than 600,000 farmers who regularly read THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN, that this Great National Farm Weekly is helping them constantly to make more money. It will do the same for you—for every farmer hereabouts. It will help both farmers and their wives to build bigger bank accounts each year. We are making it easy for our neighbors to subscribe for THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN because we believe in it. We want you to know it as we do. If you have an account with us, we'll charge it only $1.00, on your instruction, for 52 big weekly issues. And if not, we'd like you to get both those books.

A LOVE FICTION

By OTILLIA F. PFEIFFER

(Copyright, 1926, Western Newspaper Union)

There was always a pleasant, interested smile on the face of Drury Lawrence whenever his fellow clerks chatted, about home, wives, sweethearts or love. He was a quiet, unassuming young man, and Eric Dawes, his one close friend, had often noticed the sympathetic glow in his honest, earnest eyes, and wondered why it grew so intense, on the occasions noted.

Drury was closing his desk late one afternoon and he and Eric were the only occupants of the room. A bright-hearted young fellow, a new clerk, had just left after showing an engagement ring to Drury he intended presenting to his fiancée. Drury listened to his eulogies of its intended recipient with pleased attention.

"You must be a happy man in your own love affairs to be so ready to appreciate that of others," suggested Eric.

A peculiar expression crossed the face of Drury. It was serious, yet tender and expressive. A dreamy, far-away look came into his eyes as he said:

"There has been only one so-called love affair in my life, Eric, and there will never be another. Do you know who that is?" and he produced a photograph from a drawer in the desk.

"Why, it is Miss Ina Vernon!" exclaimed Eric in unmitigated surprise. "You don't mean to say that you are interested in that direction?"

"Eminently so," replied Drury, and his tones were fairly reverential. "I have loved her devotedly for over two years. You are my only confidant, so respect my secret. See!" and he produced a packet of letters tied with a bit of ribbon. "Each month I have written to her, unfolding my heart, beginning with 'Dear Miss Vernon' and now addressing her as 'My Soul's Treasure.'"

Eric was fairly astounded. This quiet, unpretentious friend had outstripped them all! Miss Ina Vernon, the daughter of the wealthy manufacturer! In correspondence with her for two years—she, the proud beauty of a leading family! The "soul's only treasure" of a plain, humble office clerk.

"Then—then you are engaged?" inquired Eric.

"In my letters," replied Drury in puzzling accents of sadness; "in letters never sent. I have carried on a love fiction for my own hopeless consolation only. Miss Vernon unknowingly took possession of my heart. I realized my yearnings were as those of a rushting craving for the star. I was content to love her in secret. I have never spoken to her. She has never read a line of my letters."

"And you are never going to tell her," spoke Eric, with genuine feeling; "you, a man worthy of the consideration of any woman?"

"It would be presumptuous. I have no right to aspire, to hope," replied Drury sorrowfully. "Let my dreaming suffice. She is of another world than mine."

Drury recited how, when Miss Vernon had lost a pet spaniel, he had restored it through the home servants, refusing to accept the reward tendered or to disclose his identity.

Again, it was he who had been near at hand when Mr. Vernon, at variance with some of his mill employees, was assailed by a mob. Drury saved the magnate from a shower of dangerous missiles and then vanished.

Then, too, in seeking an office friend who was off on a spell of dissipation, in shielding him from a group of gamblers, Drury had as well run across Manfred Vernon, the brother of Ina. His efforts and warnings had signally turned the footsteps of both the young men from the downward path.

It was about two months after the disclosure to Eric that the latter was startled by reading in the morning paper that a young man named Drury Lawrence, passing the mansion of John Vernon, had sprung upon a lurking intruder about to place a lighted bomb within the vestibule, had flung it away from the house, but its explosion had reached him, lacerating and half blinding him. He had been removed to a hospital, and the article commended his heroism and spoke of the gratitude of the Vernon family over this great act of self-sacrifice.

Eric hastened to the hospital to find Drury suffering but radiant. He had saved Ina and her family! It was enough! The surgeon said he would recover both sight and strength in time. Eric left the hospital with a firm resolution in his mind. That afternoon he called upon Miss Ina Vernon. True-souled friend that he was, he told her all and placed in her hands the beautiful love letters Drury had written. Eric, too, told her of his hidden acts of devotion in behalf of her father and brother.

He had only to watch the lovely face of Ina Vernon to know that the revelation influenced every sentiment of girlish sympathy and interest. From that time forward every day Ina visited Drury at the hospital. One afternoon she came up to Eric as she left the cot where Drury lay. She took his hand in a tremulous grasp. "Mr. Dawes," she whispered, blushing, but earnest, "will you take a message to our brave friend for me? Tell him," and her sweet voice bore the thrill of the deepest emotion, "tell him to get well—for my sake!"

ALL HAVE THEIR UMBRELLAS

Rainy Days by No Means Times of Terror for the Dwellers in Old Japan.

A rainy day in Japan! Mountains half disappearing in wreaths of mist like the landscapes in old kakemono scrolls; gray tiled roofs transformed to glossy black by slanting sheets of rain; coolies in bristling straw raincoats, and everywhere great oiled paper umbrellas. Little Japanese women trip along daintily on their wooden clogs, oblivious to the muddy rivers under foot, totally eclipsed under their red, blue, green, yellow, or black umbrellas. Shop apprentices and errand boys hurry along with umbrellas decorated with great black characters indicating the name of the firm or their trade. Out in Asakusa, Tokyo's popular quarter, huge red umbrellas protect the old women who sell beans to feed the doves that dwell in the eaves of the Temple of the Morning Grasses. At the entrance to every house a whole row of open umbrellas are drying. No two paper umbrellas are alike in Japan, perhaps because they are all made by hand—bamboo ribs, rattan handles, and the patterns formed by different layers of colored papers. The umbrella, writes Elsie F. Wall in Asia Magazine, is as necessary to the Japanese actor or dancer as his fan. In the old prints the umbrella appears constantly as a harmonious part of the design. The geisha have umbrellas appropriate for winter and summer and cherry viewing, for winter and summer. An umbrella may even be the theme of poetry, as it was for the Japanese poet who sang: "In the spring rain an umbrella passes by on which petals are softly falling, falling." Yet the Japanese have been able to find something picturesque in our wire-framed umbrellas of uniform black; they call them "bat wings."

NOT TROUBLED BY JEALOUSY

Social and Domestic Customs Among the Eskimos Are Simple and Easily Arranged.

An American missionary is the authority for the following description of social and domestic customs that prevail in a certain part of the arctic regions: If a woman is childless, she often asks her husband to select another wife, so that the home may be blessed with children. She has no jealousy toward her rival, for her husband generally treats both with equal respect. The system of polygamy works both ways, for some Eskimos adhere to the single standard. In a tribe where there are more men than women, a woman may often be allowed a second husband, provided she has the approval of her first husband, and her love for some unmarried man does not necessarily lessen her regard for her husband, who may be old or weak, and hence a poor provider. A younger man may prove a real asset to the family. Even if it is a case of simple infatuation, no deception is practiced. The Eskimo woman reveals her feelings to her husband, who, if the lover is worthy, rarely refuses his consent for his wife to go away with this rival for a certain length of time. If the man happens to have a wife of his own, the abandoned husband will often propose to his wife that she arrange matters with the wife of her lover, so there will be a mutual exchange of spouses for a time.

Peculiar Nile Fish.

Near the African continent sea fishes are mainly under direct or indirect European influence, the natives attaching more importance to the rivers and lakes. In the Nile, fishing is carried on almost as it was in the days of the Pharaohs, by lines and dipnets, the latter worked from the bank, and shaped something like a long-handled shrimp push net, or by groping in the mud as the waters recede after the flood.

A very popular fish that is taken in the latter way is the bichir, which is about 18 inches long, and is covered with hard, bony scales. In the same manner the Arabs of the upper Nile catch what they call the "thunder fish," which averages a foot in length, and, like that of the Calabar, is endowed with a considerable power of developing electricity. A large kind of barbed-finned fish, also found in the Nile, is greatly prized by the Nile dwellers, though quite tasteless to other palates.

Vicious Fur-Bearing Animals.

So marked is the tendency of many fur-bearing animals to wholesale destruction of life that the work of the trappers who catch them and kill them for their pelts doubtless saves a far greater number of animals than it slays. One marten is likely to kill hundreds of harmless creatures in a single year.

If a multitude of birds and small beasts of the forests and the fields could have their will they would unquestionably urge the trappers to greater exertions. They would wish the present demand for furs stimulated to even more imperative eagerness to wear the skins of voracious little killers. And big ones, too, for leopards and civet cats have their place in the fur trade—Exchange.

Unreasonable.

"Was the operation successful?" "It was brilliantly so in the facts it demonstrated. Only one person did not seem to be pleased with the results."

"Who was that?" "The patient's widow."

Some Of The Trouble Sources

An exchange asks what's the matter with America these days? Here are some of the most obvious—the most glaring—troubles:

There are too many chauffeurs and too many loafers.

Too many diamonds, not enough alarm clocks.

Too many silk shirts, not enough blue flannel ones.

Too many pointed-toe shoes, and not enough squared-toe ones.

Too many serge suits and not enough overalls.

Too much decolette and not enough aprons.

Too many satin-upholstered limousines and not enough cows.

Too many consumers and not enough producers.

Too much envy of the results of hard work and too little desire to emulate it.

Too many desiring short cuts to wealth and too few willing to pay the price.

Too much of the spirit of "get while the getting is good" and not enough of the old-fashioned Christianity.

Too much class consciousness and too little common democracy and love of humanity.

Maryland Gunner Makes Perfect Score

H. R. Mathias, seaman 2nd class U. S. N., of the U. S. S. Evans, made an all-hit score with the 4 inch gun which he pointed during the target practice off San Diego, Cal.

He has received the rating of First Class Gun Pointer, which carries with it an increase in pay, and which he will hold until next year's target practice, when he will be given an opportunity to qualify. Seaman Mathias' home is in Brunswick, Maryland.

They Speak Well Of It

"I frequently hear Chamberlain's Cough Remedy praised by friends and acquaintances which only tends to strengthen my good opinion of it," writes Mrs. Fred Arter, Zanesville, Ohio. Try it when you have a cough or cold and see for yourself what an excellent medicine it is.

IDENTIFICATION

Little brother's chum appeared unceremoniously in the parlor where big sister was entertaining her Sunday afternoon beau. "Is Bobby home?" he wished to know. No, Bobby was not at home, and then, oh, unfortunate impulse, big sister, desiring to show her visitor her sweet graciousness, even in the bosom of her own family, solicitously inquired:

"Who shall I tell him called?"

Bobby's chum twisted his cap, doubtless unaccustomed to such rare courtesy, and, desiring to identify himself to his chum while remaining inconspicuous to these queer adults, at length replied:

"If you'll just tell him that the guinea pig's got the little ones, then he'll know who it was that called."

An Indefinite Stay.

"Here's a modern wedding announcement."

"What about it?"

"It says the happy couple will live at the home of the bride's parents until they can find a house or a flat they can rent."

A Queer Result.

"The etiquette of presentation to royalty produces an odd reverse in people."

"How so?"

"They are anxious for the honor, but when they are introduced, they invariably back out."

HE WAS COMPLIMENTARY.

"If I give you one kiss will you be satisfied?"

"No, I expect the sample to assay better than that."

That Grim Superiority.

And there's a man who oft will strike Our minds with cruel dread Because we do not chance to like Some book that he has read.

The Season is Now Open.

Farmer—You say that man comes out every year to hunt and that he is a good hunter.

Second Farmer—I should say so; he always pays me for my cows in advance, too.

Complete.

Marks—I had no idea your new house was finished.

Parks—Oh, yes. Not only finished, but all my friends have had time to tell me how much better it might have been.

Sight and Sound.

"Children should be seen and not heard."

"Yes," replied the tired business man; "and the same thing applies to a great many of the musical shows."

Couldn't Afford It.

Hewitt—Do you believe in physical culture?

Jewett—No; I joined a class once and I outgrew my clothes like a blamed kid.

No Wonder.

"I understand the critics have made your poetic friend angry."

"How so?"

"By their running comments on his fugitive poetry."

The Way of It.

"What occupation does Blobs pursue?"

"Quite a number but I don't think he's caught up with any one yet."

COMPLIMENTARY OR OTHERWISE.

"He's a perfect bear."

"Do you refer to his arms or his temper?"

But He Got It.

Her hatpin was protruding, And it caught him in a joint; She said she meant it for a joke, But he didn't see the point.

The Reason.

She—Why do people have to keep so quiet when they go fishing? He—Because to catch 'em one must fish with bated breath.

Sympathetic.

Mr. Smart—I give my voice for a permanent standing army.

Mrs. Dull—Why don't you want the poor things to sit down?

Lost Experiences.

"I wonder what cotton gin could have tasted like?"

"I guess it was the kind that left the woolly taste in your mouth."

Cheap Sympathy.

"Closeman lets his friends' misfortunes touch him deeply, doesn't he?"

"Yes; without letting his friends do the same thing, however."

A WORLD REBUILT

By the Golden Rule not by the rule of Gold

THIRTY denominations of the Church are uniting in a simultaneous campaign in the week of April 25th-May 2nd.

They are uniting because the task before the Church is too great for any one denomination; because there must be no duplication of effort; no waste.

These churches know that the world needs many things; but it needs Faith most of all.

They know that there can be no final solution of our economic problems that is not a spiritual solution, based on the teachings of Jesus Christ and His Golden Rule.

They have had the courage to survey the whole task, and to ask for a budget large enough to sustain (1) the work abroad, (2) the work at home including the church's part in the huge task of Americanization, (3) the colleges and (4) hospitals supported by the Churches, (5) the religious training of the young, and to provide (6) a living wage for the Church's ministers.

The budget is large in the aggregate; yet if each person who loves America would increase his contribution by only a few dollars the whole amount would be easily subscribed.

We face the task of rebuilding the world. Let the cornerstone be a strong and vital church in every American community; and the measuring rod by which the builders build must be the Golden Rule.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY
For a Sore Cold
Chamberlain's Cough Remedy cured my daughter Anna of a severe cold and cough a few years ago and ever since then I have never missed an opportunity to recommend this medicine to anyone suffering from throat or lung troubles. I cannot speak too highly in praise of it. Write Mrs. D. J. Shelley, Eastville, N. Y. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy contains no narcotics and may be given to children with perfect confidence. It is a pleasant syrup so they do not object to taking it.

TUESDAY MORNING, APRIL 15, 1920
Perfectly safe to trust the Germans when you have 'em well covered with a loaded gun.

Expecting that the women will vote in all States next November, some of the politicians have been caught looking in mirrors.

No great anxiety is expressed by the men to have automatic telephones replace the service of those sweet-voiced operators at central.

World's supply of cotton said to be short. One reason, perhaps, is that it takes such a large share of it to turn out "all wool" goods.

"Restrooms" now provided in many places but a lot of people consider the place where they are employed was created for that purpose.

So far none of the women of Princess Anne have favored the proposition that telephone charges should be based on the length of the conversation.

Claimed that the people are beginning to get tired of extravagance, so that the merchants no longer have to put prices up in order to sell goods.

Now that the girls are serving as bank clerks in most places the boss may feel it necessary to take his checks to the bank himself instead of sending one of his assistants.

NATURE'S BLIND FORCES
Man blames Nature for many misfortunes which he himself created. Unfortunately the victim is often not the one who perpetrated the fault. The people whose pathetic homes have been swept away by the spring floods, themselves did nothing to let loose the torrent. But they were a part of a human society that destroyed the mighty forests around the headwaters of streams. Had these forests been preserved they would have absorbed the winter's moisture like a sponge and let it out as it was needed.

So with other calamities from which man suffers. Man scatters his firebrands through the forests and whole countries go up in smoke. Man lives in dirt and disorder, and the pestilence carries away those susceptible to infection.

But such a calamity as the recent tornadoes. It is a hard and an insoluble mystery when happy homes are leveled in the air and useful lives snuffed out as you would extinguish a candle, by this inscrutable force called Nature. No physician has yet shown that tornadoes are due to the mistakes of man. Man cannot protect himself against them, save by running to some hole in the ground, which usually he could not reach in time. It is the same old riddle that philosophers have debated, since man began to argue why the rain falls of both just and unjust.

Perhaps these forces are permitted to wreck their will, that man be not too confident and complacent. He may well realize that he is in the hands of infinite forces, which all his skill and wisdom can never control. His only hope is in learning to live in harmony with those forces, seeking to build up a treasure of good deeds and noble character, which alone can survive the whirlwind and flood and fire.

RISE IN GASOLINE PRICES
Ten years ago rising prices in gasoline aroused deep emotion among the festive sports and the sons of luxury who, at that time, owned the majority of automobiles. The average man did not think much about it. Gasoline in those days was largely a sporting proposition.

Today the recent advances in price of gasoline and other petroleum products will be felt as an added cost in raising food and in transporting all kinds of products.

Gasoline production had previously been helped to cover high labor and expense costs by liberal increases of prices that went into effect within the past five years. And now it is even reported that still further advances are likely to take place.

Congressman Dyer, of Missouri, is making for an investigation of these advances. The Maryland and Herald hope it will be a real one and, if just ground for complaint is found, that something more than talk will result.

Record As Business And Party Man Assures Representative Character

To the Voters of Somerset County:

In last week's issue of this newspaper we promised to tell you something about Hilton W. Robertson, candidate for nomination as Representative in Congress from the First Congressional District of Maryland.

We'll try this week to give you a "close-up" view, by way of introduction, so that you may get acquainted with the man for whom you will probably vote to represent you in the House at Washington.

Mr. Robertson has been a life-long resident of White Haven, born there July 18th, 1886. His family is one of the oldest on the Eastern Shore, long prominent in local politics and the Democratic party. He is chairman of the board of the Bank of White Haven and head of the big White Haven Ship Building Company. He was educated at the White Haven School and the Business College of Baltimore. Then he studied law and received a degree in law.

Service To Community And Nation
Mr. Robertson is one of the business leaders responsible for restoring Maryland to her ancient dominance in the ship-building industry of the country. At the plant of the White Haven Ship Building Co., which he organized and built in 1917, two 2500-ton vessels have been constructed for the U. S. Shipping Board at an expenditure of about a million dollars.

This vast sum of money has been distributed largely in wages and payment for materials through the counties of Wicomico, Somerset, Dorchester and Worcester. A half-million dollar dry dock is now being constructed for the Bethlehem Ship Building Corporation at Mr. Robertson's White Haven plant. Contracts to the extent of over $2,500,000 are assured for work to be done at the White Haven plant and at Salisbury and Sharptown.

Another example of Mr. Robertson's constructive contribution to the community is seen in his successful efforts to secure good roads for the Tyaskin District. His representation of that district before the County Commission resulted in the building of seven and a half miles of hard surface road between White Haven and Catchpenny, giving the people of the latter place an outlet to Salisbury.

His contribution to the Nation in the war was notable. In addition to the successful completion and delivery to the Government of two big vessels, while other ship builders were failing to deliver, Mr. Robertson, at a sacrifice of over $112,000 to his company, turned over to the War Department for the period of the war the company's fire proof building in Washington for safe-keeping of war records. Thus was he of service both to the Government and his home people.

Business Man For Congress
Here then, you have a patriotic, experienced and successful business man available to represent you at Washington. Those qualities are needed there. As you have possibly learned by this time, Mr. Robertson is not making promises in glittering general terms to catch votes.

As a business man he is talking directly. He has stated publicly that he favors a change in the Volstead Act so as to permit the manufacture and use of beer, domestic wine, cider, home-made wines and similar beverages; that he is against the saloon.

As a party man Mr. Robertson has also stated that in National affairs he will stand squarely upon the platform built at San Francisco by the Democratic Party in the June Convention.

In local affairs Mr. Robertson's record of service is a guarantee that he will serve well the people of the First Congressional District. He is now personally going about the Eastern Shore, consulting with them at their homes in an effort to ascertain their views, desires and needs, so that he may more intelligently represent them, if they select him.

You are again invited, as you were last week, freely to express your views at this time telling what you expect of the man YOU send to Congress. Just drop a letter to the Next Friday, April 16th, Somerset teachers will meet in the Court House at 10 o'clock a. m. The day will be a holiday for all who care to attend the meeting. Those who do not attend will teach school as usual. State Superintendent M. Bates Stephens and Prof. Thomas L. Gibson are expected to be present.

The owners and renters of the hall in the Cohn building, over Mr. Jessie C. Maddox's barber shop, notify the young men who have been entering the hall without permission that if they do not cease the practice they will be arrested. Six of them are known and their names will be published if the trespassing occurs again.

Somerset Field Day exercises will be held in Princess Anne on Thursday, April 22nd. The events will be the same as last year. It is expected that a large number of schools will take part in the meet. A special train will leave Crisfield at 8.30 o'clock and will return at 6 o'clock in the evening. Music will be furnished for the occasion by the Crisfield band.

Troop one, Boy Scouts of America, of Princess Anne, will hold a sale of all kinds of estates, including cakes, pies, bread and canned goods, on Saturday, April 17th, in the building adjoining the Presbyterian Chapel. The proceeds will go toward the camping fund which the boys are now trying to raise. Every one should go and buy something and help the one great movement for the young boy—the Boy Scouts of America.

A meeting of the Board of Election Supervisors for Somerset county was held in Princess Anne last Wednesday, when arrangements were made to hold the Democratic and Republican Primary Elections in Somerset county. A supplemental registration will be held throughout the county on Tuesday, April 27th, and the Primary Election will be held on Monday, May 3rd. Notices of the registration and election appear elsewhere in today's issue of the Marylander and Herald.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll C. Bounds, 3705 Colonial avenue, Norfolk, Va., was the scene of a very pretty but quiet wedding on Saturday evening, April 3rd, when their niece, Miss Dorothy Lena White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. J. White, of Allen, Wicomico county, who has made her home with Mr. and Mrs. Bounds for the last two years, became the bride of Joseph M. Jones, of Chester, Pa. The Rev. J. S. Meredith performed the ceremony. Only relatives of the bride and groom were present, among them Miss Beulah White, of Allen, sister of the bride.

Monday night of last week, Mr. S. S. Barnes and family came to Princess Anne to attend the entertainment of the junior class of the Washington High School, and left their automobile in front of the auditorium. Some time in the evening Ned Cottman, colored, took the automobile and, with a party of colored friends, started for Pocomoke City. When near Costen Station the automobile stopped, having burned out its bearings and pistons for want of oil. Cottman was arrested on Tuesday at Greenwood and had a hearing on Wednesday before Justice Miles. In default of $300 bail he was committed to jail for the action of the grand jury.

Flags for Soldier's Grave

More than 85,000 small flags have been purchased by the War Department to serve for the decoration of the individual graves of American soldiers who lie buried in Europe. In addition, 80 flags of large size and 350 lesser ones have been ordered for the various cemeteries for these American dead.

It is announced that the flags will be forwarded to Europe for display beginning next Memorial Day. The graves of the soldiers in France and elsewhere in Europe are rapidly being marked and decorated, and the cemeteries are being brought to a high state of perfection.

House, Barn And Outbuildings Burned

Last Thursday afternoon fire destroyed the house, barn and outbuildings on the "Peacock farm," in Dublin district, owned by Mr. Robert C. Hupke.

Mr. Hupke was at work in the fields and the fire was discovered by Mrs. Hupke in some hay and straw at the barn, who gave the alarm. When Mr. Hupke and neighbors arrived it was impossible to save anything in the barn and outbuildings, which was destroyed together with one calf, 50 bushels of soy beans, 10 bushels of cow peas, wheat, hay and all farming implements. A high wind was blowing at the time and the sparks were carried to the house which was soon ablaze. Mr. Hupke succeeded in saving most of his household furniture. The property was partly covered by insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Express Service To Be Improved

New efforts to improve the standards of the express service throughout the country are contemplated by the American Railway Express Company, which will continue the handling of the business as a single unit. A statement to this effect was made last week by Agent E. D. Young in charge of the local express office, in urging shippers to be patient and to lend their co-operation in bettering the express service.

"Now that the American Railway Express Company is operating under its own management," said Mr. Young, "we are gradually returning to normal conditions and are introducing a great many changes in methods which we expect will, within a reasonable time, show results very satisfactory to shippers."

"Our service is generally considered good. But we do not say it cannot be improved, and that is our aim. Yet we cannot promise immediate improvement, owing to the unsettled conditions that have to be faced during this period of readjustment. With the improvement of the railroad service and more facilities in cars and terminals, we believe that we can show great progress in this direction."

"It is out of the question to consider what some people call the 'unscrumbly' of the American Railway Express without greatly unsettling the whole express business and doing more harm than good to the shipping public. The present company is an organization that took over the business of the seven formerly separate companies and consolidated their working forces into a unified operating agency of 100,000 men."

"The situation with the express business is different from that of the railroads, in that the Government has simply guaranteed the present company against an operating deficit for the next six months, instead of guaranteeing the profits for a period of three years, as has been done with the case of the railroads. But no service can survive if it is operated at a deficit, and so we feel it is necessary for us to have an increase in express rates, in order to make the express service a paying business, and to bring it up to its old-time standard of efficiency."

Plant Highway Trees

A progressive step has been taken by the Woman's Club, of York, Pa., which has arranged to plant 2,500 trees along twenty-five miles of the Lincoln Highway in that locality. These trees will be red oaks, American elms, sugar maples and tulip trees.

Commonly road improvement plans make no provision for tree planting. Engineers do not seem to appreciate the beauty of trees. A highway lined with trees is much more pleasant to travel upon in summer, and its attractiveness will make tourists and visitors wish to come again.

Tree planting along the new roads would be splendid work for some of the women's organizations of Somerset county. It is also a fine task for Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and other societies of young people.

Bon Ton CORSETS

The Source of Style

IN EVERY field—there must be a logical leader to point the way to others and to set new standards of style.

BON TON corsets have always led their field and for years—the source of the best and newest in corsetry.

With every touch of fancy mirrored in staple models and every trend of fashion forecasted in latest designs, world-famous modistes of Paris, London and New York plan their great creations over BON TON'S faultless, graceful lines.

Made with the patented O-I-C clasp which does not pinch, break, twist, squeak and always stays flat.

FALSE STANDARD OF VALUES

World Too Much Given Up to Worship of Material Prosperity, Declares Writer.

Wherever we turn we find that possessions are too often the standard by which men are measured. A man's income and position bulk much more largely in the mind of most than what he is or what he does, and a nation's wealth is still instinctively spoken of in terms of finance or territorial possessions, even by those who, on platitudes, glibly say "true wealth consists in a healthy and contented people."

It is this false and pernicious view which is responsible for much of the evil at the present day. The little child who learns to pray by its mother's knee, when it rises is urged to "get on in the world," to make money, to achieve fame. No harm in this, some may say. Man cannot serve two masters, and if we examine closely we shall find that it is just this effort for each to do the best possible for him or herself that is responsible for the evil in the world.

The great need of the world is that we shall change the values. There is only one thing of supreme value, and that is humanity. This makes the millionaire and the homeless tramp equal. When the world has learned the lesson that man does not live by bread alone, then will be laid the foundation upon which a regenerated world can be built.

GOES BACK TO ROMAN LAW

Writ of Injunction Almost as Old as the Institution of Trial by Jury.

Use of the injunction is a feature of the law almost as old as the institution of trial by jury. It was first used in 1352, when the king of England empowered the chancellor to issue writs restraining the barons from overriding the common law courts. The principle of injunction dates back further still to Roman law. "It is classified in the law as one of the 'extraordinary writs.' Its essential purpose is to prevent the doing of a wrong whose effects, if consummated, would be irreparable. In other words, instead of waiting for a threatened wrong to work its damage, which a law court might redress by punishment at the assessment of damages, the equity court steps in with its 'extraordinary writ' of injunction to prevent the damage being done. Its twin is mandamus, which commands performance of certain rights and duties, while the province of injunction is to forbid performance of certain acts which might interfere with rights or result in wrongs."

Fetiches of Riksha Pullers

Although the diffusion of education among the Zulus and other natives of Natal is removing many fetish customs from their social life, some practices are held tenaciously by the children of blessed natives. At one curio establishment in Durban, Natal, it is said that on rare occasions natives ask for "Jokelei" "muti," or magic medicine made from the flesh of native children. This "muti" (which it is believed, was once used by the warriors of Tshaka and Dingaan), is supposed to convey the virtues of youth and strength. It is occasionally asked for in Natal by ricksha boys. The ricksha pullers have a firm faith in the fat of lions, tigers, crocodiles and hippos. These are stored in jars for sale to Kafir clients. Snake muti is also a favorite decoction for those desiring cunning. "A good deal of the fat for these medicines is imported by us," said a well-known curio dealer, "from Central Africa; and we are supplied by firms in Livingstone."

Olive-Growing Centers

Of all the olive-growing lands Spain is the most important in the total yield of oil, and is by nature one of those best fitted to fill its own large demands and furnish an increasing supply for export. Italy, the second olive-oil producing country in Europe, has an area planted in olives about a third greater than Spain has, but its yield in normal years is smaller. The French area under cultivation is confined to the Mediterranean coast, and is reported to be decreasing, since greater profits are obtained from viticulture. It is asserted that in recent years 20,000 hectares of olive groves have been turned into vineyards in France. Tunis and Algeria are declared to offer better prospects for olive raising than does French territory in Europe.

First Telephone Inventor

The earliest form of telephone is probably that in which the sounds of the voice are transmitted over a stretched string or wire and this form is said to have been used by the Chinese ages ago. It being impossible to give the name of the inventor, Alexander Graham Bell, born in Edinburgh, Scotland, but then resident in the United States, invented the electric telephone at Boston about the same time as Elisha Gray in Chicago, but Bell was granted priority.

Other Men's Affairs

"There man should mind his own business," remarked the severely indignant citizen.

"But what are you going to do," protested Senator Burroughs, "when you've got a whole lot of constituents, every one of whom thinks his business is your business?"

A BASEBALL GAME WITHOUT CUSSING OR ARGUMENTS!

A baseball game between red blooded young Marylanders and without cussing, swearing at or with the umpire, and with no smoking! Rather strains credulity, but just such a game was played last Monday, April 5, between two picked nines of Cambridge's young men. And thereby hangs a good story. The husky youngsters—their ages range from 18 to 22—are normal boys with all of a boy's instincts. In the summer they fish and in the winter they had been playing "African Golf," a very fascinating game, so its devotees affirm. Now there are in Cambridge three girls. They are Edith and Eleanor Alsop and their sister, Mrs. Stella Escott. They are typical Salvation Army lassies, gentle and sweet. Mrs. Escott is captain of the Cambridge corps of the Salvationists and Miss Eleanor is the ensign. During the last three months they came in contact, through street meetings and in other ways, with some 35 boys and gradually won them over to their cause. Just to show what can be done the boys decided to pull off the unique baseball game—and they did it. If the umpire gave a raw decision the usual complaints were not paid him; if a player emulated the famous Casey at a critical moment he was not immediately consigned to the hotter region. It is true that there were moments when the temptation to emphasize comment by sprinkling stout adjectives in between, but the temptation was fought down. The teachings of the three sisters won. The next innovation in Cambridge will be the starting of a ten-piece orchestra by the boys under the auspices of the three girls and it will be SOME orchestra, the boys say.

Merit That Makes Mileage —In Tires for the Smaller Cars

Such extraordinary competence and carefulness as are characteristic of all Goodyear manufacture likewise characterize Goodyear's building of tires for the smaller cars.

Only very unusual experience and endeavor make possible the high relative value built into the 30x3, 30x3½, and 31x4-inch Goodyear Tires in our Plant No. 2, the world's largest factory devoted to these sizes.

In addition to the larger sizes Goodyear builds, a daily production averaging 20,000 tires of these smaller sizes alone makes them easily available, regardless of the big demand, to owners of Ford, Chevrolet, Dort, Maxwell, and other cars taking these sizes.

If you are one of these owners, go to the nearest Goodyear Service Station Dealer for these tires, and for Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes. He carries a stock.

30x3½ Goodyear Double-Cure Fabric, All-Weather Tread $23.50
30x3½ Goodyear Single-Cure Fabric, All-Weather Tread $21.50

Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes are thick, strong tubes that reinforce casings properly. Why risk a good casing with a cheap tube? Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes cost little more than tubes of less merit. 30x3½ size in water—$4.50 proof bag College Seniors Made Decided Mistake When They Tried to "Smoke Out" Young Kentuckian.

Tom Honan, former attorney general of Indiana, was talking of his college days at Indiana university. He recalled, with a laugh, how the seniors used to "smoke out" the freshmen in the good old days.

"The big idea was," said Mr. Honan, "for five or six, or perhaps a dozen seniors, to congregate in the room of a freshman and smoke pipes until the smoke made him sick. Usually the fellow selected for the 'smoking out' process was one of these mollycoddle youngsters who had not long been divorced from his mother's apron strings.

"One time we selected a long, lean Kentucky boy. One by one we dropped in, lighted our pipes and began the game. Kentucky fired up his pipe, too, and the evening wore on. The smoke grew heavier with each passing half-hour. Not a window was up, not a door open. Along about eleven o'clock two or three seniors disappeared. They had been shipwrecked. Finally the tobacco began running out, much to the pleasure of several of us. But Kentucky smoked on.

"At last one of us remarked to Kentucky that we'd have to go, as our tobacco had run out.

"No, don't go," Kentucky insisted. "I've got a lot more tobacco. Lawdy, I couldn't think of comin' way up north heal without some good tobacco."

"Kentucky opened his trunk. One end of it was jammed with old Kentucky long green tobacco. We tore out. We had picked on the wrong bird."—Indianapolis News.

SERKESS FOUND HIS MOTHER

Pathetic Cases Such as This One Reported Have Long Been Common in Armenia.

Bright and early one morning a band of Arabs drove up to the Near East Relief orphanage at Kars, Armenia, bringing with them a forlorn little chap about five years old.

"We want you to take this boy," said the leader of the band to an official of the orphanage. "He has no father, nor mother."

"What is his name?" the leader of the band was asked.

"He is called, Serkess," shouted back the leader of the Arabs as they galloped away.

In this way little Serkess became a member of our family. He was an intelligent little chap but seemed unable to remember anything about his home or his parents.

A few days later one of the native women helpers at the orphanage was going through the playground when she suddenly stopped, turned pale and stared unbelievably at one of the little chaps who was playing there, "Serkess!" she cried, and running to the youngster gathered him into her arms. Serkess was her son who had been taken from her two years before by the Turks.

Country of Little Change

Recently when Professor Williams visited the vice regent of South Morocco, the latter quoted from a charter given by the sultan of Morocco in 1026. The visitor expressed surprise that this ancient parchment still remained in the vault, and the vice regent exclaimed: "Why not? We have never moved!" This incident is said not to be at all remarkable. Wherever one goes in the Turkish empire, he is likely to be confronted with the evidence of age by the traditions handed down from generation to generation. It is no more strange for a Turk to speak of happenings in his family of centuries ago than it is for an old man in this country to recall with pride the exploits of his father or grandfather.

Things That Count

It is not so much what we say but what we do that wins men to better things; not what we preach but how we act that saves souls and puts the red lifeblood into an anaemic world. After all, the world is quickest touched not by the great building but by the great heart; not by the cold word on printed page but by the warm word as it comes from living lips; not so much by the house of mercy as by the merciful hand laid on the fevered brow; not so much by the house that shelters the wanderer as the beautiful face which enshrines motherhood at whose knees lonely children gather.—Grit.

All Right

The fourth grade teacher was teaching the children the meaning of several new words, among them being the word "naturalist." She had spoken of John Burroughs and several of our best known nature lovers and then decided to test the children to see whether they thoroughly understood the word. She turned to Little Newell. Use the word 'naturalist' in a sentence," she told him.

For a minute the little fellow was perplexed and then came a bright thought which brought relief to his face. He said: "That was the naturalist picture we have of my grandfather."

Evenly Matched

"Are they well matched?"
"Well, she's his second wife, but she's her second husband, so neither has any talking advantage over the other."

Glad to Try Anything

Three years ago my system was in a terrible run down condition and I was broken out all over my body. I began to be worried about my condition and I was glad to try anything which would relieve me. Peru-na was recommended to me as a fine blood purifier and tonic, and I soon found that it was worthy of praise. A few bottles changed my condition materially and in a short time I was all over my trouble. I owe my restoration to health and strength to Peru-na. Glad to endorse it.

"POOR MAN'S LAWYER" HAS ITS FIRST WOMAN ATTORNEY

"Legal advice," said Miss Dorothy Fooks, attorney for the Salvation Army, at National Headquarters, New York City, "ought to be given away for the asking. It ought to be dispensed like religion and medicine."

This is the reason why Miss Fooks chooses to cast her legal career with the Salvation Army, to aid that organization in the part of its work in which it serves as "The Poor Man's Lawyer." That is the reason why, armed with a legal degree, dated 1918, an admission to the bar, on which the ink was scarcely dry, 22 years of youth and more than ordinary good looks, she opened her office at Salvation Army Headquarters, 122 West Fourteenth street, New York City.

Miss Fooks has made good. She has untangled many family snarls without resorting to the divorce courts. She has obtained justice for tenement dwellers who have been preyed upon by landlords, installment collectors and loan sharks. She has helped pay off mortgages, settle wills and draw up contracts. She has defended criminal actions in court and protected the rights of men and women who were prevented by iron bars and prison gates from managing their own affairs.

But that's not all. It was found that an additional legal adviser was needed by the Salvation Army to look after its $10,000,000 worth of property— orphan asylums, maternity hospitals, industrial homes, day nurseries, schools—scattered throughout the length and breadth of the land. Miss Fooks was given the work. Again she waded triumphantly through the task.

It is no uncommon thing for the Salvation Army to receive urgent calls from the poor for legal advice and assistance, and when the cases are worthy the Army obtains competent lawyers and sees that justice is obtained. This is one of the incidental developments of the Army's many activities which bring it into intimate contact with the poor, the unfortunate and the misfit country over.

Attorneys in many cities make it a practice to give their services free to those recommended by the Salvation Army. Miss Fooks is the first woman lawyer to "hang out her shingle" with the Army.

"THE FATHER OF THE MAN"

THIS is "Jimmy," towheaded, with an eye that meets yours unwaveringly and as winsome a liddle as ever knelt for bedtime prayers. Jimmy is one of more than 25,000 homeless or poor children yearly cared for by the Salvation Army in the United States, and he lives in one of the Army's many orphanages. "Send me a papa and mamma!" is the burden of "Jimmy's" nightly pleas. "And—and, God bless the Salvation Army!" he almost invariably adds. The Salvation lassies find fully as much enjoyment in caring for "Jimmy" and his thousands of brothers and sisters as they did in frying doughnuts for doughboys and marines in France. If the child is father to the man, they argue, the father must have a good bringing up. And so the chain of fifty Salvation Army orphanages, day nurseries and children's hospitals that stretch from coast to coast.

She Prayed for a Dishpan—Got It!

MAJOR JENNIE WARD.

story of how prayer brought a much-needed dishpan to Major Jennie Ward, the beloved head of the Army's famous Cherry Street Slum Settlement and Nursery on New York's East Side.

So much poverty and suffering existed in the neighborhood at the time that the Major and her helpers did not feel justified in taking even a slim dime to buy a new dishpan. Finally the Major and her assistants went down on their knees and prayed for a dishpan, just as they had prayed for guidance in their work of relieving the distress about them.

That evening, the Major set out with her tambourine to collect such money as she could on the streets and in the saloons thereabouts. In one of the "gin-mills" was an utterly inebriated man with a large bundle.

"Here, shister," he mumbled, as the Major rattled her tambourine before him, "I ain't got no money, but yer-hic-welcome to yish."

"It was a fine big dishpan," said the Major the other day, as she reminisced about her work of thirty years ago.

BACACHIE IS A WARNING

Princess Anne People Should Not Neglect Their Kidneys

Bacache is often nature's most frequent signal of weakened kidneys. To cure the pains and aches, to remove the lameness when it arises from weakened kidneys, you must reach the cause—the kidneys. If you have pain through the small of your back, urinary disorders, headaches, dizzy spells, or are nervous and depressed, start treating the kidneys with a tested kidney remedy.

Doan's Kidney Pills have been proved good and are especially for weak kidneys. Doan's have been used in kidney trouble for over 50 years. Read Princess Anne testimony.

Mrs. K. L. Smith, 106 Beckford Ave., says: "Some years ago I was in a bad way from severe backache. My back was very painful, especially when I stooped over and sharp pains caught me when I straightened up. I was very miserable and one day I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills. After using two boxes I was rid of the trouble. I can say nothing too good for Doan's Kidney Pills."

PRINCESS ANNE HAS A BIG CONFLAGRATION

Stables And Two Stables Burned Late Monday Afternoon Of Last Week—Loss About $50,000 Partly Covered By Insurance

Monday afternoon of last week a fire started on the upper floor of the building, used as a livery stable, on Beechwood street, which threatened the entire section in that part of Princess Anne.

The fire was discovered about 8 o'clock and had gained rapid headway before the local fire department could get on the scene and, fanned by a stiff southwest wind, the flames spread so quickly that the fire was soon beyond control of the firefighters, who were hampered by high winds and low water pressure. Calls for help were sent to Salisbury and Crisfield. Shortly before 4 o'clock the Salisbury fire company arrived and the flames were brought under control. The Princess Anne volunteer fire department found itself unequal to the task before it because of its inadequate equipment, though its members fought bravely to save the homes and properties of our citizens.

The stable, where the fire started, was owned by Mr. Reynolds, and was valued for $500. A horse in the stable was burned, with a lot of hay; also, a Buick car, belonging to Mr. S. D. Murray, who resided in the house adjoining the stable on the south, belonging to Mr. Gegen, which was destroyed; insurance $2,000.

The other buildings destroyed were the homes of Mrs. Elizabeth Lankford, Mr. Columbus Lankford, Mrs. Mary E. Hayman and the barn of Mr. J. T. Taylor, Jr., on Beechwood Street, the dwelling house on Irving Avenue, owned by Mr. James A. McAllen and tenanted by Mr. W. Upshur Dixon. The home of Mr. William J. Brown, on the same street, where the fire was gotten under control, was partly destroyed.

Those residing in the burnt district saved most of their household effects. Mrs. Lankford carried an insurance of $2,900 on house and furniture; Mr. Lankford, $2,250 on house and furniture; Mrs. Hayman, $1,200 on house and furniture; Mr. McAllen, $400 on house and Mr. Dixon, $1,000 on his furniture. Mr. Brown's property was insured for $1,750. Mr. Taylor had no insurance on his barn.

The fire is supposed to have originated by the carelessness of some one throwing a lighted cigar or cigarette in the barn. The loss will aggregate about $50,000 and each property owner's loss is estimated to be about 50 per cent. of their investment.

Somerset Teachers Meet

An interesting meeting of the teachers of Somerset county was held at the high school building in Princess Anne last Friday. The session was opened with an invocation by Rev. I. S. Hankins. The county superintendent then made a brief address and introduced Prof. Thomas L. Gibson, state supervisor of music, who presented his subject in a most efficient manner. Miss J. Frances Moore accompanied him upon the piano. Mrs. Emma J. Layfield made an excellent report of the committee upon the subject of music. Miss Lurline Gibbons sang a beautiful solo, accompanied by Miss Priscilla Lankford. State Superintendent M. Bates Stephens was then introduced and delivered an entertaining address. One of the features of the morning session was a solo by Rev. I. S. Hankins. Mr. Chas. F. Lustnauer, of the Public Athletic League, addressed the teachers upon the subject of physical training and its benefits. Mr. Fred H. Dewey gave an interesting talk on dictionaries and their making. Miss Miriam Dryden made a fine report upon professional training.

Luncheon was served at 12:30 to the teachers and officials by the Domestic Science Department of the Princess Anne High School under the direction of its instructor, Miss J. Frances Moore.

Somerset Gets 250 Quail

On Monday of last week Mr. C. M. Dashiell, president of the Somerset Game Association, received five crates of "bob white" quail, containing 250 birds, for distribution in the county. These birds were shipped by the Pan-American Bird Company from Laredo, Texas, on the order of State Game Warden E. Lee LeCompte, 35 of them having died in transit. The remainder were divided equally and handed over to the different vice-presidents of the Game Association in the several districts of the county, who liberated them in sections of their districts which afforded the greatest protection from the ravages of the hawk.

The "bob white" has become almost extinct in some sections of our county and much praise is given Mr. LeCompte by our sportsmen for his efforts to re-stock the county with this most highly valued game bird.

CITIZENS MEET TO HELP FIREMEN

Last Wednesday night a meeting was held in the Auditorium to discuss ways and means of improving the Princess Anne Volunteer Fire Company's fire-fighting equipment.

The meeting was attended by over a hundred citizens. Mr. E. Herrman Cohn was made chairman and Mr. W. O. Lankford, Jr., secretary. Mr. George W. Colborn, Jr., championed the cause of the needs of the local fire department in a telling address, which was followed by Col. Henry J. Waters and Messrs. George H. Myers, H. Fillmore Lankford, Cassius M. Dashiell, George W. Maslin and E. Herrman Cohn.

The speakers were of the opinion that it had been demonstrated by recent fires that the Volunteer Fire Department was not equal to the task of fighting fires with its inadequate equipment, and that a fire engine was necessary for the protection of the property of our town.

Col. Henry J. Waters made a motion that the town be divided into districts and a committee be appointed to solicit subscriptions to purchase a fire engine, which was seconded by Mr. George H. Myers with an amendment that the amount of the subscription should be suggested to each citizen by the committee. This motion was carried and the chairman, Mr. E. Herrman Cohn, was instructed to appoint a committee to solicit subscriptions, after which the meeting adjourned subject to a call of the chairman.

Washington High School Notes

On Thursday, April 22nd, the annual Field Day exercises for the schools of Somerset county will be held in Princess Anne. Although the enrollment of the Washington High School is far less than that of Crisfield, and consequently the entries from our school will be fewer, we are counting on the rural schools to help us trim Crisfield.

Great excitement was created in school circles by the announcement that a certain young Washington High School teacher, contrary to her usual custom, would remain in Princess Anne over the week end. The general supposition is that she remained over to complete some unfinished work.

If you can't contribute ten dollars to the piano fund, buy a ham sandwich on Field Day.

On Friday evening, at 8 o'clock, the second meeting of the Parent-Teachers' Association was held in the Court House. The next meeting will be held Friday, May 21st. All patrons of the school are urged to be present.

The Parent-Teachers' Association wishes to express its gratitude to the patrons for the hearty response made by them to its appeal for donations for Field Day.

We hear that Crisfield is planning to bring a band with them on Field Day. May we suggest that they include Chopin's Funeral March in their repertoire. It may serve as a fitting recession.

Home Economic Certificates Awarded

We have been informed by Miss Mills, Home Demonstrator for Somerset county, that State certificates have been awarded to the following young ladies: Misses Hazel Ford, Fannie Ford and Florence Miles, of the Upper Fairmount school; Miss Caroline Pollitt, of the Head of the Creek school, and Miss Julia Shores, of the Deal's Island school. The work performed by these young ladies has been of an excellent character and it has been much praised by Miss Mills and the faculty of the Maryland State College.

During the past year Somerset county has won three honors in the Junior Home-makers, work. It has the largest club membership in the State; has excelled all the counties by having the largest percentage of exhibits at the county fair and having the best written histories about the work.

The work Miss Mills has been doing has achieved fine results and there can be no doubt that as that work continues the inspiration of all club members will be to greater ambitions.

A Great Picture Next Monday Night

One of the greatest pictures ever produced by motion picturedom is the "Miracle Man," which will be shown at the Auditorium next Monday night, April 26th. In addition to the picture there will be five vaudeville acts. This entertainment is given by the Princess Anne Volunteer Fire Company to start a fund to buy an automobile fire engine and it should receive the support of the town. Tickets are on sale by members of the fire department. There are no reserved seats and the admission is 50 cents.

INTERCHURCH WORLD MOVEMENT

Simultaneous Campaign From April 25th To May 2nd

The Interchurch World Movement, which is thirty denominations in co-operation, is at present engaged in preparing for the united simultaneous financial campaign to be conducted from April 25th to May 2nd to raise the budgets of the co-operating denominations for missionary, education and benevolent causes aggregating the sum of $336,777,572, all of which is to be subscribed this year but only $175,448,349 of which is to be paid before January 1st.

The movement is to the co-operating denominations what a clearing house is to banks—it enables them easily to do business with each other and promote the interests of all without affecting the self rule of any. It has no legislative or executive authority over any of the co-operating groups.

It is not the purpose of the movement to work for organic union of the churches, nor is it the purpose to conduct any kind of repressive campaign. Its program is constructive in purpose and world wide in scope.

Robert Lansing, former Secretary of State, is chairman of the general committee of 150 men and women appointed and approved by the denominations in the movement. John R. Mott is the chairman of the executive committee. S. Earl Taylor is general secretary of the movement and its active executive.

The world budget of the thirty denominations to be raised during the united simultaneous campaign from April 25th to May 2nd is to be used by the denominational administrative boards for the following causes:

|--|---------------|
| Foreign Missions | $107,661,488 |
| Home Missions | 109,949,087 |
| American Education | 78,837,431 |
| American Religious Education | 5,931,925 |
| American Hospitals and Homes | 5,116,465 |
| American Ministerial Pensions and Relief | 20,510,299 |
| Miscellaneous | 8,770,927 |

Total amount to be subscribed in 1920 $336,777,572. The plan being worked out is to have State advisory committees and county advisory committees representative of the denominations in the various geographical units to help the field force of the movement to attain the objects of the denominations working on the co-operative basis as expressed by the Interchurch World Movement.

Bankers Meet At Pocomoke City

The semi-annual meeting of the Associated Banks of Wicomico, Somerset and Worcester Counties met in Pocomoke City Thursday last and the gathering proved to be one of the most interesting in the history of the Association. Every bank in the district was represented and the program was both interesting and instructive to all interested in the banking business. The officers of the association are: President, Isaac L. Price, cashier of the People's National Bank of Salisbury; vice-president, W. E. Bratten, cashier of the First National Bank of Snow Hill; secretary, Howard L. Runk, assistant cashier of the Salisbury National Bank; treasurer, W. B. Spiva, cashier of the Bank of Somerset of Princess Anne.

After the business meeting the bankers were shown around the town and took in the many points of interest. Beginning at 6:30 o'clock a banquet was tendered the visitors in the parlors of the Presbyterian Church, the ladies of that denomination acting as caterers. Covers were spread for one hundred and ten persons and every seat was taken.

Constable Shoots A Boy

Roland Parks, a 16-year-old boy of Tangier Island, is in the hospital at Crisfield in a serious condition from a bullet wound in his chest inflicted by Constable Connorton Sunday afternoon the 11th instant. Tangier Island has an ordinance prohibiting loading on store porches and streets on Sunday, and residents are compelled either to be in church during the hours for service or in their homes.

The ordinance is strictly enforced and several persons have been fined for violations. Young Parks was on a store porch when Officer Connorton came along and ordered him home. He at first refused to go, but when the officer made a move toward him he ran and began teasing the officer, whereupon Connorton drew his revolver and fired, the bullet penetrating the lower chest. Parks was carried to his home and given medical treatment, but his condition became critical, hemorrhages developed and he was taken to the hospital at Crisfield last Tuesday.

Women folks should observe "Be Kind to Animal Week" by getting up some good dinners for their husbands.

STATE'S RECORD IN RECENT WAR

Adj.-Gen. Warfield Says Maryland Should Be Proud Of It

Former Adjutant General H. M. Warfield on Monday of last week submitted his annual report to the General Assembly. Here are some of the most important extracts from the report:

Maryland should be proud of her record in this war, as there entered the service from Maryland a total of 52,245, divided as follows:

|----------------------|--------|
| In the Army | 10,144 |
| In the Navy | 6,913 |
| In the Marine Corps | 778 |
| In the National Army | 34,412 |

From all reports the men from Maryland acquitted themselves most creditably, as is evidenced by the official reports of the War Department. The National Guard of Maryland was principally in the 29th Division of the Army, which took active part in the Argonne and Meuse sectors of the battlefield, and the organizations from this state which took part in these battles, upheld the traditions of our state. The 115th Infantry, which was commanded by Col. M. A. Record, of Belair, was the largest unit composed entirely of National Guard troops that our state had in the Army, and no regiment is more highly spoken of by the officials of the War Department.

"I believe that the new National Guard will soon be organized and with the personnel which has so far been selected as officers should insure an efficient force. The officers selected so far have practically all had field experience in the war and it is hoped that in addition to the National Guard officers we can secure the services of a number of officers who served in the Regular Army and National Army. The units for which the state has been called upon to furnish are a somewhat different organization of the guard than that in existence at the time of the President's call for the world war. Maryland is called upon for one infantry brigade, composed of two regiments, two batteries of field artillery and one field hospital company, which it is understood is to be enlarged by the addition of the one other battery of artillery, making a battalion for artillery, two machine gun battalions and one machine gun troop.

"If the state of Maryland is to fill this ultimate allotment it will be very difficult to do so with the present armory facilities. It is the belief of this office that the state should utilize the lot which it owns at the corner of Maryland and North avenues, Baltimore, known as the 4th Regiment Armory lot, for the erection of an armory suitable to house a battalion of artillery and one or two machine gun battalions or a battalion of engineers in place of a machine gun battalion, should such authority be granted."

See Freckles At Auditorium Tonight

One of the most important offerings of the current season at the Auditorium, Princess Anne, is the first presentation here of Neil Twomey's delightful dramatization of Gene Stratton-Porter's charming story "Freckles," which is announced for tonight (Tuesday). The fact that there have been more readers of this story than any other book published in a decade—a fair estimate is in the millions—makes the dramatization of the utmost importance to the dramatic world.

"Freckles," as a song play, is stronger than "Freckles" as a story. The characters, live, love and have adventure—one can see and hear, there is nothing left to the imagination. The Broadway Amusement Company, under whose management the present tour is conducted, has made the production of "Freckles" exceedingly elaborate, and has assembled a company of unusual excellence for the presentation of this charming song play.

The music for the play and the songs rendered by "Freckles" and other characters are by the Viennese composer, Anatol Friedland, and are a novelty from a musical point of view. The Woodland Fantasy played during the play is a masterpiece. This is not a moving picture.

Want Dashiell On Conservation Board

Strong sentiment has developed in Somerset county in favor of the appointment by Governor Ritchie, of Hon. S. Frank Dashiell, of Princess Anne, formerly clerk of the Circuit Court, as a member of the Maryland Conservation Commission. While he has made no announcement of his candidacy for the appointment, the belief is entertained that the demand for Mr. Dashiell's appointment is so general among all classes of people engaged in the seafood business that the Governor will be bound to give his name serious consideration in connection with the Conservation Board appointments, and that he would accept the appointment if tendered to him.

SOMERSET FIELD DAY EXERCISES

Next Celebration Will Take Place At Princess Anne Next Thursday

Thursday, April 22nd, has been designated by Dr. Wm. Burdick, Director of the Public Athletic League, as Field Day for Somerset county. Arrangements have been made to celebrate the day at the county seat. Addresses will be delivered by Dr. J. L. McBrien, Washington, D. C., and State Superintendent M. Bates Stephens.

After these addresses there will be games of various kinds at the high school grounds, which will continue until noon. There will be an intermission when luncheons will be sold by the teachers and their friends, the proceeds of which are to be devoted to the purchase of a piano for the high school. At 1:30 the athletic contests will begin and they will be followed by baseball and other games. The officials for the occasion follow:

Honorary Referee—Hon. John B. Robins.

Referee—Dr. Wm. Burdick. Starter—F. D. Layfield.

Honorary Judges—Dr. G. T. Atkinson, Dr. C. W. Wainwright, Thomas H. Bock and Dr. E. E. Tull.

Field Judges—Frank Collins, E. Denett Long, C. C. Waller, F. E. Gardner, Harry C. Dashiell, H. P. Tull, Dr. H. W. Barnes and George H. Myers.

Inspectors—L. A. Chamberlin, Lafayette Hurak, Lorie C. Quinn and T. Melvin Horsey.

Assistant Relay Clerks—Robert H. Jones, W. O. Lankford, Jr., Dr. E. P. Simpson and E. Walter Long. Scorers—Earl B. Polk and M. W. Adams.

Assistant Scorer—J. E. Bowland. Announcer—C. Z. Keller.

Timekeepers—Dr. T. J. Smith, L. Creston Beauchamp, Dr. H. M. Lankford and Paul Gunby.

Custodian of Prizes—W. O. Lankford. Committee on Decisions of Last Report—Theodore E. Straus, chairman; Col. Washington Bowie, Henry C. Peniman, Latrobe Cogswell, William J. Leimkuhler.

The music for the occasion will be furnished by Sterling's Band, of Crisfield. Arrangements have been made for a special train which will leave Crisfield, 8:30 a. m.; Pine street station, 8:35; Hopewell, 8:43; Marion, 8:50; Kingston, 8:58; Westover, 9:05; King's Creek, 9:15, arriving at Princess Anne at 9:25 a. m. Returning the train will leave Princess Anne at 6:00 p. m., stopping at intervening stations, and arriving at Crisfield at 6:55 p. m.

The colored schools will celebrate their Field Day on Friday, April 23rd, on the grounds of the "Greenwood" School in Princess Anne.

Brutally Killed His Father

Probably the most horrible and gruesome crime ever committed within the borders of Sussex county, Del., was committed near Laurel last Wednesday evening, when Derrick Morris, farmer, was murdered by having his throat cut from ear to ear by his son, Ollie Morris, aged 20. A sheriff's posse was immediately organized and a search made for the son, who was caught at his mother's home, nine miles from Laurel.

The murder was the outcome of a quarrel between father and son over a woman with whom the son had been associating. The woman resides at Swan Creek, and young Morris persisted in paying attention to her, much against his father's wishes. After a visit to the woman, and upon his return to his home the young man promised to lead a different life and give the woman up, if his father would forgive him and go with him to the woman's home to get some clothing he had left there.

This the father consented to do, and Wednesday afternoon set out for Swan Creek. When near a place known as Godwin's Mill the boy cut his father's throat with a razor, the head being severed from the body. In an endeavor, apparently to make it appear that there had been an accident, the boy drove the team on the railroad track with the expectation that the north-bound train, which was about due, would hit the team, but the engineer of the train saw the team in time to stop the train and to see Ollie Morris start to run through the woods. Finding the man had been murdered, the train crew started in pursuit of the young man, but were unable to catch him.

Mr. Derrick Morris drew $300 from bank before starting on the fatal trip. This money was not on the body and it is supposed was one incentive for the murder, the boy taking it as a help in making his escape.

It is unlikely that ever another man held the unique position in a community that Richard Jerome occupied in Wakefield.

Vocationally Richard was a lawyer, and a good one. A generous practice had given him a financial status that might be termed comfortable, and of late years he had placed certain restrictions on his legal business which permitted many spare moments for his avocation, which was the mending of broken hearts.

The avocation paid Richard not a penny, but he performed the work with a gleam in his eye and joy in his heart; for he loved humanity and could not bear to see his fellows suffer when a way to alleviate their troubles was ready in his hand.

Never had a lovelorn young man appealed to Richard in vain; never had he failed, in his assumed role of Cupid, to "get the verdict." His almost uncanny insight into the ways of women gave him something akin to fame in Wakefield, although it was a fame that was spread by word of mouth and not by newspaper headlines and half-tones.

It began when Richard's chum, Anthony Brexton, came to him with tears in his eyes and wailed:

"It's all over, Dick. Will you please get me a bottle of carbolic acid or an equally deadly poison? Isabelle has turned me down and life holds nothing for me now."

Richard had calmly lighted a corn-cob pipe which was so old it looked as if it might have been the pattern after which all the others were copied, had settled himself comfortably, and said:

"First—before we get this carbolic acid—let's hear your story. Not that I am curious, but I object to spending good money for poison unless it's necessary. Remember, I am a lawyer. Why not let me advise you? My fee will not be heavy."

Anthony had laughed miserably.

"You advise in a love affair? That's funny, Dick. Why, you're a confirmed bachelor. You've never been engaged, never had a girl in your life."

"Maybe that will give me a better perspective in the matter," said Richard. "It won't hurt to try."

Then he had listened while Anthony unfolded his tale of woe, and when it was finished and the latter was huddled back in his chair choking back sobs and looking like a child that had crept out of bed early Christmas morning and found his stocking empty, Richard had taken the case up complacently with:

"Your problem is easily solved. Isabelle thinks you have proved yourself faithless. She won't listen to your explanations. She's a fort and you're trying to storm her with shells that won't penetrate the walls. The thing to do is to find a new method of attack. Put yourself on the defensive and wait for the garrison to make a sortie. Then capture the garrison. Now, this is my plan in detail—"

"A week later Anthony appeared again, radiant, jubilant. The scheme had worked."

Now, Anthony had a friend who developed heart trouble, and the friend went to Anthony for advice. "Take it to Jerome; he'll fix it," was the advice he got, and Richard proffered a prescription that healed the wounds. And so on, and so on, till Richard's reputation was firmly established.

Richard was not a youth in years, although he seemed one at heart, and most of his friends were at least ten years younger. Richard was nearly forty and there were tinges of gray in his hair and some wrinkles on his forehead. He was not handsome, but strength of character was stamped on his face, and this attracted most people he met.

One day a young man came into his office with a listless manner and a heart that was not working right.

"My name's Fred Mania," he said by way of introduction, and cast a sour look out of the window at a painter on a scaffold across the street. "I've been living in Wakefield only a month, but during that time I've fallen in love with the most wonderful girl in the world. I've taken her about considerably, and I've tried desperately hard to win her, but she has not responded. I could not tell the time was not ripe, but she knew what I was driving at and last night she told me I could not see her again. I knew Elmer Johnson at college, and when I told him my troubles this morning he referred me to you. It seems you worked up a little love affair for him about a year ago."

Mr. Mania did not offer to reveal the names of his ideal, and Richard did not press him for it. This middle-aged Cupid was not curious or meddling. He simply advised where adoration was sought.

"I don't doubt she's trying you out," he said. "Remain away from her; don't try to see her. That will keep her guessing, and before long she'll probably make it a point to meet you somewhere and find out if you really care. When she does it indicates one of two things—either she loves you or she's just trying to get you out of her sight."

"How long has Mr. Mania been in town?" asked the lawyer.

"No more than a week," said the lawyer.

"No; I understand her husband does all the complaining in the family."

"It doesn't work," he announced. "I've done as you advised, or she might as well be dead as far as my effort she's made to see me."

Richard Jerome, love mediator.

"We'll have to try a new plan," he said after a pause, during which he resorted to the ancient corn-cob. "Call her up and tell her you've got to see her just once more. Then go to it. Tell her you're desperately in love, and that she must marry you. Be a cave man within reasonable limits."

Three days later Mr. Mania appeared for the third time, and this time he was wretchedness personified.

"It's all over," he cried bitterly, kicking over Richard's waste basket.

"She says she doesn't love me and will not marry me. She says I'm a nice enough sort of a chap, but she doubts that I have real character. For one thing, I'm too young, according to her ideas. She wants an older man."

Richard was puffing on the corn-cob. He could not evade the fact that he had come face to face with his first failure as Cupid.

"In fact," Mr. Mania resumed, "she told me there was one man in this town that she admired and has loved for four years. He's rather old for a girl like me," she said, "but I'd jump at the chance to marry him. Some day, perhaps, he'll come my way, but if he doesn't I'll never marry at all."

Richard emptied the ashes from the pipe and filled it again. He struck a match and was preparing to apply the flame to the tobacco when his client went on:

"The funny part of it is, Julia has never been in this man's society but once four years ago, when she was his partner on a Sunday school hayride."

Richard dropped the match suddenly. It had burned his finger. He sat puffing, but getting no smoke, and asked:

"What did you say is her name?"

"Julia Roth" was the response.

The corn-cob fell and sprinkled unlighted tobacco over the floor, while in his mouth Richard retained the broken stem. He rose and took his hat from a peg on the wall.

"I'm sorry," he said, as Mr. Mania prepared to leave. "I'm dead sorry for you; but I've got to admit that for once I have failed as a heart doctor."

They stepped toward the door, listlessness in Mr. Mania's gait, while in Richard's there was an unaccustomed vigor. He opened the door and paused.

"I don't mind letting you in on a little secret," he said, and his eyes were bright. "I've loved that girl ever since the hayride, but—well, I have been a pretty good adviser in the love affairs of others, but when it came to mine—"

He placed an arm on the other's shoulder.

"I'm dead sorry for you, really; but you can't blame me for wanting a little heart throb of my own."

AGAIN THE TERRIBLE TURK!

Details of Tragedy Which for Some Reason Did Not "Make" the First Page.

Early dawn was spreading over the valley. The first sun's rays were stealing over the white houses far below.

They were standing still, watching the maturing beauties of nature.

"Dear," said she gushingly, "look at the beautiful sunrise."

"Just look at the lovely dewdrop," he cried appreciatively.

Indeed, the dew was sweet. Their feet were soaked with it and it fell down on their uncovered heads, drenching them quietly.

"And that waterfall—how gorgeous!" she murmured, turning around to whence came the mighty sounds.

He started to move. "Oh, don't go yet," she pleaded.

"But I'm hungry," he said. "I want my breakfast."

"Oh, Hoppy, let's hunt for some breakfast—here in the fields. We might find—"

Here she stopped and her eyes dilated in terror. Wonderingly, and as though sensing some danger, she looked, too. Small wonder she stopped—froze in her tracks, for if ever an evil, murderous-looking, blood-thirsty face leered into theirs, it was the face of the sinister Turk.

Then arousing himself from his torpor the lover uttered a shriek of terror and dragged his loved one along with him as he went.

The Turk—a wonderful specimen he was, too—with a wicked wink, let them flee some distance. Then coolly, deliberately, he followed.

The poor frightened creatures never looked back and the wily Turk never lost sight of them. Suddenly he made up his mind and leaped toward them.

Oh, if they could but get safely behind some trees—or hide in the dark corner of some hidden cave.

But no! 'Twas not to be! Doggone if it was. The only place left them to escape from the terrible Turk was the cool, inviting waters beneath the roaring torrent.

Alas! Ever they reached the surging surgery to escape from a more terrible death, the red-faced, hungry turkey was upon them and gobbled the two little grasshoppers up at one sobble.—Detroit Free Press.

Dear Man,

"You like to see Mrs. Styles come in to your shop, I suppose," said the caller.

"Indeed, I do. She never complains at the prices I ask for her hats," replied the milliner.

WHEAT CROP PROSPECTS GOOD

Crop 80 Per Cent. Of Perfect, Says State College Expert

In spite of the severe winter and late spring the wheat crop is showing signs of being much better than was at first expected by agricultural experts. According to Prof. T. C. Symons, director of the extension service staff of the Maryland State College of Agriculture and secretary of the Maryland Agricultural Society, the wheat crop is in what is technically termed 80 per cent. perfect condition.

During a winter which is consistently cold and when there is a great deal of snow wheat flourishes, according to Mr. Symons. However, when the weather is alternately warm and cold water settles around the base of the plants and when it freezes lifts the roots out of ground. In this exposed condition the plants soon die. A quantity of hail and sleet likewise proves adverse.

During the last winter, although there was considerable sleet, the weather was almost continuously cold and the wheat did not grow large enough to be seriously injured. The fact that it has been continuously cold almost up to the present time makes the prospect not only for wheat but for all fruits much brighter than was thought during the winter.

Unless there is a heavy frost about the middle of April, Professor Symons said, fruit will have passed its crisis, and there will be a large yield. The cold weather has prevented premature budding, and a slow development of the fruit will take place.

With reference to the tomato outlook, Professor Symons said conditions were puzzling. Cannons have been refusing to make contracts because they fear the Government will release large quantities of canned goods left from army supplies, and that the market will become demoralized. The farmer consequently is doubtful as to the acreage he should lay aside for tomatoes. A new system by which the yield of tomatoes may be raised from three and one-half or four to six or eight tons an acre is being explained to the farmers and it is likely that by this means it will be possible for him to protect himself. The system calls for scientific fertilizing and for spraying at certain seasons with solutions selected after an analysis of the soil.

Environment.

We are very much what others think us. The reception our observations meet with gives us courage to proceed or damps our efforts. A man is a wit and a philosopher in one place who dares not open his mouth and is considered a blockhead in another. In some companies nothing will go down but coarse, practical jests, while the finest remark or sarcasm would be disregarded.—Hazlett.

On the Other Side.

Little Philip had cried all night with toothache and upon receiving a nickel the next morning he went as usual to get candy again. His auntie, on coming home, and finding he had bought candy with her nickel, asked him: "Why, Philip, I thought you weren't ever going to eat candy again?" To which he replied: "Well, auntie, I'm not eating this candy on the toothache side."

CUPID'S CAR

By RALPH HAMILTON

(Copyright, 1920, Western Newspaper Union)

"A wilful, ungrateful girl!" exclaimed Miss Maria Ward, "but I will bend her, even if I break her!"

Thus to an old spinster friend, soulless and crabbed as herself, and the latter voiced entire approval of the system and designs of her double in primness, prejudice, and, as it was now turning out, perversity.

The subject of discussion was Miss Ward's niece, Drusilla North. Since she was twelve years of age her aunt had been her guardian, in charge of a small estate left by her father. A girl of less gentle mold would long since have resented and abandoned the strict discipline and kill-joy methods of the soured old maid. There was an innate sprightliness and optimism inherent with Drusilla, however, that sustained her mightily.

She submitted to exclusion from the coveted companionship of other young people, she sat patiently in sewing circles, dreary lecture rooms and uncongenial meetings of a club of which Miss Ward was secretary, and which comprised all the long-haired male theorists of the district and most of the female faddists.

Meantime, Drusilla dreamed. She loved poetry, sentiment and all that was true, good and beautiful. She anticipated her twenty-first birthday, when the ban would be lifted and she could enter into real life and joyousness. Then one day she met Irving Thearle on her way to a town two miles distant, whither she was sent weekly to carry messages and dainties to an incapacitated old lady friend of her aunt.

He came into her life so charmingly, so naturally, that it seemed to Drusilla as if it was all predestined. He was stopping only incidentally at Millville in the property interests of a relative, was young, handsome, chivalrous. The winding country road was lined with flowers, and beyond were bird-haunted stretches of timber and rose-spangled reaches of velvety sward, where they roamed at will, and that one day in the week when they met became a sweetly beautiful idyl to both. No word of love was spoken, but its expression came forcibly to both when Miss Ward made the discovery of this stolen companionship and like a destructive hurricane crossed the paradisiacal path of love and beauty.

Meantime Miss Ward had introduced into the household as a tri-weekly visitor a Professor Jeremiah Black, whose cult was antiquity and whose efforts to court Drusilla were persistent, but repelled. He was a long, lank youth, whom Drusilla discerned, Miss Ward was intent on marrying her to, possibly interested as to Drusilla's little fortune.

There was a picnic one bright July day which all Millville usually attended, and Drusilla consented to accompany her aunt and the professor, because she believed Irving would be there, and was prepared to get some word to him. Arrived at the festal scene Miss Ward selected an isolated spot, and, lynx-eyed, kept Drusilla from conversing with any one except herself and the professor. Drusilla, however, was so uncongenial and dull that the latter wandered off by himself in a somewhat disgruntled mood. Her heart was beating high, however, for she had seen Irving arrive in an automobile and later lurking in the woodland near by. Then she caught sight of him gazing directly at her from a near covert.

"I wish you would treat the professor with more attention and respect," spoke her aunt. "When there is dancing I wish you to retain him as your partner."

"I am not prepared to join in the dancing," returned Drusilla with artful mildness, and removing her hat she disclosed several wisps of her hair done up in papers.

"You might try to oblige me for once!" observed Miss Ward tartly, and Drusilla proceeded to remove the curl papers. Her aunt was busy primping, with a hand-glass assisting. Drusilla twisted several tiny wisps of paper free. She turned a quick glance in the direction of her lurking lover. She suspended a larger piece of curl paper, wadded it and flung it into a bush nearby.

Irving saw and understood. When Drusilla and her aunt started for the dancing pavilion he gained the bush, untwisted the discarded curl paper and read: "Meet me at the spring in an hour."

It was that length of time later that Drusilla, breathless and excited, joined him there.

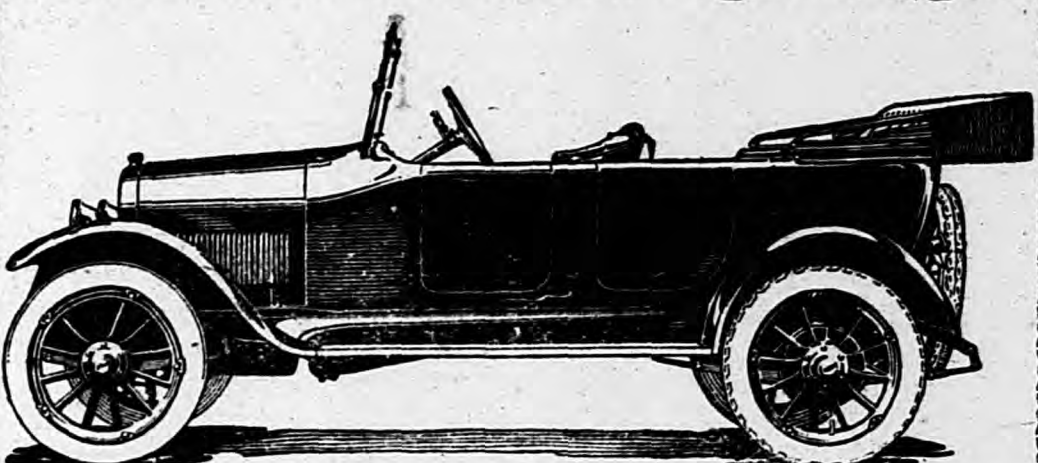

"I just managed to get away from my aunt," she fluttered. "Oh, Irving! they are trying to marry me to that horrid professor and I am going to run away from home."

"Grand!" commented Irving cheerfully. "I'm going to, likewise. Drusilla, dear, let us go together. My auto is handy; I know a convenient clergyman not five miles away. Shall we hurry to him and then begin a joyous, truant honeymoon?"

"Do you care for me so much, then?" faltered Drusilla, and his earnest, loyal gaze gave an assuring reply.

"I trust my future all to you," she murmured, and his strong arm encircled her as they hastened to the waiting automobile that was to them a veritable Cupid's car.

FERTILIZE! INTENSIFY!

All the world is crying for more production. Products of the farm are just as vitally needed today as they were during the war. Farmers should take advantage of this situation by intensifying the cultivation of their acreage. In other words, without increasing your acreage, which can be termed overhead, intensify your production by fertilizing your present acreage.

The right use of Tilghman's Fish Fertilizers will enable farmers of this section to increase their yield without any additional expense, because the increase in production and profits through the right use of Tilghman's Fish Fertilizers will more than offset your fertilizing cost.

HUMMING BIRDS HAD "SPREE"

Wrote Tale of Debauch of Which He Was Witness While Traveling in South America.

When Mr. Leo E. Miller was collecting specimens in the mountains of Colombia for the American Museum of Natural History he observed a curious incident that he describes in his book, "In the Wilds of South America."

As he was working one morning a chorus of chirps and screams attracted his attention, and he followed the sounds, which led him to a tall tree. A number of California woodpeckers had drilled holes in the tree trunk, from which an intoxicating sap trickled in small streams, and a dozen or more buff-tailed humming birds apparently had come for a "jag."

Arriving in a bee line, the newcomers flew against the trunk and clung there like so many moths to drink the sap. Their antics as they reached the different stages of intoxication were most amusing. Some twittered, fought, turned and tumbled in the air, while others dozed on small twigs or fluttered exhausted toward the ground. The performance continued daily for a week; then the sap suddenly ceased to flow, and the tree was deserted and silent. The capricious band no doubt sobered up from its debauch and went back to its normal and more profitable pursuits in life.

BLOWPIPE SIMPLE IN ACTION

Tool of Immense Power Simply the Application of Elementary Scientific Principles.

An oxy-acetylene or oxy-hydrogen blowpipe is composed of a very light conical tube, slender and slightly curved at the end whence the flame issues, and provided at the other extremity with two nozzles, to which the indiarubber tubes from the oxygen and acetylene or oxygen and hydrogen cylinders are attached.

The principal point about the most up-to-date apparatus lies in the fact that the two gases, instead of being separated up to the very point of ignition, are thoroughly mixed in the interior of the blowpipe, in such proportion as to bring about complete combustion. All danger of explosion has been avoided by giving to the gas a speed of delivery greater than that of the propagation of the flame, in accordance with a scientific law laid down by a French official commission which inquired into the subject of fire-damp.

As an additional precaution against accidents, an appliance called a "safety-mixer" has been inserted at the junction of the oxygen and hydrogen pipes, the mixture then passing to the blowpipe by way of a single tube, which greatly facilitates the handling of the tool.—From "Cutting Ships in Hair" in the Wide World Magazine.

New Hebrides Customs.

In spite of the white man's efforts to civilize them, natives of the New Hebrides cling tenaciously to their old habits and customs. Superstition and precedent are so firmly rooted in their minds that any new ideas are looked upon with distrust. The sacred men of the tribes are sternly jealous of their power and ward off encroaching civilization by terrible threats.

The islanders of the New Hebrides like visible reminders of his religion and superstition. Sacred objects are guarded by evil-looking carved figures and a departed chief of a tribe is kept in mind by setting up an effigy in a conspicuous place. There is never any doubt as to the identity of a figure, as the head of the effigy is the chief's skull covered over with clay and molded and painted to resemble the departed one. The rest of the figure is rather like a scarecrow, with a painted clay body and very few clothes. While this effigy remains in the public view, there is no danger of the chief being forgotten. His memory is ever green, and he is fittingly venerated.

Deeper Than the Ocean.

Geologists have discovered a number of submarine canyons or drowned rivers, along the east coast of the United States. Both the Hudson and Delaware rivers are in this class, as well as Chesapeake bay. The St. Lawrence river in Canada, and the Congo, in Africa, are also deeper, near their mouths, than the ocean.

The Hudson river, worn by the flowing stream, is considerably deeper than the offshore part of the Atlantic. It is flooded by the intruding ocean. The bay and lower river compose what would be called in Norseland a fiord.

The whole east coast of the United States has sunk a good deal in the course of ages, owing to the enormous weight of material brought down by the rivers and deposited out in the ocean off shore. But geologists say that the melting of glaciers has largely to do with the phenomenon.

Conservative Customs Die Hard.

In spite of having a well-equipped mission hospital in the city of Tachow, China, where men and women can receive the best of medical care and treatment, the native doctor or witch still flourishes. He sits at the street corner and the ignorant Chinese flock round him, especially on market or festival days. No method, however painful and drastic, deters the believers in his powers of healing—indeed they expect to be made to suffer acutely in order to "expel the original pain." Or they are held up to the ridicule of the mob because their disease portends the possession of an evil spirit.

How would YOU like a raise like this?

—and for 34 Years Work

THAT is the kind of increase in salary the minister has received. His living expenses have risen just as fast and as far as yours.

But he is paid on the average just 52 cents more per church member than he was paid 34 years ago.

The Minister Never Fails You

Every officer of the Government with a war message to deliver appealed to the ministers first of all.

But 80% of the ministers receive less income than government economists figure as a minimum for the support of an average family.

When hospitals need money they enlist the support of the ministers—and receive it.

But when sickness visits the minister or the members of his family they must be treated in a charity ward. His pay is less than a day laborer's.

8 out of every 10 ministers receive less than $20 a week—about half the pay of a mechanic.

We Pay Him Half the Wages of a Mechanic

And of these pitifully inadequate salaries, how much do you contribute? Nothing if you are outside the church; an average of less than 3c a day if you are a church member.

All of us share in the benefits of Christian ministers to the community. They marry us; bury us; baptize our children; visit us when we are sick. In their hands is the spiritual training of the youth.

We Are All Profiteers at Their Expense

Part of the Interchurch World program is this—a living wage for every minister of Jesus Christ; an efficient plant, and a chance to do a big man's job.

If you want better preachers, help to pay the preachers better. It's the best investment for your community—and for your children—that you can ever make.

SATISFIED WITH TWO MEALS

Roosevelt Family, While on Vacation, Decided There Should Be No Unnecessary Dish Washing.

"Practical Politics" was but one of many subjects the late Colonel Roosevelt had made his own. His many-sided common sense approached nothing without going straight to the practical heart of it. In his inimitable letters to his children the chapter, "A President as Cook," gives an example of this, remarks the New York Evening Post. The letter is from "Pine Knot," the isolated little Virginia retreat where from time to time during their last years in the White House, and when in need of complete rest Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt repaired, taking no servants with them. After descriptions of several meals of chicken fried by the president with appetizing mention of beefsteak and cornbread, bacon and eggs, also cooked by him—all interspersed with animadversions upon the Russo-Japanese war and the peace he was endeavoring to bring about—comes this: "As we found that cleaning dishes took up an awful time, we only took two meals a day, which was all we wanted." How the housewife's heart, specially in these without-a-cook-times, warms to that sentence! How true it is that "cleaning dishes" takes up "an awful time," and how practical the two-meals-a-day cure! Few families would indorse the cure, of course—it might be worse than impractical to establish it. And also, of course, the whole thing would be heresy from housewives themselves. But they relish the comfort of such distinguished sympathy.

GOAT ALWAYS GOOD FIGHTER

"Billy" Seldom Looks for a Scrap, but He Is Equal to It When Forced on Him.

"Mr. A. B. Fenwick related to me the particulars of a battle of two Indians, fifteen dogs and two horses with a billy goat that had wandered out upon Joseph's prairie, where Cranbrook, B. C., now stands," says Dr. William T. Hornaday in his article on "The Rocky Mountain Goat at Home," in Boys' Life. "The Indians thought that with their horses and dogs (but no guns) they could capture the goat alive. The goat thought otherwise. A little later a squaw saw that they were having a bad mixup and ran out to the Indians with a rifle. One of them shot the goat. All but two of the dogs were killed on the spot, or died very shortly. It was with the greatest difficulty that the Indians saved their horses from getting punctured by those terrible little horns.

"It is on record that a full-grown grizzly bear was killed by a full grown billy goat while the bear was killing him. The dead bodies of the two were found only a few yards apart.

"So you see, although the goat is deliberate in thought and in action, and wise in self-preservation, when the time comes to fight he is right on the job."

Resigned to Fate.

In the early days of the war a group of optimistic young men assembled at the officers' training camp at Fort Myer, Va., with all the necessary appurtenances of officers, from spurs to an extra pair of field glasses. Later on, as it became necessary for the authorities to hand out little pink slips and one-way tickets home, it grew into a custom for the departing candidates to auction off his equipment.

One Saturday morning Captain Blank said sharply to Candidate Jones of Company X:

"Mr. Jones, drill the company." Mr. Jones stepped forth. Taking his place before the company, he was suddenly stricken dumb.

"Well?" demanded the captain, with a strongly rising inflection.

A Wager Lost on Coolidge.

At a reunion a '98 man met a classmate on the campus. The latter wore a broad grin.

"What's the joke?"

"I made a wager that I could get Cal Coolidge into a five-minute conversation. I just tried it. Here's the conversation:

"Cal, I understand they're going to knock the tar out of you this election."

"Maybe."

"I hear that a spellbinder is up against you."

"Yes."

"Perhaps that will help you; you may shine by contrast."

"Perhaps so."

"I was stuck for anything more to say. I'm now going to pay the wager."

—George MacAdam in World's Work.

Steel Want General.

All around the globe there is a demand for American steel. Portuguese East Africa has extensive railroad plans, and in Siam there is a call for 32,000 tons of rails. A New York firm has contracts for $5,000,000 for office buildings and other structures in Tokyo and other Japanese cities. In Rome there is a building program for housing government employees. South American requirements are extensive.

Gloomy Outlook.

"When Mrs. Crableigh died she told Mr. Crableigh she would meet him in another world."

"Did Mr. Crableigh act as if he thought she would keep her promise?"

"I judge so. The neighbors said he looked greatly depressed."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

LIBERTY BOND DECLINES
Congressman Magoe, of New York, has introduced a resolution to investigate the decline in the price of Liberty bonds. The fall which these bonds have recorded has been a great disappointment. Few people dreamed that they would remain below par after the close of the war.

The enormous waste of war, interruption and upsetting of production, the extravagance that war always breeds, have created a great shortage of capital. Anyone who has money to lend can get a higher price for it than the Liberty bond issues provide.

There are just three ways to bring these bonds back to par: First, pay more interest; second, make them wholly exempt from taxation; third, everyone save enough money so that the scarcity of capital will be ended. The people might not consent to the first and second remedies, but it ought to be possible to bring about the third by popular propaganda.

They Speak Well of It
"I frequently hear Chamberlain's Cough Remedy praised by friends and acquaintances which only tends to strengthen my good opinion of it," writes Mrs. Fred Arter, Zanesville, Ohio. Try it when you have a cough or cold and see for yourself what an excellent medicine it is.

County Commissioners' NOTICE
The Commissioners for Somerset County hereby give notice that they will meet at their office in Princess Anne on Tuesday, May 4th, 11th and 18th, 1920.

May 4th, 11th and 18th, 1920

A FIRE ENGINE—THE GREAT NEED
The shocking fire that occurred in Princess Anne Monday of last week is another illustration of how badly a fire engine is needed. If it had been on hand the fire would have been confined to the stable and every burned residence could have been saved.

This is but one of the many conflagrations that have occurred in the county and on more than one occasion our neighboring towns have been called on for help and their firemen have generously responded. On Monday the same call was extended and the fire was soon extinguished, but not until some valuable homes were destroyed.

The mass meeting held at the Auditorium on Wednesday evening was a timely one, and coming as it did immediately after the fire, it paved the way for the purchase of a fire engine and suitable apparatus to accompany it.

It will not be long before the committees suggested will wait upon the people of Princess Anne and seek subscriptions to this desired end. It is to be hoped that the responses will be of the most generous sort.

It is high time that our town should seek not only its own protection, but that it should also place itself in readiness to return the compliment of help that it has received from its neighbors. No one knows whose property may be the next to go, and when such fire shall occur more property may be destroyed than the proposed equipment would cost. Our town has been progressive in other matters and it should wake up now to one of its most valuable necessities.

MAXIMUM OUTPUT

For two years the American people have been implored to increase industrial production. Yet some authorities maintain that output is still 60 per cent. below a normal figure. This sounds exaggerated, yet it is evident that the propaganda advocating increased production is not producing the results it should. If so, it is time to approach the subject from some new angle.

The announcement is therefore interesting that on April 26th the Chamber of Commerce of the United States is to meet at Atlantic City and that a new program for stimulating production is to be offered at that time.

Two leading causes of slack production are the lack of incentive to increase it and the fear among workers that if they do too much they may cause overproduction and shutdowns of industry. They should be shown that the danger of unemployment is the least risk they take. The losses of good workers from that cause are usually very trifling. Meanwhile they are paying nearly 100 per cent. advance in prices due mostly to underproduction.

Modern business will have to devise new methods and systems for stimulating maximum output. Many concerns have done that successfully for a long time. Some of them call it profit sharing. To get maximum production you have got to show a man that it is for his interest to turn out that maximum. And the advantage of such action must not be dependent upon economic conditions in the country at large. There are no such things as "times" in his own business producing results quickly in his own business.

Some of the working masses can be shown that the only way to increase their income is by increasing their production.

While millions of acres of farm land go untillied, useless peddlers continue to tramp long and dusty miles from house to house.

Trains were tied up all over the country last week by railroad strikes, and business was paralyzed. Railroads refused to take freight and the parcel post was used to the limit. It looks now as if the strike will soon be over.

For A Severe Cold
"Chamberlain's Cough Remedy cured my daughter Anna of a severe cold and cough a few years ago and ever since then I have never missed an opportunity to recommend this medicine to anyone suffering from throat or lung troubles. I cannot speak too highly in praise of it," writes Mrs. D. J. Shelley, Earlville, N. Y. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy contains no narcotic and may be given to children with perfect confidence. It is a pleasant syrup so they do not object to taking it.

Robertson's Direct Appeal to Voters Brings Wide Popular Approval

Candidate's Courageous Declaration Of Principles Wins Commendation From People, Press and Leaders.

Hilton W. Robertson's direct appeal to the voters of Somerset County for their suffrage at the Primary Election, to be held May 3rd, and his courageous declaration of principles is bringing a flood of enthusiastic support to his race for Congress.

This support comes from all sections and all elements, people, press and leaders. With the campaign less than a month old, letters of commendation are already pouring into headquarters at Salisbury, evoked by the campaign of publicity and Mr. Robertson's personal talks with the people of the district.

The following expression, from Charles W. Brohawn, of Salem, Dorchester County, a former member of the Legislature, is typical:

"You are entitled to the congratulations of every broad-minded man on the Eastern Shore for the brave and manly position you have taken on the prohibition question. If you never get to Congress, you have shown you ought to be there. If there had been such men in our past Congresses, instead of withering cowards as many of them like Volstead are proving to be, there would be no trouble now."

"Like yourself I am a teetotaler, not by legislation, but by the Grace of God, but I view with alarm and disgust the encroachments being made upon the rights of the States and the personal rights of the people. * * * and I further state as my belief that there is not a Democrat in my election district who does not endorse at least the principles you have laid down."

His liberal views with respect to the obligation of the Government to the soldiers who fought in the war against Germany are finding general sympathy. His stand for economical administration of Government, a natural result of his training as a business man, is striking a responsive chord everywhere. Eastern Shore men are fully in accord with his advocacy of further liberal Federal aid for good roads and extension of present rural mail routes. The water men of the Shore also are finding in Robertson a man who understands their problems, for he has always lived on the edge of the Chesapeake.

The press of the Eastern Shore, too, is speaking in unmistakable terms. Here is an editorial from the Cecil Democrat:

"H. W. Robertson, Esq., of White Haven, who recently announced himself a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress, paid a visit to Cecil County this week, meeting the voters in several of the towns. The reception accorded him was almost marvelous. His stand on the modification of the Volstead law is meeting with the approval of the voters to such an extent, not only in Cecil County, but everywhere on the Eastern Shore, that it will be almost a miracle if he is not nominated. Even the political leaders, should they go against him, cannot stem the tide, judging from present indications. The sentiment of the voters seems to be that the Volstead law is too stringent and they are demanding modification."

In commenting upon this expression of popular sentiment, the Baltimore Star says:

"Eastern Shoremen generally must be rubbing their eyes in amazement. Such words in a county paper which for so many years was a tower of strength to the dry cause must indeed be a shock to all pre-Volstead manner of thinking."

And of this young David who comes out of the

HILTON W. ROBERTSON

East: Last Tuesday a young man startled the politicians at the Rennett by dropping in, breezily introducing himself as 'Robertson, candidate for Congress from the First District,' and answering without any apparent hesitation or fear any and all questions asked as to his policies. On prohibition he said frankly: 'I am for beer and domestic wines.'

The old-timers were impressed with the young man, his general breadth as shown in conversation upon numerous topics, his perfect ease and strong personality in approaching strangers, but they shook their heads when they thought of the Eastern Shore as the stamping ground for the new David.

"Now we begin to suspect that this young man is rather ingenious—that he has a vision of what is surely coming. All we have to say is that some of the old-timers on the Shore had better awaken to what the winds of public opinion and the waves of popular disapproval are saying or they will find that a new squatter has built his house upon a rock while they have rested their faith upon the sands of out-of-date policies."

In addition to the men in his home section, leaders in every section of the District and State have expressed their admiration for the fearless and definite stand which Robertson has taken. They appreciate that he has left the discussion of general National policies to the Democratic National Convention, where it belongs—and to the other candidates for the nomination. They applaud his quickness and firmness in meeting the wet and dry issue squarely and fairly and they recognize the evident vigor and strength he is putting in his campaign to reach every voter intimately and openly.

In these columns during the past few weeks the voters of Somerset County have been giving the Robertsons for Congress League has been giving the voters of Somerset County information regarding Mr. Robertson, in order to enable them to cast their votes intelligently. The League has also prepared a leaflet embodying this information in brief form. Copies will be sent free to any address, upon request to the

Edith Logan vs. Henrietta Johnson and Sarah Johnson

No. 3334 Chancery. In the Circuit Court for Somerset County.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree for the sale of certain real estate situated in Somerset county, of which Denard Johnson, late of Somerset county, deceased, died seized and possessed.

The bill states that the said Denard Johnson departed this life during or about the year eighteen hundred and ninety, intestate, leaving as his surviving heir a widow, Sarah Len Johnson, who has since died, and the following children and grandchildren as his sole heirs at law, to wit:

(1) The defendant, Henrietta Johnson, a daughter, who is of full age and unmarried, and resides in said Somerset county. (2) A son, John A. Johnson, who departed this life during the year nineteen hundred and nineteen, unmarried, and intestate, leaving no children or descendants. (3) A son, Isaiah Johnson, a daughter of the year nineteen hundred and fourteen, intestate, leaving no widow, but leaving as his sole heir at law, a daughter, the defendant, Sarah Johnson, who is of full age and resides in said Somerset county. (4) The plaintiff, Edith Logan, a granddaughter of the said Denard Johnson, being the only child of Mary Ann Logan, a daughter of the said Denard Johnson, who died before her said father, the said Edith being of full age and unmarried, and residing in Northampton county, State of Virginia.

That the said Denard Johnson in his lifetime and at the time of his death was seized and possessed of certain real estate situated in Lawson's Election District, in said Somerset county, which said real estate is now held by your oratrix and the said defendants as tenants in common; that the said real estate is not susceptible of partition or division among the parties entitled to interests therein, without material loss or injury to said parties, and that in order to make division thereof it will be necessary that the said real estate be sold and the proceeds of said sale divided among your oratrix and the said defendants, according to their respective rights and interests.

It is thereupon this 5th day of April, nineteen hundred and twenty, ordered by the Circuit Court for Somerset county, in Equity, that the plaintiff, by causing a copy of this bill to be inserted in some newspaper published in said Somerset county, once in each of four successive weeks before the 14th day of May, nineteen hundred and twenty, give notice to the said Sarah Johnson, who died during the year nineteen hundred and nineteen, and her three successive subpoenas have been issued out of this Court and returned non est. of the object and substance of this bill warning her to be and appear in this Court in person or by solicitor, on or before the 31st day of May next, to show cause, if any she has, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

L. Floyd Nock, prominent member of the Accomac county bar, died suddenly at his home in Accomac Wednesday morning following an attack of acute indigestion. He was 65 years of age and is survived by a widow and three children, Misses Miriam and Sarah Nock and L. Lloyd Nock, Jr., a student at the University of Virginia.

The funeral of Kingman A. Handy, Jr., the five-year-old son of Rev. K. A. Handy and Mrs. Handy, 1526 Park avenue, Baltimore, took place last Wednesday afternoon. Burial was in Druid Ridge Cemetery. The child died Sunday night, the 11th instant, at the W. man's Hospital as a result of blood poisoning sustained when he ran a rusty nail into his foot while playing in the yard at his home.

In keeping with everything else, the marriage license charge has been doubled, effective June 1st. For many years good old Maryland has encouraged marriage by keeping the cost of legal requirements at a moderate figure, but of late the single dollar has stood for so little that it has lost its dignified worth and is classed as pocket change only. A thing that can be purchased for one dollar in these days must be of little real value and to make a marriage license appear as having any real worth in these times of course the price had to be advanced.

A Card of Thanks
The President and Commissioners of Princess Anne desire to extend to the firemen of Princess Anne, Salisbury, Pocomoke City and Crisfield the thanks of the citizens of the town for the prompt and efficient services rendered at the fire here Monday afternoon of last week.

The generous and ready responses of the fire companies from our neighboring towns is especially gratifying and the very effective services rendered by the firemen from Salisbury has evoked the highest commendation and praise from our people.

Most fullsome aid and sympathy was extended to the stricken families by the people of the town and it is also desired to express to the colored men of the town our appreciation for the valuable assistance given by them in fighting the fire.

President and Commissioners of Princess Anne, Columbus Lankford, President.

Mr. Columbus Lankford and members of the other families whose homes were destroyed or who suffered loss in the recent fire desire to express their profound appreciation to the firemen of Princess Anne and Salisbury and to the people of the town for the prompt, generous and efficient aid and service rendered during the fire and afterward.

Convention To Elect Bishop

The special convention called for the election of a bishop for the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Easton, will convene today (Tuesday) in Trinity Cathedral, Easton. Each parish in the diocese, which includes the nine Eastern Shore counties is entitled to one lay delegate to the convention, and every minister of the diocese who has been in charge of a parish for the past six months is entitled to a vote.

Among those so far mentioned most prominently, perhaps, is Bishop Lloyd, who recently resigned as the president of the board of missions. He is 63 years of age and is one of the best known churchmen in the country. Others spoken of are: Rev. William Dunbar Gould, of Cambridge; Bishop Remington, suffragan Bishop of South Dakota, and the Rev. George Lay, of Beaufort, S. C., a former Eastonian, and son of Bishop Lay, the first bishop of Easton; Rev. W. S. Claiborne, of Sewanee, Tenn., and Rev. Richard W. Trappell, of St. Andrew's Church, Wilmington, Del.

Fire Sweeps Millington

An aged woman, sick, was carried from her burning home on a stretcher and eight other persons were forced to flee in their night clothes when fire, which threatened to sweep the entire town of Millington, Md., destroyed three stores and a dwelling there early last Friday morning. The damage is estimated at $25,000.

The fire started in the shoe repairing establishment of Frank Wosknocht from an unknown cause and the two-story frame building was in flames before Wosknocht was awakened by smoke and managed to make his way to the street in his night clothes. He spread the alarm.

Fanned by a high wind, the flames spread to the stores of Isaac Hollins and Frank S. Bottomley, which were destroyed, together with the dwelling of Miss Fannie Hurtt. Miss Hurtt, who was critically ill, was carried out by neighbors.

Fair Prices On Ice Fixed

Ice must be sold to the family trade at the rate of 60 cents per 100 pounds in lots above 15 pounds, and at the minimum quantity rate of 15 pounds for 10 cents, according to a ruling made last week by Fair Price Commissioner William H. Killian and his executive secretary, Walter J. Bienemann, after a conference with ice manufacturers.

In announcing the fair price schedule, Mr. Bienemann called the attention of manufacturers to the penalty for unfair business practices and the responsibility of the delivery man to give the consumer correct weight.

The schedule went into effect at midnight Friday and applies to the whole State.

Relieves Rheumatic Pains

"I am subject to rheumatism and when I have a spell of it one or two applications of Chamberlain's Liniment relieves the pain and makes rest and sleep possible. I would not think of doing without it," writes Mrs. C. Owsley, Moberly, Mo.

How To Make Woodlands Profitable

A bulletin containing numerous illustrations has been prepared by forestry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture for the benefit of Southern farmers interested in making their woodlands more profitable. It contains suggestions regarding the marketing of logs, and calls attention to the importance of wise cutting. The need of protecting seedlings in woodlands is emphasized, and the wasteful stripping of land, which has laid bare so many slopes, is condemned. Photographs show the evil results that follow shortsighted practices. This bulletin is entitled, "Making Woodlands Profitable in the Southern States," and can be had free of charge by addressing the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Fifty Cents A Basket For Tomatoes

The Kent County Produce Exchange at its meeting at Chestertown, Kent county, last Thursday resolved that in consideration of the shortage of farm labor it is unwise and a useless waste of the limited supply of labor to grow tomatoes under contract for less than 50 cents per basket. Also that the spread of disease in tomatoes is alarming and all baskets should be sterilized at the canneries before returning them to the growers in order to prevent its spread.

COUNTY SURVEYOR'S NOTICE

The undersigned, duly qualified County Surveyor of Somerset County, State of Maryland, in compliance with the laws of said State in such cases made and provided, hereby gives notice that he has received an escheat special land warrant, dated March 19th, 1920, issued out of the Land Office of the State of Maryland and granted to Ashton P. EXPENDITURES OF SALVATION ARMY SHOW $13,257,552

Commander Evangeline Booth
Makes Public Annual Home Service Fund Accounting.

EXPANSION OF WORK IN ALL DEPARTMENTS NOTED

Popular Organization's Budget for 1920
Totals $10,000,000—Details of Figures for 1919 and 1920.

New York, April 12.—Expansion and advancement in every department of Salvation Army work as a result of the 1919 Home Service Fund are shown in a full accounting of that fund just made public by Commander Evangeline Booth at the National Headquarters of the organization here. The financial statement, which is of January 31, 1920, shows total expenditures throughout the country up to and including that date of $13,257,552, with a remainder on hand for the four months to May 31, of $910,140.

Details of the statement disclose that the sum of $1,441,185 was expended up to January 31, for the maintenance of 369 corps and outposts in all parts of the United States. This item includes rentals of halls and their maintenance, salaries of 1,800 officers, the expenses of work for children and young people, the cost of all local relief work of whatever nature, and such incidental expenditures as postage, printing, stationery and the like.

In the period covered by the report the sum of $1,038,429 was expended by thirty-four provincial and divisional headquarters for fresh-air farms and camps, comprehensive relief work of a special nature amongst the poor, the sick and the distressed. These headquarters are charged with the oversight and direction of all corps and similar activities in their jurisdiction as well as the extension of Salvation Army effort to unoccupied fields and localities. Hence, this item includes also salaries of executive officers, of clerical and other employees, necessary traveling expenses, postage, the cost of advertising, publicity and a portion of the expenditures incidental to the organization of the financial campaigns.

Details of Expenditures.
Other items detailed in the report include the sum of $621,000, representing administrative and other expenses borne by National Headquarters in New York and Territorial Headquarters in Chicago; $187,908 representing the cost of operating and maintaining 25 rescue homes and maternity hospitals, a general hospital and one for children, 3 children's homes and 11 stum settlements and nurseries; and $400,000 apportioned according to the 1919 budget for the pension fund for aged or disabled officers.

Most significant, as indicating the remarkable advancement made by the Salvationists during the past year as a result of the 1919 Fund contributed by the country, are the lifting of mortgages to the amount of $1,881,133 and the outlay of $7,038,834 for new buildings and additions, making a total of $8,919,967.

Hitherto demands upon the Salvation Army's efforts have been so much greater than its income that it has labored under a tremendous indebtedness. Its officers have been reduced to part pay year after year, and the organization has been handicapped in its operations.

Not All Mortgages Liquidated.
Only a part of the mortgage indebtedness was paid off last year, however; the increased demands upon the Army everywhere in the country being so great that increased and new facilities for hospitals, rescue homes and other Army institutions called for the outlay of more than $7,000,000. Army officers hope that the response to the 1920 Home Service Appeal will be such as to permit of the wiping out of much of the remaining mortgage indebtedness, provide for the maintenance of the organization's established activities and make urgently needed extensions and development possible.

The 1919 balance sheet shows the following:

| | Expenditure To Jan. 31. | Reserve To May 31. |
|---|----------------------------|-----------------------|
| For support of corps activities $1,441,185.15 | | $447,235.48 |
| Maintenance of 34 provincial & divi- sional headquarters | 1,038,429.62 | 297,133.93 |
| Maintenance of na- tional & territorial headquarters | 631,039.97 | 65,474.00 |
| Maintenance of in- stitutions for women and chil- dren | 187,909.75 | 183,297.00 |
| Pension fund | 400,000.00 | |
| Mortgages and properties | 3,319,538.42 | |
| Total expenditures for eight months | $13,257,552.21 | $10,140.59 |
| Reserve for four months | $10,140.59 | |
| Grand total (amount con- tributed in 1919) | $14,127,692.80 | |

The Army's 1920 budget, asking for $10,000,000, calls for $4,000,000 to carry on its evangelistic and relief work in 1,000 separate centers; $3,000,000 for relief work among the poor, sick and unfortunate, work for mothers and children, and other social work under provincial and divisional headquarters; $250,000 for the maintenance of national and territorial headquarters; $400,000 for rescue homes, nurseries, hospitals, stum posts and other institutions for women and children; $150,000 for the retired officers' pension fund, and $2,200,000 for the liquidation of mortgages and the acquiring of new properties made necessary by the Army's 1920 extension program.

Swift Ships for Pacific.
Sharp competition between the Canadian-Pacific ocean services and the Nippon Yusen Kaisha bids fair materially to reduce the time of trans-Pacific travel. The former is adding a 22,000-ton passenger steamer to the two now in the service, the running time of which is nine days from Vancouver to Yokohama and 17 days to Hongkong.

The Japanese company has three boats under construction, each of about 30,000 tons, and it expects that these will make the run from Yokohama to Seattle in eight days.

All Light Car Road
Records Smashed

At Indianapolis recently an Overland 4 stock car was driven 5,452 miles continuously in seven days and nights, over frozen country roads.

This is an average of 778 miles per day—more than the distance between Toledo and New York City. This is another tribute to the cushioning effect of Triplex Springs and the quality of material in Overland 4.

GREAT FUTURE FOR WIRELESS

Boys Who Plan to Make It Their Life
Work Should Know and Appreciate Its Value.

Before going into practice instruction it is important that the boys who are to become the wireless men of the future should appreciate the value of such work. Wireless transmission of messages and of the human voice is becoming daily more common. In a few years the entire system of communication throughout the world may be transformed by wireless electricity, and it is important that boys should be able to take their part in it. The amateur wireless station is a great educator and gives the boys who equip and operate it an excellent education in the wonderful new science.

When the call came for wireless men for the great war the amateur operators were able to take a prominent part. Thousands of boys who had taught themselves how to build stations and run them were able to take important positions in wireless stations at sea and on shore. No other country had so vast an army of self-taught wireless operators to call on. Many of the boys who had taught themselves all they knew of the science rose to occupy important positions. It is not generally known that it was an amateur wireless man who was chosen to fly across the Atlantic on the NC-4 on her famous flight.—Boys' Life.

HAS BOTH MEMORY AND SCAR

Two Excellent Reasons Why One Man Will Remember That He Was Kicked by a Mule.

A kick from a mule is guaranteed to make just about as much impression on the memory as it does on the anatomy. Yet Clyde D. Jarvis has made sure that he will not forget the kick he received from a Missouri beast of burden for the rest of his natural life.

Jarvis applied at Houston, Texas, for enlistment in the marine corps and was accepted. He exhibited a scar about six inches long on the left side of his abdomen, and explained it was the result of an operation he had undergone some six months before, for a supposed ruptured spleen, following the kick from the mule.

The operating surgeon had made the wrong diagnosis, however, and found that Jarvis' spleen was O. K. Tattooed above the scar in large letters were the words, "Opened by mistake."

An Old Street Directory.

An odd reminder of the past turns up in the list of duplicates that the Massachusetts Historical society has decided to sell from its collection of historic miscellany in the form of the first street directory of Boston, and for that matter the first street directory ever printed in what is now the United States. In 1708, when the broadside was printed, 110 names were enough for all the streets, alleys, lanes and squares of the town; and many of them read the same nowadays. For some years prior to 1708 the process of preparing the list had been engaging the authorities, and when the selectmen published it they were doubtless well satisfied with Paddy lane, Frog lane, Cow lane, Fudding lane and other quaint titles which a modern municipal government might regard as undignified and trivial.—Christian Science Monitor.

What He Thought.

Company had just gone and Mrs. A. had changed from her company talk to that of the every day variety. Speaking plainly she was nagging her husband. He endured it for a little while and then he said, "Maria, do you know why I call you my queen bee to the boys at the office?"

"No," snapped Maria, not the least bit mollified by the title of queen.

"Well," patiently explained Mr. A. carefully discerning the shortest way to the door as he spoke, "while we have company you make me honey all the time and then just as soon as they are gone you begin to industriously use your stinging abilities."

And then, well, then, the door eluded after Mr. A.

Good-by, Gunga Din.

The picturesque water vender with his pigskin pack on his back, as well as the more charming picture of the native virgin carrying a water jar on her head, will soon be but a memory in Jerusalem. It is hoped that the terrible water-borne diseases, so common when Palestine was under Turkish rule, will likewise disappear into the forgotten past.

The reclaiming of thousands of acres of swamplands, to improve agricultural, industrial and sanitary conditions of Palestine, is another of the reconstruction problems to be started by the Zionist engineers, through the $10,000,000 restoration fund.

Self-Sacrifice.

"Buy a washing machine and make your wife happy."

"What!" exclaimed the southern man. "And break the heart of a colored dame with a husband and eight or nine children to support? Never, sir! My wife and I must continue to suffer for the greatest good of the greatest number."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Monster Plane Shells.

ONLY ONE STLYE IN THIS MILLINERY SHOP

TRIMMING A BONNET

A 'TRY-ON' IN THE ONE-STYLE BONNET SHOP

There is a millinery shop in New York which guarantees its hats 'never to go out of style. With every purchase goes the understanding that in five or ten years from now the bonnet bought today will be just as attractive, just as much admired and even more in vogue.

It is the Salvation Army "Millinery Shop," located at 120 West Fourteenth Street, New York City, in which establishment every bonnet which enters the tenement houses, rescue homes, orphanages, nurseries or slum settlements first sees the light of day. And the shop does a rushing business. Three hundred bonnets each week are trimmed, boxed, sent out to all parts of the country and started on their mission of spreading cheer and hope to every corner of the United States.

And the Salvation Army is an importer—not the type that sticks the coveted word after its name as a matter of course, but a real one. Every bonnet that graces the head of every Salvation Army lassie came all the way from across the Atlantic for that purpose. The bonnet itself is English, the trimmings are American, and the wearers embrace every nationality in the world.

Many times each week big trucks draw up to the door of the shop and deposit their cargoes of untrimmed hats. At frequent intervals the pliant bonnets, with their long blue streamers, blue rushing and satin folds, leave the establishment bound for years of service in the slums and bleak spots of the nation. The familiar blue bonnet—shaped like nothing else under the sun—is a symbol of unselfish service in nurseries, hospitals and tenements the whole world over.

FINDING MISSING PERSONS IS NEVER-ENDING TASK

RECORD FILE OF MISSING PERSONS

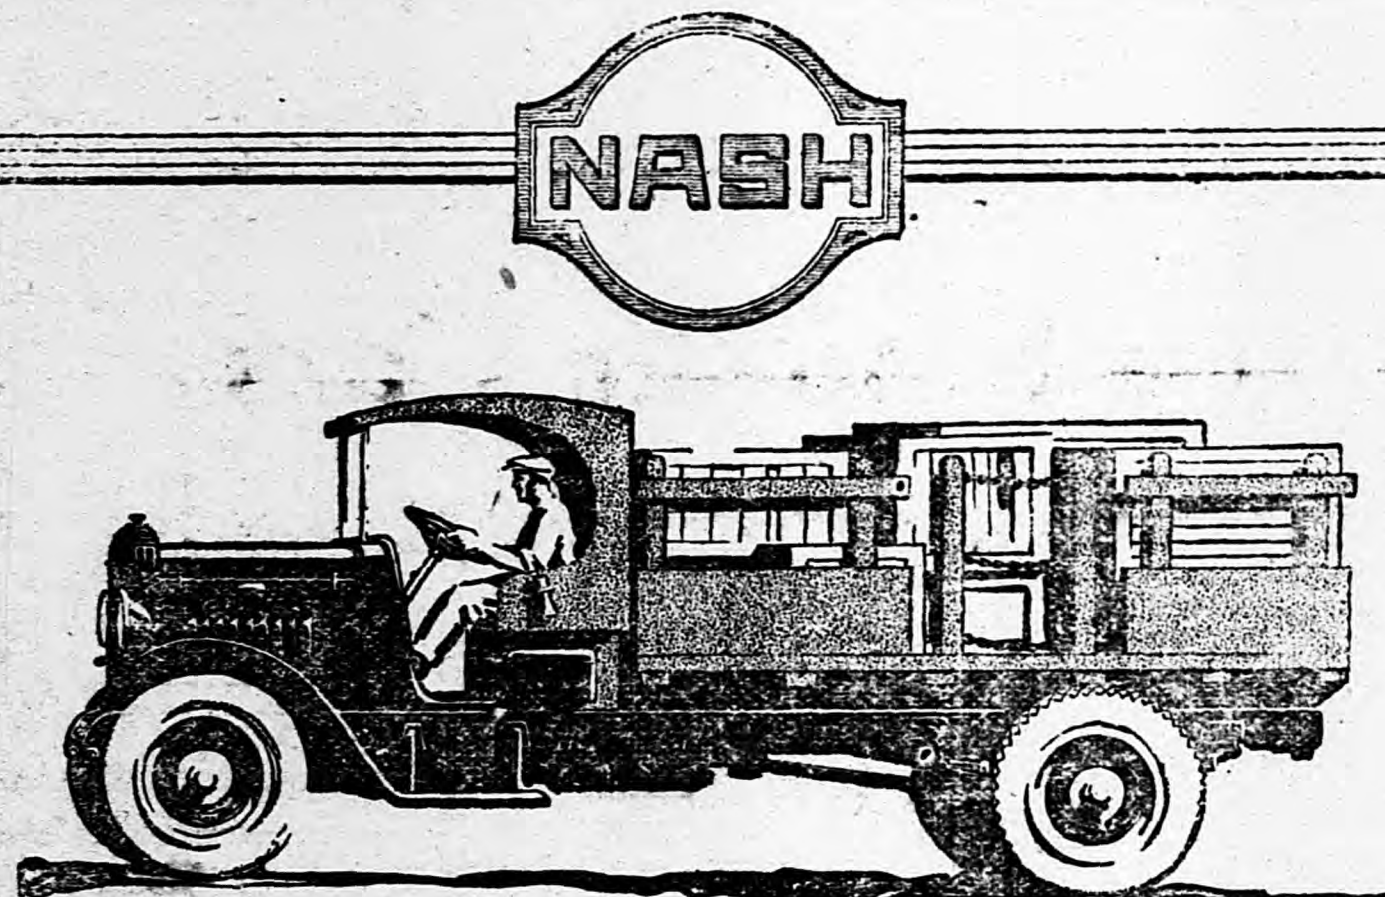

The Salvation Army, because of its branches in every country in the world, conducts what is probably one of the most efficient of detective bureaus. It is the Bureau of Missing Persons, which sends out daily alarms to all sections in its efforts to find those who have disappeared.

In the United States over 1,800 inquiries for missing persons come into the Salvation Army each year, and in spite of the meagerness of the available information, in spite of the fact that a large proportion of those who are missing do not want to be found, in spite of all the obstacles and hindrances, over 1,000 are located by the Salvation Army each year.

There is the child who runs away from home because the terrors of cold and hunger are nothing to him compared to the fear of school and teacher. There is the man who finds it easier to desert than to support the family that he thinks is too exacting. There is the woman who feels that the river or the open gas jet is less terrifying than the hardships of life. For all these and many others the Salvation Army is conducting a vigilant, unceasing search.

And the methods used in finding the delinquents are as varied as the causes of their disappearance. Sometimes an overlooked clue, an old letter or the address of a friend leads to the end of the search. Sometimes a paragraph inserted in the War Cry—the Salvation Army publication, which is circulated in every country in the world—or in other mediums calculated to catch the eye, will bring the missing one home. Sometimes the man or woman hunt goes on for years, only in the end to become one of those unsolved mysteries that the world speculates upon for a month or two and then promptly forgets.

QUICK AND ECONOMICAL TRANSPORTATION

NASH Trucks are equipped with electric lights and starters. The electric lights enable them to perform satisfactorily at night as well as by day and the starter saves fuel because the driver can shut off his power when the truck is left standing and start again with no effort on his part.

ENDORSED AT HOME

Such Proof As This Should Convince Any Princess Anne Citizen

The public endorsement of a local citizen is the best proof that can be produced. None better, none stronger can be had. When a man comes forward and testifies to his fellow citizens, addresses his friends and neighbors, you may be sure he is thoroughly convinced or he would not do so. Telling one's experience when it is for the public good is an act of kindness that should be appreciated. The following statement given by a resident of Princess Anne adds one more to the many cases of Home Endorsement which are being published about Doan's Kidney Pills. Read it.

W. T. Gibbons, farmer, Route No. 4, Princess Anne, says: "I was troubled with backache and mornings I felt tired out on account of losing a lot of sleep. When I got up after sitting, pains shot through me like a knife-thrust. My kidneys were acting too frequently, making me get up at night. The kidney secretions were highly colored and I was in a bad way in general. I got Doan's Kidney Pills at O. A. Jones' Drug Store, and after taking two boxes I was rid of kidney troubles."

Sixteen Years Experience

For sixteen years a corps of metallurgists have been studying and constantly perfecting the steel that goes into every part of the Ford car and the Ford One Ton Truck. Each separate part has been studied to learn the type of steel best fitted for it. Parts receiving constant surface-wear are made of hard, flint-like metal; parts subjected to great vibration or resilience are made of softer, springy steel. Every part is made according to its use—that is, every Genuine Ford part is.

But there are also counterfeit "Ford" parts. These imitations are made by concerns in no way connected with the Ford Motor Company and retailed as side-lines by mail-order houses, downtown stores and many garages. The unsuspecting customer accepts them because they are called "Ford" parts. To make sure of getting the genuine Ford-made parts, buy them only from Authorized Ford Dealers. Likewise bring or take your Ford car to our garage for repairs, replacements and general "tuning up."

We are Authorized Ford Dealers. We can supply you with all Ford parts for either passenger car or truck. And our shop is equipped to give real Ford service in all repair work. Insist on genuine Ford Parts.

FIELD DAY IN PRINCESS ANNE A BIG EVENT

The Exercises Brought Many Visitors Last Thursday—Athletic Sports Held On High School Campus—Speakers And Music

Field Day of the public schools of Somerset county was observed last Thursday in Princess Anne, and the day proved to be an ideal one for the exercises, which began at 9.45 a. m. in front of the Court House, where addresses were made by Miss Edith A. Lathrop, of Washington, D. C., in place of Dr. McBrien, and Mr. William J. Holloway, rural school supervisor of Maryland, who took the place of State Superintendent Stephens. Mr. W. A. N. Bowland, principal of Washington High School, made the introductory address and Rev. W. F. Dawson opened the exercises with prayer.

The athletic sports were held on the campus of the Washington High School, which was a scene of brightness and pleasure as the hundreds of people watched with interest the sports and games of the day.

A special train from Crisfield and intervening points reached Princess Anne at 9.15 and brought a large number of persons, including the Sterling Band, from the lower part of the county. A list of the winners follows:

SCENE OF THE RECENT FIRE IN PRINCESS ANNE

BEECHWOOD STREET AND IRVING AVENUE AS IT NOW LOOKS

CONGRESSMEN'S JOY RIDE TO ORIENT TO COST MILLIONS

The most extensive junket that ever has been conceived in the fertile brain of a Congressman is being planned for the coming summer and already 150 Representatives and a dozen Senators have "signed up" tentatively for themselves and their families for the trip.

The grand tour, which is to be made at Government expense, estimated at $1,000,000, includes Hawaii, Guam, the Philippines, Japan, China, Korea and possibly Vladivostok, if the military supremacy in the latter city happens to be in the right hands at that time.

The junket is scheduled to last for 60 days and the total cost to each person will be $75. Lavish entertainment is expected to be provided by the Insular Governments of Hawaii and the Philippines, at Guam and by the Japanese, Chinese and Korean Governments at Tokio, Hongkong, Peking and Seoul.

This Titanic scheme for providing a vacation trip for deserving Congressmen and their families at Government cost was incubated in the brain of Representative Randall, the "dry" leader of California.

FARMERS' ASSOCIATION MEET

Officers Elected—Wage Scale For Farm Labor Adopted

The Somerset County Agricultural Association met last Saturday afternoon in the Court House and the following officers were elected: President, C. C. Gelder; vice-presidents, M. F. Carver and E. B. Lankford; secretary, C. Z. Keller; treasurer, John B. Roberts.

This association will be governed by a county board of directors as follows: Messrs. Howard Anderson, M. F. Carver, Lewis Chamberslin, Herald Cullen, C. C. Gelder, Albert Fitzgerald, Charles Fontaine, Paul Gunby, E. J. Hall, E. Frank Jones, W. A. Long, E. E. Matthews, John Roberts, Chas. Speights and Albert Sudler.

At this meeting a wage scale for farm labor in the county was established. The wages for farm labor in this county for the season of 1920 was adopted by the association and is as follows:

Ordinary day work, without board, $2.00; piece work by hour, without board, 20 cents; monthly labor, with board, $30.00; setting out tomato plants, 25 cents an hour; picking strawberries, 3 cents per quart; picking tomatoes, 4 cents per bushel in field, and 5 cents per bushel carried to head row; picking potatoes, plowed out, 20 cents per barrel; picking potatoes, after digger, 15 cents per barrel; under 40 barrels yield to the acre, a bonus of 5 cents per barrel to be paid; wheat threshing, 30 cents an hour, without board; cutting corn, 30 cents an hour, without board, or 15 cents a shock of 144 hills; saving fodder, 30 cents an hour, without board; husking corn, standing, 20 cents an hour or 8 cents per bushel basket; husking corn, shock, 5 cents per bushel basket, tie and shock fodder.

Robertson Replies to Crabbe

Mr. Hilton W. Robertson, Democratic candidate for the nomination for Congress on May 3rd, had this to say last week: "I notice by the letters sent throughout the Eastern Shore that G. W. Crabbe, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, has asked the Democratic voters to defeat me for Congress at the primaries, and in the letter congratulates the people of the Eastern Shore on the dry record of the present Republican Congressman.

"I met Mr. Crabbe on the train, going to Baltimore, in the presence of other gentlemen, and he asked me how much beer I was going to let the people of the Eastern Shore have if I were elected. I told him that they could have as little or as much as they wanted, that it is up to them, I was not their keeper even though he professed to be their guardian. I may add that if the people of the Eastern Shore send me to Congress I will represent them.

"Mr. Crabbe has made the issue clear; namely, government by the Anti-Saloon League or government by the people.

"I will be controlled by the citizenship of the Eastern Shore if I am successful in the nomination and election. "In the letters that the Anti-Saloon League have sent out they have endeavored to humiliate several members from the Eastern Shore counties from their vote in the last legislature.

"It seems that Mr. Crabbe has been well trained in the former method used by the 'Anderson regime.' It took our mutual good friend, the Hon. Jesse D. Price, of Wicomico County, to put to route William H. Anderson and his system after that memorable occasion in Salisbury some years ago, and now I ask that the voters of the Eastern Shore put their stamp of disapproval on the present methods on May 3rd.

State Council Jr. O. U. A. M. Officers.

A banquet at Odd Fellows Hall, Baltimore, last Wednesday night closed the two-day session of the annual convention in conjunction with the fiftyth anniversary of State Council of Maryland, Junior Order United American Mechanics. Before the dinner 500 members were initiated into the order. The election and installation of officers occupied most of the morning session at the Temple, 100 North Paca street.

J. W. Johnson, of Baltimore, was elected State councilor in place of J. W. Carver; C. N. Satterfield was elected vice-councilor to succeed Mr. Johnson. Other officers selected are: W. S. Kaufman, of Baltimore, assistant secretary; W. P. Wright, Baltimore, treasurer; S. M. Moore, Washington county, conductor; L. T. Truitt, Pittsylvania, warden; Thomas Reed, Allegany county, inside sentinel, and Edgar Mercer, outside sentinel. M. R. Etchison, of Frederick, was elected State chaplain.

Baltimore was chosen as the meeting place for the next convention.

The committee to canvass in the interest of the local fire equipment will meet at the Auditorium tomorrow (Wednesday) evening at 7.30 o'clock to arrange final details and start their work.

TORNADO HITS THREE STATES

Death Toll 155—Property Damaged to Amount of Over $2,000,000

Reports from the tornado-stricken areas of Mississippi, Alabama and Tennessee placed the number of fatalities resulting from last Tuesday's storm at 155, nine less than first reported. The later reports told of hundreds of injured and estimated the property damage at more than $2,000,000.

The death toll in the three states follows: Mississippi—Meridian, 14; Neshoba county, 19; Glen, Alcorn county, 10; Aberdeen, Monroe county, 21; Bay Springs, Jasper county, 7; Ingomar, Union County, 6; Egypt, Chicawasco county, 5; Clayton, Winston county, 5; Cedar Bluff, Clay county, 3; Starkville, Jasper county, 6; Armory, Monroe county, 3; Russell's Bridge, Lauderdale county, 2; Keownville, Union county, 2.

Alabama—Marion county, 20; Killingsworth Cove, Madison county, 15; Nehama section, Colbert county, 4; Gurley, Madison county, 3; Little Cove, 2; Waco, Franklin county, 1.

Tennessee—Williamson county, 1. Communication with stricken areas has been gradually restored, but latest reports did not add to the death toll.

Appeals for aid were received from many small towns and settlements and Red Cross relief parties were organized at many points to carry food and tents into the stormwrept districts.

The greatest havoc wrought by the storm apparently was in the three Alabama counties north of Birmingham. The tornado apparently struck first at Guin, Ala., and zigzagged through Northwestern Alabama, Western Mississippi and Southern Tennessee, where its force was spent.

It swept into Madison county, Alabama, from the southwest, just south of Lilly Flagg, and crashed over the mountain into Killingsworth Cove, leaving, besides the 15 known dead, more than a score of injured in its wake. Extensive property damage was done.

At Starkville, Miss., the tornado demolished the house of Will Moy, blowing the man and his two grandchildren half a mile away. All three were killed.

The two main buildings and the boys dormitory of the Jasper County Agricultural High School at Bay Springs, Mississippi were demolished. Professor Bryant, one of the principals, and Miss Moore, music teacher, were killed. The building and plant of the Bay Springs News were wrecked and a dozen more structures occupied by leading citizens were swept away.

Legislature Hits Oyster Industry

That the Legislature hit hard the oyster and crab industries of the Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries is shown in the official bulletin of the Conservation Commission. The Legislature failed to pass the bills advocated by the commission increasing the inspection tax on oysters from 1 cent to 2 cents per bushel, inspection tax of out-of-state-oysters from one-third of a cent to 1 cent, tonger's licenses from $3.50 to $5 annually, and providing an inspection tax on hard crabs of 5 cents per barrel, a tax of 5 cents per box on soft crabs, and an annual fish license with $2 as a minimum. If those bills had been passed they would have yielded an annual revenue of $61,850, according to estimates by the commission.

The proposed revenues were so arranged, says the commission, as to make an equitable and fair distribution among the various water industries and the citizens of the state who were directly engaged therein. The inspection taxes, producing more than three-fourths of the proposed increased revenue, would have entered into the cost of marketing the products, and would necessarily have been passed on to the ultimate consumer. Only the remaining fourth of the increased revenues would fall upon those engaged in catching the products which before being caught belonged to the state at large.

Was it not "fair play" to propose that those earning their livelihood out of these products should pay to the state at least enough to reimburse the state for the expense of maintaining its conservation department for the protection and upbuilding of these industries? asks the commission.

The storm centre of opposition to the proposed increases in the taxes was in Crisfield.

Farmers' Meetings This Week

The County Agricultural Association will hold farmers' meetings this week at the following places:

Jamestown, Thursday evening, April 28th, at 8 o'clock, in the hall.

Marion, Saturday afternoon, May 1st, at 2 o'clock, in the school house.

The farm wage scale adopted by the Agricultural Association at their meeting Saturday will be discussed, and it is urged that all farmers in these communities attend the meetings.

THOMAS WILL SPLIT THE JURY

No Decision Reached In The Circuit Court Last Week

The jury sitting in the case of Bruce Thomas and sisters against Frank G. Thomas to set aside the will of their brother, the late Joseph A. Thomas, failed to arrive at a verdict after deliberating nearly three hours. The jury was evenly divided. The members stated to the court that they did not believe they could reach an agreement. The estate is worth about $20,000. Trial case commenced Monday of last week and lasted until Tuesday afternoon, at which time the jury retired. The caveators were represented by Miles and Myers and Harry C. Dashiell of Princess Anne, and the caveatee by Gordon Tull, Henry G. Waters, L. Creston Beauchamp, of Princess Anne, and William Trickett Giles, of Baltimore.

The deceased, Joseph A. Thomas, whose will was in contest, formerly resided in Mt. Vernon district, and had been in bad health for about a year following influenza in 1918. He was admitted to Phipps Clinic, of the Johns Hopkins Hospital for treatment on November 29, 1919, and on December 6 executed the will in contest. He signed the will by his mark. The issue raised was that the testator was insane. Dr. Leslie B. Hohman, physician at Phipps Clinic, testified that Thomas at the time of his admission to the hospital had inflammation of the brain. He testified that Thomas was delirious on the day the will was made and did not know "time, person or place." Veasey Wilson, a brother-in-law of the deceased, testified that he visited Thomas the afternoon of December 6 and that Thomas did not know him. Mrs. Veasey Wilson, a sister of the deceased, testified that she visited her brother every day beginning with Sunday, Dec. 7th, and that he never recognized her or any one who was with her. Her brother, Frank Thomas, and her cousin, Jim Thomas, was with her and the sick man never recognized either of them. Bruce Thomas, a brother of the deceased, testified that he visited his brother many times, but that he never knew him.

To sustain the will the defendant put on the stand William H. Parker, an attorney of Baltimore, who prepared the will. Parker testified that he prepared the will from notes submitted to him by W. James Thomas, a cousin of the deceased. He said that after preparing the will in his office he took it over to Mr. Joseph Thomas, at Phipps Clinic, and read it to him paragraph by paragraph. He said the testator stated that the will was prepared exactly as he wanted it written. The notes handed to the attorney by James Thomas were in evidence, but did not show who was to be the executor of the estate. Parker admitted, on cross examination, that before the will was prepared James Thomas suggested that Frank Thomas, the defendant in the case, should be named as one of the executors and that he suggested that W. Trickett Giles should be the other executor.

W. James Thomas testified for the defense that he visited Joseph A. Thomas at Phipps Clinic on Tuesday, December 2nd, and that on that day the deceased dictated the notes by which his will was to be prepared. He testified in chief that he prepared the notes in evidence at the bedside of Joseph Thomas, but admitted, on cross examination, that he might have copied the papers in evidence from the original notes after he reached his home in Mt. Vernon the following day. He further testified that on this occasion Joseph Thomas directed him to have his will prepared by Mr. Giles, or Mr. Miles, and said that up to that time he had not seen Mr. Giles, but admitted, on cross examination, that before going to see the sick man that day he had consulted Mr. Giles about the preparation of this will. Before the will was prepared James Thomas testified that he and Frank Thomas came down to Princess Anne and consulted Joseph Thomas' attorney about his property and then returned to Baltimore on Saturday, December 6th. He said that Mr. Giles was at home sick on that day and that Mr. Parker, whose law office adjoins Mr. Giles' office, prepared the will. He also testified that on both of these occasions the sick man recognized him and appeared entirely normal and sound in mind. He said that on Saturday night, December 6th, he returned to his home in Mt. Vernon, and in rebuttal it was testified to by George H. Marsh, Sr., that the witness, Jas. Thomas, did not recognize him.

The defendant, Frank Thomas, and Mary G. Randolph, a witness to the will, testified that Joseph A. Thomas recognized them on the day the will was executed. A great many witnesses were placed on the stand by the defense to show that before going to Baltimore Joseph A. Thomas had stated how he wanted various items of his property left. The will creates a preference in favor of Frank Thomas and a member of Frank Thomas' family.

A Warning To Auto Owners

Several parties have been arrested for not having the lights on their automobiles properly displayed at night along the streets of Princess Anne, and have appeared before Justice J. Frank Miles for a hearing. In each case he has let the parties go, as they informed him that they were under the impression that they were complying with the law. Justice Miles has requested us to publish just what the law is in regard to lights, as hereafter all parties who are brought before him will be required to pay their fine. The automobile law, as pertaining to lights, follows:

"All motor vehicles in use on the public highways, excepting motorcycles, shall during the period of from one-half hour after sunset to one-half hour before sunrise, display two or more white or tinted lights, other than red, on the forward part of said vehicles, so placed as to be seen from the front, and of sufficient illuminating power to be visible at a distance of two hundred (200) feet in the direction in which displayed, and to reveal any person, vehicle or substantial object twenty-five feet ahead of the lamps, except when at rest it shall display at least one light, showing white to the front and red to the rear, carried to the left of the motor vehicle, visible from both front and rear for a distance of not less than two hundred feet. Said motor vehicle when in use shall also display on the rear a lamp so constructed and placed as to show a red light from the rear and throw a white light directly upon the rear registration marker and render the numerals thereon visible for at least twenty-five feet in the direction from which the vehicle is proceeding.

"Any person violating any of the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction subject to a fine of not less than five dollars ($5.00), nor more than fifty dollars ($50.00) for the first offense.

Victor Webster Killed By a Fall

While at work on one of the ships at the Baltimore Dry Docks Company last Tuesday morning, where he was employed as a carpenter. Mr. Victor Webster, 59 years old, residing at 530 Hanover street, Baltimore, was stricken with vertigo and falling 65 feet to the ground on his head, was almost instantly killed. He was taken to the Docks Hospital, where he was pronounced dead.

His remains were brought to his home, Mt. Vernon, last Wednesday night and funeral services were held in Asbury M. E. Church on Thursday afternoon, conducted by the Rev. W. H. Revelle. Mr. Webster is survived by his wife, who, before her marriage, was Miss Eva Young; one son, Mr. Barton Webster, of Salisbury, and one daughter, Miss Mable Webster, who resides with her mother at Mt. Vernon.

Court Proceedings.

The Circuit Court for Somerset County opened last Friday afternoon. Among the cases disposed of during the week were:

State vs. William Pryor. Indictment for keeping dog without license. Before jury. Not guilty.

State vs. George and William Denton. Indictment for larceny. Before jury. Not guilty.

State vs. William Bailey. Indictment for larceny. Before jury. Not guilty.

State vs. Herbert Powell. Indictment for larceny. Before jury. Not guilty.

State vs. George Bell. Indictment for carrying concealed weapons. Before court. Guilty and sentenced to pay fine of $25.00 and cost.

Congressman William M. Andrews, A. Stangle Marine and J. L. Kerr, all of Cambridge, Md., were visitors to Princess Anne last Thursday.

STILL TECHNICALLY AT WAR

Hostilities Ceased On Western Front Seventeen Months Ago.

America last Tuesday completed its third year of war. The United States on the third anniversary of its declaration of war against the Imperial German Empire finds itself technically at war, struggling for freedom from the snarls of Mars, despite the fact that hostilities ceased on the Western front nearly 17 months ago.

The treaty of Versailles, rejected by the Senate, is in the hands of President Wilson and with slight chance of any further action upon it in the near future. A resolution declaring the war at an end is before the House of Representatives, but it faces certain veto by the President.

World peace—one of the prime objects of the entrance of the United States into the war—appears to be only an idealistic hope for the future. The military intelligence division of the War Department has information of more than 20 wars which are raging throughout the world.

More than 60 wartime laws are still in force, 20 of which are considered of major importance to the everyday life of the American people. There are 17,633 American soldiers in Europe, more than 17,000 of these patrolling the conquered Rhine territory. Twenty-two vessels of the United States Navy, with a personnel of more than 3,000 men are permanently assigned to duty in European waters.

The gross National debt today is $24,698,671,000 and on April 6, 1917, it was $1,281,968,000. The total cost of the war is estimated by the Treasury Department as $32,890,000,000.

Annual taxes to the extent of approximately $4,000,000,000 are being paid by the American people to wipe out the war debt. There is little hope of a downward revision of taxes during the present year. Secretary of the Treasury Houston has expressed the opinion that war taxation must continue for nearly twenty years longer.

The United States is entering upon a military and naval program greater than ever before in its history. The Army reorganization bill calls for a standing army more than twice as great as that of April, 1917. Secretary of the Navy Daniels has urged Congress for a great expansion in the Navy.

The world war has ended, but war rages throughout the world. Records of the military intelligence division of the War Department shows that Soviet Russia is warring against Finland, Courland, Poland, Antislavist forces in the Caucasus, the Kuban Cossacks, Antislavist forces in Siberia, Ukraine, Japan and China; guerrilla warfare is being waged over Greek occupation of Turkey and over Italian occupation of Albania; Spain is making war against bandit tribes in Morocco; France is fighting bandits in Morocco; in Germany the Reichwehr troops are pitted against the Reds; Armenia is at war with the Turks, Kurds and Tartars; Great Britain is virtually at war with Irish factions and is making war against the Turks in Smyrna.

Three years ago the youth of the Nation aroused to the roll of the war drums. Today there are 48,900 graves of American soldier dead in France. More than 320,000 American men bear the scars of war. Nearly 5,000,000 more have war records. Victory was won. The fruits of this victory are admittedly a question of debate and opinion.

WILL AID ALL.

The Salvation Army, which won for itself such a warm place in our hearts by its splendid war work, is about to embark upon a new program—one of constructive service for every village and hamlet in Maryland.

Having begun its work in the city slums, the organization now plans to branch out and extend its helping hand to the small town and the isolated community.

In doing so it hopes to reach the source of many of the disquieting streams that flow continuously toward the great city. Social problems will be dealt with at their origin.

The Army will reply for success in this movement on thousands of advisory boards made up from the best elements of the remote communities—public-spirited citizens, who will co-operate with the central organization in remedying such problems as juvenile delinquency, dependency and poverty.

Thus by curbing the stream before it grows into a torrent, the new program aims at prevention rather than cure. The wayward girl who runs away from the small town, lured by the city's cabaret and dance halls, or with the desire to hide her shame will be reached at the starting point.

The Salvation Army has always battled against sorrow and despair in the front lines, and from its long experience has developed the proper method of extending help. If it can enlarge its influence without interference with the existing relief agencies, if it can prevent human waste before preventative measures are too late, it will be doing a great service for humanity.

The new work deserves the support of every progressive citizen of the smaller communities, and its progress will be watched with interest.

Remember the Marylander and Herald is now $1.50 a year, in advance.

Edith Logan vs. Henrietta Johnson and Sarah Johnson
No. 3334 Chancery. In the Circuit Court for Somerset County.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree for the sale of certain real estate situate in said Somerset county, of which Denard Johnson, late of Somerset county, deceased, died seized and possessed.

The bill states that the said Denard Johnson departed this life during or about the year eighteen hundred and ninety-six, intestate, leaving surviving him a widow, Sarah Lem Johnson, who has since died, and the following children and grandchildren as his sole heirs at law, to wit:

(1) The defendant, Henrietta Johnson, a daughter, who is of full age and is married, and resides in said Somerset county. (2) A son, John A. Johnson, who departed this life during the year nineteen hundred and nineteen, unmarried, and intestate, and leaving no children or descendants. (3) A son, Isaiah Johnson, who died during the year nineteen hundred and fourteen, intestate, leaving no widow, but leaving as his sole heir at law, a daughter, the defendant, Sarah Johnson, who is of full age and resides in said Somerset county. (4) The plaintiff, Edith Logan, a granddaughter of the said Denard Johnson, being the only child of Mary Ann Logan, a daughter of the said Denard Johnson, who died before her said father, the said Edith being of full age and unmarried, and residing in Northampton county, State of Virginia.

That the said Denard Johnson in his lifetime and at the time of his death was seized and possessed of certain real estate situate in Lawson's Election District in said Somerset county, which said real estate is now held by your oratrix and the said defendants as tenants in common; that the said real estate is not susceptible of partition or division among the parties entitled to interests therein without material loss or injury to said parties, and that in order to make division thereof it will be necessary that the said real estate be sold and the proceeds of said sale divided among your oratrix and the said defendants, according to their respective rights and interests.

It is thereupon this 5th day of April, nineteen hundred and twenty, ordered by the Circuit Court for Somerset county, in Equity, that the plaintiff, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in said Somerset county once in each of four successive weeks before the 14th day of May, nineteen hundred and twenty, give notice to the said Sarah Johnson, for whom three successive subpoenas have been issued out of this Court and returned non est, of the object and substance of this bill warning her to be and appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 31st day of May next, to show cause, if any she has, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

Just Where and How
to be Spent?

A businesslike Answer to a businesslike Question

THIRTY denominations cooperating in the Interchurch World Movement have budgeted their needs. No business could have done it more scientifically.

They have united to prevent the possibility of duplication or waste. At least a million dollars will be saved by the fact that thirty individual campaigns are joined in one united effort.

Each denomination has arranged its budget under six

1 FOR THE CHURCH'S WORK
AT HOME. A score of millions come under this head. Consider only one.
Five and a half million people in the United States cannot even read and write the English language. Who is to carry forward this vast work of Americanization if the church does not?

2 FOR HOSPITALS AND HOMES.
Every year thousands of men and women seriously ill are turned away from Church hospitals because of lack of room. The children's homes are compelled to turn away more children than they can receive.

3 FOR HIGHER EDUCATION. Of the 450,000 American students in institutions of higher grade, one-half are in institutions founded and supported by the Churches. Many of these institutions have had no great endowment campaigns, but their needs are just as pressing as the needs of larger schools; and you have only to read their list of alumni and alumnae to measure the value of their contribution to America.

Each denomination has its own detailed budget, and will administer its own funds. Your pastor has copies of the budget; examine them for yourself. In the week of April 25th-May 2nd you will be given your opportunity to help. You can do it with the full satisfaction of knowing that every dollar of your gift has its post assigned to it in advance.

Every dollar for better America and a better world.
When your church calls on you give—and give with your heart as well as your pocket-book.

Printers' Fun.

"There never was any variety in this bill of fare," growled the pessimistic patron.

"You forget the typographical errors, sir," replied the facetious waiter.

"What?"

"We have a new lot every day, sir, and, upon my word, some of them are most amusing."

A Merciful Judge.

"Judge, I wish you'd put me on probation."

"How long did I sentence you for?"

"One year. But I want to get married."

"You wish me to substitute for a sentence of one year a sentence for life? That would be unconstitutional."

Personal Pets.

"Every man is entitled to his opinion."

"Yes," replied Senator Sorghum;
"the same as a man is entitled to a composite breed of dog. It may be nothing to be proud of, but it's his if he wants to hold on to it."

Gay Young America.

"I don't care for the young man, Suppose you are making a mistake in marrying him?"

"Well, if I am, you'll supply me with a divorce fund, won't you, dear old popsy?"

Contrary Act.

"I am not surprised to hear she is an advanced spiritualist. She is a woman who always goes to an extreme."
"Is she? I thought she went to a medium."

True to Life.

Photographer—Try to look pleasant,

Wife of Victim—Don't ask him to do

Merely Descriptive.

pecunious."

"Then he oughtn't to be insulted if any one calls him a poor fish."

Many Blushes.

"I enjoy these old-fashioned husking bees."

"Red ears mean kisses, eh?"
"Yes, and kisses mean red ears."

TUESDAY MORNING, APRIL 27, 1920

Some people won't clean up as their places would immediately get dirty again. That is what the pig said.

In spite of all this enthusiasm for daylight saving very few people call for alarm clocks nowadays.

Some one asks what to do with old barrel hoops? Well, the girls need 'em all to make their new style skirts stand out.

The folks who raised overall prices from $2 to $6 when overall clubs were formed ought to have an intelligent idea as to what causes high prices.

While some of the citizens of Somerset county sit on their shady porches and chat the cost of living, others don't say much but get the spade and prepare to raise some vegetables.

Women folks supposed to be spending their time preparing themselves to vote intelligently next fall, but the magazines and newspapers seem to be printing just as much fashion news as ever.

THE EDUCATIONAL CRISIS

The American people have always believed in education. Their theory of community life is built on the idea of giving every child a chance to learn, so that government and society shall be based on a foundation of popular intelligence.

Though the alien population has been badly neglected, yet the theory of universal opportunity has been fairly well carried out as regards the children. But a situation has now arisen as the result of which more than 30,000 schools are without teachers. The children therefore are idle and deprived of their American birthright. This condition threatens the most fundamental elements of National welfare.

The United States Commissioner of Education has issued a call to a National conference to meet May 19th to 21st to consider this situation. The governor and chief school officer of each State are among those included.

Each delegate invited should make every effort to be present so that a body shall be assembled so powerful that it will be able to lead public opinion and get things done. The difficulty, of course, is caused by the shortage of teachers, due to low pay and the competition of other callings. But whatever the cost the schools must not be permitted to suffer.

The children must be educated if they are to do good work in the world and govern their country successfully. Closed schools mean children running wild and growing up to idle and careless habits. Money saved by scripping the schools is poor economy. Whatever the rest of the country does here in Maryland education must be kept up to the old standards.

AMERICAN DAY

The first day of May has had varied suggestions. Years ago May Day was a picturesque rural festival, when children sought flowers and pretty girls dressed up as Queen of the May.

Then it became moving day in the cities, when the renter packed his pots and pans on the moving van, seeking better quarters and usually jumped from frying pan into fire.

As the world has moved on and modern economic life, taken on more intense and passionate forms, May Day has become a day for industrial and Socialist demonstration, particularly in Europe.

This country has a free and democratic life and opportunity for oppressed elements to make their power felt through lawful channels. Hence May Day demonstrations have not been serious. Still in present disturbed conditions there will be attempts to use the occasion to promote revolutionary sentiment.

The National Security League has asked patriotic people to observe May 1st this year as American Day. Parades are to be held as demonstrations of loyal spirit.

The word America conveys a thrill and sense of achievement and hope. It stands for humanitarian progress, for the open door of opportunity for all, for justice and the square deal. It believes that American principles will solve the difficulties of the times and right human wrongs through lawful and constitutional methods. It desires to rebuke all those whose impatience and visionary theories would plunge the country into anarchy and overthrow the protection which law and order alone can throw about the weak and defenseless.

Relieves Rheumatic Pains

"I am subject to rheumatism and when I have a spell of it one or two applications of Chamberlain's Liniment relieve the pain and makes rest and sleep possible. I would not think of going to bed without it," writes Mrs. C. O. Owsen.

TRADING AND PRODUCING

Many people are natural-born traders. When other boys were raising chickens or tending gardens, thus actually producing something, the traders were swapping jackknives out back of the schoolhouse. They had the smart idea of picking up something for less than it was worth and selling it for all they could get.

It seems a rather easy thing to keep watch of the stock and produce markets and pick up something selling at a low price, reaping a big unearned profit when the next rise comes. Unfortunately the rise in that particular article is likely never to come. If it was selling low it probably had inherent defects which the insiders knew.

A man who gets that particular bug in his system finds it difficult to throw off. He is apt to neglect his own business while he dabbles in schemes and ventures. If he doesn't play the stock market he may get interested in purely speculative schemes in real estate or food products. In most cases he does not add anything to production.

In one sense, all business is speculative. Every purchase involves taking chances. But legitimate trade, such as is done by the stores here in Princess Anne perform the necessary function of distribution. There is a lot of work in getting stuff from the mills and farms to the users and if distributed with a reasonable degree of economy, it is productive work.

The public rebels against the toll levied by those who merely speculate. Before long means will be found to eliminate much of this needless tax. The real trader would better learn to perform some real service of production or economical distribution or he will find his occupation gone.

They Speak Well of It

"I frequently hear Chamberlain's Cough Remedy praised by friends and acquaintances which only tends to strengthen my good opinion of it," writes Mrs. Fred Arter, Zanesville, Ohio. Try it when you have a cough or cold and see for yourself what an excellent medicine it is.

People Are Thinking For Themselves, Congressional Candidates Discover

Long Content To Leave Politics To Politicians, Voters Now Demand To Be Shown.

Volstead Act An Issue Raised By People Themselves, Who Insist That It Be Met.

"If he has done nothing else, this man Robertson has at least made the people of the Eastern Shore forget factional political lines and think for themselves."

This is the way one shrewd politician expressed himself the other day about Eilton W. Robertson's campaign for Democratic nomination from the First Congressional District of Maryland.

But that is not the real story. The fact is that the citizens of the First Congressional District of Maryland, like the citizens of the United States everywhere, are thinking for themselves and Robertson was quick to recognize it.

Not only was the Wicomico business man alert to the signs of the times, but he is the only candidate for Congress on either party ticket with courage enough to meet the issues which the people have "put up."

Met Issue Squarely.

As far as already been told in these columns during the past few weeks, Robertson threw his hat into the political arena as a candidate for the Democratic nomination to Congress not because of any particular issue then to be faced, but because the people of the lower counties who knew him as an able and successful business man and as one who had taken a prominent part in the election campaign of Governor Ritchie, regarded him as the sort of man they ought to have as their representative in Congress—and he responded to their call.

No sooner, however, had Robertson announced his candidacy and started out to meet the voters of the counties where he was not so well known, than he was faced everywhere with the question as to how he stood on the new prohibition enforcement act. People were not asking simply "Is he a good Democrat?" or "Are the leaders for him?" as they used to do before the War. The income tax, the excess profits tax and prohibition enforcement made them realize how intimately the Federal Government can touch every man.

These men of the Eastern Shore, aroused to the fact that their votes meant something to themselves and their families, that their votes were not something to use merely to please some acquaintance or political worker, were asking questions. They wanted to know what Robertson had done that would qualify him for the high position of National legislator. They wanted to know how he stood on the Volstead Act and the drastic features of the prohibition enforcement law. They asked his views on other National policies. They demanded that their questions be answered before they would commit themselves.

MEETS VOTERS VIEWS

H. W. ROBERTSON, of Wicomico Co.

Robertson's record was an open book and his friends have been making it public to the readers of this newspaper every week for the past month. They have also been distributing the story in leaflet form to as many voters as they could personally meet. The record clearly justified the candidate in his aspirations.

Then Robertson, being a "good Democrat," declared that upon all National issues of a political nature he would stand upon the platform to be erected by the National Democratic party at San Francisco. He frankly and fully discussed many of these issues with the voters and his views upon economical administration of the Government, taxation, finance and compensation for those who served in the War everywhere have met with popular approval.

"Wet Or Dry?"
But upon the question of "wet or dry," upon which there was doubt whether the Democratic party would recognize the issue in the National convention, Robertson did not hesitate. He said:

"Among the questions upon which the voters of the Eastern Shore want to know how their next Representative in Congress is going to stand, one has to do with the Volstead Prohibition Enforcement Act."

"In order that there may be no doubt about my position on this question, I now state it as follows:

"If I am honored with the vote of the Eastern Shore, I shall work and vote in Congress for a change in the Volstead Act that will permit the manufacture and use of beer, domestic wine, cider and home-made wines and similar beverages."

"I am against the saloon. I believe in temperance in all things. I have never taken a drink of any kind of liquor in my life, but I believe the Volstead Act interferes as seriously with the personal liberties of the people as the saloon interfered with their morals, health and efficiency."

Robertson did not raise the issue. It was presented to him and he met it fairly and squarely. That he has met it to the satisfaction of the plain people his campaign leaves no doubt. The following letter from William H. DeLacy, Mount Pleasant Farm, Centerville, is a sample of the kind of reception the Wicomico man is getting everywhere. Mr. DeLacy writes:

"Having seen the announcement of your candidacy for Congress, and being very much pleased at your open stand before the people by your stated publicity that you favor a change in the Volstead Act so as to permit the manufacture of beer, domestic wines, etc., and the permitting of their use, thereby giving to the people of Maryland the freedom that belongs to them as free men of America, me and my friends will give you our hearty support."

In a word, the people are awake and Robertson has been meeting them on their own ground. He has demonstrated in this campaign, long before election time, his capacity for knowing what the people want, for dealing directly with them and thus for REPRESENTING them.

That's why the leaders everywhere, as the observant Baltimore newspapers are pointing out, are lending Robertson their aid and encouragement in his fight for the Congressional nomination.

THE DOUBLE LIFE

By ALVAH J. GARTH

Copyright, 1930, Western Newspaper Union

For good or bad the world was all before him—no man ever more solemnly realized that a parting and a starting was at his choice. He stood just outside an isolated dilapidated hut and faced the dawning day. Its rosy glow, the waking birds and gently sighing breeze wrought influences of thought and decision clear, comprehensive and abiding.

His past had been blighting and the present uncertain. Only to the faithless future could he look as to a new birth. He was nobody—worse than that, a discharged convict. His real name was a menace. He must lose it and begin anew, go back recklessly among the old avenues of crime, or divest himself of every vestige of his natural personality and assume a new identity.

The specious forces of evil beckoned him to the companionship that had sent him to five years in the penitentiary, and he had paid his debt.

Looking back two weeks, he saw himself freed from prison with time allowed for good behavior. Looking back a week, he saw himself entering this same deserted hut, seeking a night's shelter, to find within, lying on a bed of straw, a well favored young man about his own age. This latter tossed restlessly in fever and delirium, and from his ravings John Blake gathered that he was a person addicted to drink and drugs, had fallen by the wayside and his weakened vitality was fast oozing away. A humane and new impulse had been born into John Blake the last two years of his imprisonment through the friendly ministrations of the penitentiary chaplain. For three days and nights he acted as nurse and provider out of the little store he had earned in prison through overtime, securing food and medicine from the village nearby. The morning of the fourth day the invalid had died. His pillow had been an old valise, but it contained only a few articles of clothing and letters, and from these Blake gleaned that his name was Arthur Gride, and that his former home was in Canada.

One of the letters was evidently from the uncle of Gride and it told the whole history of that blighted life. It ran: "You have forfeited the esteem of every friend, and relative through your evil, dissipated ways. They and I have disowned you. I offer you one last chance. I enclose you a letter to an old friend. I have written him telling him of your frailties and past. He will give you work. If you make a man of yourself, he will be a staunch helper. If not, he will speedily send you about your business."

The other letter was directed to "Adam Marshall" at a little city in a western state, and it simply introduced "Arthur Gride, whom I have already written you about."

When the poor wanderer was dead Blake went to the village and told of his finding the man and of his caring for him. They buried him decently in the little country cemetery, and now, after passing a last lonely night at the hut, John Blake stood at the parting of the ways.

Two months later, assuming the name of the dead man, Blake was installed at Leesville as an employee of Adam Marshall in the grain and feed business. The latter was old and infirm, but he gave the pretended nephew of his friend every chance to make good. Within a year the new Blake had completely won the confidence of his patron. When the latter died his family later engaged him as manager of the business. Trusted and beloved by everybody, a man among men, the new Arthur Gride became a citizen of importance.

It was about this time that a young woman came to Leesville and after making many inquiries about Arthur Gride settled down into seclusion. One day when Blake left the city on a train she covertly followed him. It was the anniversary of the death of the real Arthur Gride, and the man who had assumed his identity went to the little settlement where he was buried. He placed a wreath upon his grave and sat lost in reverent thought. He looked up, puzzled and startled, as a shadow crossed the spot. The mysterious woman stood beside him. He recalled having seen her once or twice at Leesville. Her accusing face and manner made a really comely face appear dark and forbidding.

"I have followed you day after day," she spoke, "to find the man you pretended to be. I am the sister of Arthur Gride. You are not he. Where is he?"

"There," spoke John Blake, pointing to the grave. "His sister? Then you shall know all. I come here because of him, I have redeemed myself and have honored his name."

Leesville Gride sank to the ground, the tears falling fast, all save tears leaving her face as she listened to the story of the redeemed man. Then she told of how, after the death of her father and mother, the hard-hearted uncle had consented to tell her that her last brother had become a man of importance at Leesville.

In natural sorrow for the poor unfortunate, these two mingled their tears. Suddenly brought together by a common tie, they should have shared the same fate. They should have known that they should have shared the same fate.

KURDS A PRE-ARYAN RACE?

Fierce Warriors Have Been Distinguished for Their Turbulence Since Days of Xenophon.

Perhaps the most interesting thing about the Kurds is that at least one ethnologist has said of them that they might easily be taken for Germans in color of hair, skin and eyes. They are one of the races which have provided plenty of speculation, and they have been classed as of the Caucasian type, though one authority has described them as representing probably the aboriginal race, pre-Aryan, which extended once over the whole of Armenia, Luristan and Kurdistan. It seems pretty certain that they are descendants of those Carduchi whom Xenophon mentions as harassing the retreat of the Ten Thousand, and they still use the caves he mentions for their winter quarters. Whatever their race, there is no doubt about their turbulence. They have the air of fierce warriors, and they live up to their appearance, having given endless trouble to the Persians at one time or another. But they have a reputation for honor as well as courage, and, just as the Romanoffs chose their personal guards from among the fierce Cossacks, so the Persian shahs have been accustomed to confide themselves more willingly to Kurdish officers. At one time or another the Kurds have been the scourge of Armenia, and have committed some terrible excesses there in their forays.

NOT ALWAYS A DANGER SIGN

Mistaken Idea that Spitting Blood Invariably Denotes the Presence of Tuberculosis.

There is no need to become alarmed if one spits blood. It is not, as so many think, a sure sign of consumption, for the overwhelming majority of tuberculosis patients never have this symptom, and the blood may come from the larynx, pharynx, teeth, stomach or even the small intestine.

Dr. H. Rabinowitch of New York points out in the Medical Journal that when we consider the great size of the arteries that enter the lung and their minute ramification on the surface of the delicate air cells we should not wonder if blood is sometimes coughed up from the lungs. Severe coughing or straining may easily break a small branch of one of these arteries.

Dr. Rabinowitch says the hemorrhage itself is of slight moment. If it comes from an aneurism, death is almost instantaneous; if it comes from a congested area and is limited, it is in some ways beneficial by relieving the congested area. It has another good effect—making a recalcitrant patient obey the doctor's orders.

The treatment is directed to the cause and not to the hemorrhage.

Elf Arrows.

Elf arrow is a name given to a triangular piece of flint, formerly used as an arrowhead by early inhabitants of Great Britain and Europe generally. It was once believed that these bars of flint were shot by elves or invisible beings at cattle or men to bewitch them, hence the name. Cattle dying suddenly in the fields were said to have been struck by an elf arrow; and this superstition still lingers in Ireland at the present day. Elf arrows set in silver, were frequently worn as talismans, and were considered most efficacious as preventives against poison and witchcraft. They are also called elf bolts, elf darts, elf shot and elf stones.

Mocking Bird is a Fighter.

The mocking bird is the only bird I have ever seen drive away a cat; he will peck and dart about so fast and bewilderingly that the cat becomes confused, and seems not to realize that her assailant is a mere bird, but hurries off in a panic to escape such a dangerous foe. He even distracts the clumsy old turkey buzzard, who has lighted down in the yard to investigate the garbage can to see if by any chance the cover has been left off, and the buzzard, like the cat, never tries to defend itself, but sidesteps and dodges and finally flees from its small enemy—never seeming to think that one sweep of its big wing would grind it to dust.—Exchange.

Land Worse Than Worthless.

The desert of Gobi in central Asia, where bone-dryness has been the fashion for thousands of years, is also a difficult place to obtain a drink. Its largest streams either vanish in the sand or empty into salty lakes. Caravan routes from China to Russia are still important trade channels, for the Russians insist that a sea voyage destroys the flavor of tea. This great arid waste is 1,800 miles wide and 400 miles deep and the almost rainless years since antiquity have parched its sands to the dryness that drifts in grating sand waves and snuffs out vegetation with its hot breath.

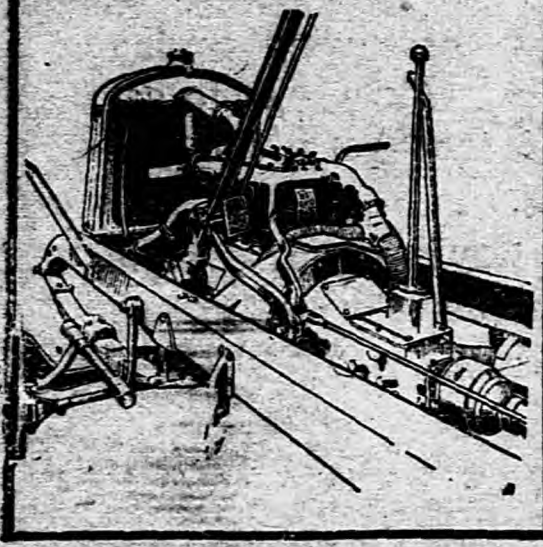

Many Neglect Their Heirs.

One who is at all curious in such matters cannot fail to be amazed at the consequent fashion in which men transmit the money that has represented the work and savings of their lives. Death, like birth, is an inevitable fact in human experience; yet the average man lives as though he were to be the one exception to the common rule and might confidently expect to live forever. In nine cases out of ten he does not take even the rudimentary precaution of making a will.—Collier's Weekly.

Valuable Material From Tree.

"Blackboy" is a name commonly applied to the peculiar grass-trees (Xanthorrhoea) of western Australia, which grow to a height of 7 to 10 feet, and have thick blackened trunks with terminal tufts of wiry, grass-like leaves. The different species yield an abundance of fragrant resin. In experiments by Henry Rowley, formerly city analyst of Perth, the materials obtainable from these plants were studied, and methods were devised for extracting and treating the gum, pitch and fiber. The company now formed for developing the products commercially has provided an equipment of retorts, furnaces, condensers, receiving tanks, etc., sufficient for utilizing a considerable quantity of what has been a vegetable waste. Among the useful substances obtained are tars free from harmful acids, tar-paulin dressings, rope tar and sanitary tar, lacquers, steam and refrigerating pipe lagging, stains and paints, pitches for marine insulating, phenol, benzol, alcohol, coke, potash, and pyrogenous acid; and dyes, perfumes, formalin and various varnishes are expected to follow.

His Prior Right.

A major in the stevedore regiment employed one of his men to take care of his horses and do little chores around the yard. One day Sam came into the major's office, and he was some agitated man. After he had saluted he exclaimed, "Major, I want to be relieved from dis hyar job right now!"

The major asked him why he didn't want the job any more.

"Major, that thar job is good enuff, but I just can't seem to get along with yo' all's wife. Seems every time I goes down to that thar house she puts me to doin' all kinds of chambermaid work and a-naggin' at me all a thar time, too."

Then it was the major's turn. "Sam, I've been living with that woman for thirty-odd years now, and if there is going to be anyone relieved it's going to be me."—William Rea Black, U. S. A., in Judge.

FERTILIZERS

What They Do for Crops

Fertilizers are carriers of plant food in an available and concentrated form. They contain the three elements of plant food most needed in crop production—nitrogen, usually referred to as ammonia; phosphorus, known to the buyer as available phosphoric acid, and potassium, known as potash. Each of these elements performs definite functions in plant growth.

There is no mystery about the action of fertilizers in plant growth. Nitrogen, or ammonia, causes quick and vigorous growth of stalk or stem. Available phosphoric acid helps fill the grain or fruit and hastens ripening. Potash strengthens the straw or stalk and helps to pump and fill the grain and fruit.

For the past 33 years Tilghman's Fish Fertilizers have been the standard plant food in this territory. When you use Tilghman's Fish Fertilizers you are guaranteed high proportions of these three vitally important plant foods: ammonia, phosphoric acid and potash. Take no chances on the outcome of your crops by gambling with unknown brands of fertilizers when you are guaranteed a high production fertilizer when you use Tilghman's.

Do not take a chance. Buy Tilghman's Fish Fertilizers and "B" guaranteed.

Smith's Bill Amended For Road
Representative Walter Smith last Wednesday brought about the adoption of amendments to the District Appropriation bill providing for Government appropriations to build a number of roads in the District connecting with the Maryland road system. These include $21,000 for the improvement of Bladensburg road, connecting with the Beltsville boulevard; $21,000 for Alabama avenue and $9,000 for Thirty-Eighth street, connecting with Prince George's county road, and $98,000 for Connecticut avenue, connecting with the Maryland road at Chevy Chase Circle. The first three appropriations had been originally proposed by Representative Mudd of Maryland.

Smith amendments also were accepted providing that the children of civil employes of the Government living in Maryland and Virginia might attend Washington schools and providing for an appropriation of $218,000 for a school building at Takoma Park, on the Maryland line.

Tooth "Bare" in Night
Minnie is fond of her infant brother and delights in tickling his lips to hear him coo, and make him smile, and one day while amusing herself this way her little brother showed a tooth that had protruded in the night. She called to her mother: "Come, see the tooth what was born in brother's mouth last night."

ENDORSED AT HOME

Such Proof As This Should Convince Any Princess Anne Citizen

The public endorsement of a local citizen is the best proof that can be produced. None better, none stronger can be had. When a man comes forward and testifies to his fellow citizens, addresses his friends and neighbors, you may be sure he is thoroughly convinced or he would not do so. Telling one's experience when it is for the public good is an act of kindness that should be appreciated. The following statement given by a resident of Princess Anne adds one more to the many cases of Home Endorsement which are being published about Doan's Kidney Pills. Read it.

W. T. Gibbons, farmer, Route No. 4, Princess Anne, says: "I was troubled with backache and mornings I felt tired out on account of losing a lot of sleep. When I got up after sitting, pains shot through me like a knife-thrust. My kidneys were acting too frequently, making me get up at night. The kidney secretions were highly colored and I was in a bad way in general. I got Doan's Kidney Pills at O. A. Jones' Drug Store, and after taking two boxes I was rid of kidney troubles."

Price 60c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mrs. Gibbons had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfgs., Buffalo, N. Y.
